LONDON ACTS TO BEAT DEBT

DIVERSION LIMIT IN ST. LAWRENCE TREATY FOUGHT

Greatest Objection to Ratification.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The senate hearings on the St. Lawrence seaway treaty will be resumed tomorrow under circumstances indicating that the section of the pact restricting the diversion of water at Chicago will prove one of the greatest stumbling blocks to its early ratification.

WILLIAM E. BORAH.

Up to date opposition to this section has been expressed not only by Mississippi valley states but by representatives of eastern groups opposed to any move looking toward the internationalization of Lake Michigan or the enlarging of Canadian control over the great lakes system.

While this week's program calls for the appearance before the senate foreign relations subcommittee of proponents of the treaty, it was learned today that spokesmen for the opposition also are to be given an opportunity to present additional testimony before congress convenes.

Diversion Question Heard.

According to senators on the subcommittee representatives of the Mississippi valley probably will appear to fight the section of the treaty limiting the diversion of water at Chicago, a move which threatens the usefulness of the lakes to the gulf waterway.

Chairman William E. Borah [Rad Rep., Idaho] has disclosed to other members of the committee his intention of looking thoroughly into the treaty provisions which gives Canada jurisdiction over Lake Michigan.

The fact that Elihu Root, secretary of state at the time of the 1909 boundary treaty with Canada was negotiated, flatly refused to allow that pact to include Lake Michigan as a boundary water, is certain to play a leading part in the committee's investigation of the treaty. At that time Mr. Root advised the senate foreign relations committee that he had "very carefully guarded the terms of the treaty in order to exclude Lake Michigan."

Root's Views on Diversion.

Discussing the Chicago diversion and Lake Michigan, Secretary Root said:

"We are now taking 10,000 cubic second feet a second out of Lake Michigan at Chicago and I refused to permit them to say anything in the treaty about it. I would not permit them to say anything about Lake Michigan. I would not have anything in the treaty about it."

"You think," a senator asked, "that there can never be any international question as to whether the term 'tributary waters' includes Lake Michigan?"

"I am perfectly sure of it," answered Secretary Root. "Article 2 of the treaty makes it perfectly certain that Lake Michigan is not to be regarded as a boundary water."

The 1909 treaty divided the flow of water for power at Niagara falls allowing Canada 36,000 cubic second feet and the United States 20,000. Secretary Root said that one reason he had not opposed the unequal division of water lay in the fact that this country was diverting 10,000 cubic second feet of water at Chicago.

Chicago Diversion Equalized.

The hearings on the 1909 treaty clearly indicated that Canada was given the larger share of the water divided at Niagara falls for power purposes to make up for the 10,000 foot diversion at Chicago. The state department, however, in negotiating the 1932 St. Lawrence treaty arranged for cutting down the Chicago diversion but made no move toward equalizing the unequal distribution of power at Niagara falls. This fact is expected to come up for discussion during the hearings.

The new treaty as it now stands provides that the water diverted at Chicago shall be limited to the 1,500 feet plus domestic pumpage allowed by the Supreme court decree issued in the Chicago sanitary district litigation with Wisconsin and other lake states. Although the Supreme court decree left the way open for legisla-

HENRY FORD HAS FAVORABLE DAY, PHYSICIANS SAY

"Crisis" Is Believed Close at Hand.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A bulletin issued at 11 o'clock tonight by the Ford hospital said that Henry Ford, operated upon yesterday for a strangulated hernia, "had a good day and his condition is satisfactory." The bulletin was issued by L. R. Peters, superintendent of the hospital.

A bulletin issued at 4:30 p. m. reads: "Mr. Henry Ford passed a favorable day; his pulse is 72 and his temperature is 100. His physicians state that during the hernia operation yesterday his appendix was removed and they are satisfied with his condition."

This bulletin was the first definite statement from hospital authorities that the multimillionaire motor car manufacturer's appendix was removed in the operation, which was performed at 5 p. m. yesterday by Dr. Roy D. Mc Clure, chief surgeon at Ford hospital.

Appendix Is Removed.

A spokesman for Mr. Ford today had said that "the tip of appendix" was "involved," but it had been revealed by other sources that the appendix had been removed, as well as the correction of the strangulated hernia condition.

Likewise, the information in the bulletin concerning the pulse and temperature of the wealthy patient was the first of that nature officially given during the day.

A few hours after the operation, however, it had been announced that Mr. Ford's pulse and temperature were normal.

Despite the optimistic tone of the physician's bulletins, it was said by authoritative professional sources that another 24 hours must elapse before Mr. Ford could definitely be considered well on the way to recovery.

Expect "Crisis" Today.

The usual history of patients who have undergone such strangulated hernia operations, it was pointed out is that the "crisis" usually occurs about 48 hours after the time of operation. In the case of Mr. Ford this period will be late tomorrow.

From a source which could not be quoted it was learned today that for nearly 24 hours prior to being taken to the hospital yesterday Mr. Ford had been under observation and that numerous blood counts had been taken. These, it was said, showed a progressive increase, indicating a probable infection.

New Type Anesthetic Used.

A new type of anesthetic, said to impose a minimum of strain upon the heart, was given Mr. Ford in his room before he was taken to the operating table. The operation required approximately 45 minutes, said to be about average for such cases. From the fact it was completed in less than an hour physicians not connected with it said the operation probably did not disclose any extraordinary or unexpected complications.

Flowers in great profusion came to the hospital today, but few, if any, of them were taken to his room. Meanwhile, at the Ford company offices in Dearborn, telegrams and cablegrams from all over the world poured in expressing sympathy and inquiry as to Mr. Ford's progress. Newspaper offices, the hospital and the Ford offices were flooded with telephone calls throughout the day.

POLICE FIRE ON 4,000 IN BULGARIA; RIOT OVER PACT

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A Reuter's dispatch said a number of persons were injured today in Sofia, Bulgaria, when police used bayonets and fired upon about 4,000 Nationalist demonstrators protesting against the treaty of Neuilly. A number were reported arrested.

[Under the treaty of Neuilly, following the world war, Bulgaria was disarmed, condemned to a heavy indemnity, and forced to cede considerable territory to Greece, Rumania, and Jugoslavia.]

Hold Protest Meeting.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Reports from Sofia, Bulgaria, said an indoor massmeeting was held there today to protest against the treaty of Neuilly, which disarmed and reduced the territory of Bulgaria after the world war. There were no reports of rioting. Police were reported to have forestalled a scheduled outdoor demonstration.

THERE'LL BE GAP IN COAST GUARD LINEUP TODAY

The men at the central coast guard station at the mouth of the river went about their work yesterday with more than the usual Sunday quiet. Their mascot, Buster, a collie, was dead.

Buster lost his life because of devotion to duty. Always first in boats on rescue missions, he was first the other day when a surf boat was being shoved into the water during an inspection drill. But this time Buster missed his footing and was crushed beneath the boat. He was taken to an animal hospital at 2011 Lincoln avenue. There he died early yesterday while Capt. John O. Anderson stood by in an all night vigil.

"We feel terrible and miss him," said Capt. Anderson last night. "He was our mascot. All the yachtsmen knew his familiar bark as they passed. Buster knew the routine of the station. He always went out on rescues, and he was always on hand at colors. At 8 every morning, when the men would stand at attention, Buster would be in line too—standing on his hind legs."

GROCER, FATALLY SHOT BY DEBTOR, KILLS ASSAILANT

Two men shot each other to death in Chicago Heights last night in a fight over a $50 grocery bill. The double killing occurred in the home of John Sposata, 1231 Wentworth avenue, a friend of both victims.

The victims were Samuel Liparota, 50 years old, a grocer at 412 East 22d street, Chicago Heights, and Louis Cinpini, 35 years old, a mechanic of 1125 5th avenue, Chicago Heights.

Cinpini owed the $50 bill and when he met the grocer in Sposata's home, Liparota demanded payment. Cinpini, the police were told, drew a gun and shot Liparota. As the grocer fell he drew his own revolver and shot Cinpini. The grocer died a few minutes later and Cinpini died in St. James' hospital, Chicago Heights.

12 ABOVE ZERO IN NEW YORK IS NOV. 27 RECORD

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—New York experienced the coldest Nov. 27 in 29 years today as the temperature fell to 12 degrees above zero. Two persons, a man and a woman died from exposure during the day, while shelters for the homeless were jammed to capacity.

The cold snap was even more severe in New England states, Boston recording a temperature of 8 above zero.

The chilly weather did not extend further south than Philadelphia which reported a low mark of 16 above zero.

Science Finds Amazon Race Among Fishes

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A race of female fishes which live and propagate independently of males of their kind has been found by Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, University of Michigan zoölogist.

All their young are females, and the offspring invariably "take after mother."

The discovery of these Amazonian creatures, scientists here say, may bring about some fundamental changes in scientific ideas of evolution. These queer animals belong to a group of tropical fish which give birth to their young alive instead of laying eggs. They have had the scientific name Mollienisia formosa, and fish of this genus are referred to commonly as mollies. They are first cousins of the guppies, which to some extent have replaced goldfish as household pets.

Two Species Interbreed.

Dr. Hubbs found that Mollienisia formosa is a hybrid between two other species, Mollienisia latipinna and Mollienisia sphenops. Experiments in the Michigan Museum of Zoölogy showed that "formosa" would mate with male sphenops with the same results. All the young were female "formosas."

From these tests Dr. Hubbs concluded he had found the first apparent case of parthenogenesis among vertebrates—offspring which have no true father.

The discovery gives biologists the first case of abundant occurrence in nature of a form of demonstrated hybrid origin, having nearly all the characteristics of a natural species. It is the first known occurrence of a race of vertebrates as females only, over a wide portion of its range.

Light on Evolution.

Mollies are small fish, usually not over an inch long. To scientists these viviparous fishes furnish valuable material for experimental evolution.

In the past there have been biologists who believed that hybridization plays a rôle in the process of evolution. Dr. Hubbs' discoveries about "formosa" may lead to evidence that modern animals in some cases developed from crosses of older species.

Austin Niblack Thrown from Horse During Hunt

Austin H. Niblack, broker, was slightly injured yesterday when he was thrown from his horse during the regular Sunday hunt at the Onwentsia Hunt club at Milburn. He went to his home at 1441 West Old Mill road, Lake Forest, where it was said he had received scratches on his knees and nose. The accident occurred when Mr. Niblack's mount, Sharpshooter, tripped over a wire. Mr. Niblack is master of the hounds at the club.

UNKNOWN MAN BEATEN TO DEATH IN HALLWAY

An unidentified man was found murdered this morning in a second floor hallway at 1112 North Clark street. He had been struck on the head with a club or similar instrument.

Police were called to the building twice. The first time Mrs. May Eckstein, who lives on the fourth floor, notified Clarence Barnes, son of the janitor, that she had heard the sounds of scuffling somewhere on a lower floor. Police investigated, but found no disturbance. Later Barnes made an inspection and found the murder victim.

The man was about 45 years old and fairly well dressed. His pockets were turned inside out, indicating that he had been robbed. He had 11 cents in his pockets. The only clew to identification was a pin in the lapel of his coat, issued by the Illinois Commercial Men's association. Police believe the man was the victim of jackrollers.

Sailing Ship Sinks; Bodies of 2 Sailors Washed Ashore

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Bodies of two members of the crew of the German sailing ship Herta Grube were found washed ashore today near the lightship Utgrunde, and it was believed the remaining two members of the crew went down with the ship. Airplanes were searching for traces of the ship after discovery of a wide patch of oil on the sea southwest of the lightship. The ship was believed sunk during a storm over the weekend.

Young Saxe Killer to Plead Guilty Today

When Bert Arnold, the 16 year old slayer of his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe of Riverside, is arraigned before Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court at 1 oclock this afternoon the reports of the alienists who examined him will be presented to the judge in support of a plea for mitigation of his sentence. The boy, it was announced Saturday, is to enter a plea of guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

BERT ARNOLD.

An examination of the alienists' reports reveals a striking similarity to the findings of the corps of alienists who examined Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb and testified at their trial for the murder of Robert Franks eight years ago. The alienists found Loeb and Leopold living in a dream world and building up fantasies just as they found young Arnold living in a mental world of his own creation.

One Noticeable Variation.

There is one noticeable variation between the Loeb-Leopold and the Arnold reports. The alienists found that Loeb and Leopold met at the age of 15 and founded an acquaintanceship which paved the way to their crime. There is no intimation in the reports on young Arnold that he formed some such acquaintanceship recently and thus developed the abnormality which led him finally to murder.

Investigators of the case have frequently asked the question: "Did Bert Arnold know some older man or did he form a friendship with some one of his own age which stimulated his mental vagaries?" A number of rumors have been circulated in Riverside, but no definite evidence gathered concerning these reports. Young Arnold, himself, in response to questions from the alienists, denied any such association.

Comments of Alienists.

During the trial of Loeb and Leopold the following extracts were read from a work by Drs. H. Douglas Singer and S. O. Krohn, which were regarded as applicable to the cases of the two murderers and also seem to apply to young Arnold:

"In school the abnormal youth often does extremely well. He is liable to be absorbed in books. Often school successes give rise to hopes of a brilliant future, incapable of realization because of the impossibility of effectively meeting reality.

"The stronger passions and feelings develop as the difficulties in expressing them become proportionately greater and there is an increasing tendency for the youth to dream rather than to react openly.

Outbreak Without Motive.

"The outbreak is sudden, unexpected, unplanned and apparently without motive, a truly impulsive and unconsidered act. The man's attitude towards the deed afterwards is without remorse. It is almost as though he fails to accept authorship. He is not a free agent and he apparently often experiences considerable relief after the act is performed. Yet he may retain full memory for the whole event.

"Sometimes, however, there is some clouding of consciousness with the extreme excitement and the memories then will be proportionately vague and incomplete."

Horner to Study Institutions.

Governor Elect Horner announced yesterday that he would make a study of the problem of handling mental defectives after he takes office. He said that in a recent inspection of state institutions he found them so crowded that patients were allowed to escape in order to make room for newcomers.

The case of James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 year old killer and rapist, who committed both his crimes after escaping from a state mental institution, has prompted law enforcing agencies to discuss the best means for protecting the public from this type of criminal.

RISE IN THAMES ALARMS LONDON; STREETS FLOODED

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The worst flood alarm riverside Londoners have experienced since January, 1928, when eleven persons drowned, occurred tonight, but passed without casualties. Some basements and low lying streets were flooded.

Extra police and special watchers were busy throughout the night checking the rise of water in the Thames river, ready to warn dwellers to quit their homes in case of necessity. Mothers took their children to safer places.

CABINET DRAFTS NATION'S REPLY TO U. S. DEMAND

Seeks United Front on Repudiation.

BULLETIN.

ATHENS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Replying to the request of the United States for $440,000, the interest due this month on the 1929 loan of $12,000,000, a Greek government note today said it could not be paid. The note pointed out that the loan, although made after the world war, was to finance the repair of war damages.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The four key men of the British government sat at 10 Downing street tonight to discuss a reply to Secretary of State Stimson's note requesting Great Britain to pay her war debt installment of $95,550,000 due on Dec. 15.

The question of payment or nonpayment, THE TRIBUNE understands, did not arise in the talks. Such a topic will not be discussed before a reply is dispatched to Washington, D. C., and an answer to that note is received in London.

Prime Minister MacDonald came back from Chequers at 4 o'clock this afternoon and by 6 o'clock was in consultation with Stanley Baldwin, president of the council; Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon.

Clutch at One Straw.

They clutched at the one straw in the Stimson note which seemed to have any buoyancy. That was the declaration that a good case against payment had not been made.

Treasury and foreign office experts were busy throughout the day preparing material to build up such a case. This material was available for tonight's discussions.

Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, was scheduled to have attended the meeting, but was out of the city. Apparently the discussion so far has been left to the "big four," and a complete cabinet assembly has not yet been called. It might be summoned tomorrow morning, but predictions that the British note will be dispatched to Washington tomorrow are not completely supported by any accurate information.

A National Retort.

In the first place all maneuvers indicated the "national government" intends to make its reply to the United States a national retort. It is indicated by sources close to the cabinet that certain persons must be consulted to secure the support of the entire country.

Sir Herbert Samuel, former home secretary, who led 30 Liberals out of the national government on Sept. 28, George Lansbury, leader of the Labor party opposition, and perhaps even James Maxton of the Independent Labor party will be consulted.

An expression of a united British front in the note to the United States will not be hard to secure. The Labor party has agitated for complete cancellation of all government obligations arising from the war for years.

Move to Default.

Astute political observers tonight question whether the fresh appeal to the national consciousness of Britain is a move designed to prepare the country for default. In the first place almost no effort would be needed in Britain today to convince the country that the payments should not be met. A strong bloc of Conservatives in parliament is agitating in that direction.

What is more likely is that the government wants the support of all parties, first for a united front against paying. Then, if that fails, the MacDonald government wants, it is indicated, to be in a position where it can state on authority of the entire country that the pledge must be met no matter what wreckage it works in Britain, the United States or anywhere else.

Whitehall experts were working busily throughout the Sabbath preparing an "abundance" of evidence meant to convince the United States that the British are only doing the United States a good turn by exhibiting a reluctance to pay. The exact terms of the reply are not known and have not even been put on paper as yet.

But the outline seems plain enough. Britain claims that disturbance of the world's exchanges is possible, that currency depreciations and other ill effects of large transfers of gold are bound to follow a payment and that the U...ed States will not allow payment in goods—all favorite standbys.

In addition there is a new fashioned argument that the Lausanne agreement putting an end to German reparations payments will be wrecked, arousing thereby the old Franco-German feud.

Some quarters declare that if a payment must be made, it will be in gold. The Bank of England has 140 million pounds [about 700 million dollars at par] gold note coverage, and in addition there is an exchange equalization account amounting originally to 150 millions sterling [or 750 million dollars in gold] to stabilize the pound.

But the cabinet is refusing to discuss such eventualities. Everything is being concentrated on the case against payment. The note should reach Washington early this week, if it does not get away tomorrow.

BROKE! FRENCH PLEA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—While today was one of almost complete calm along the war debt front, there was an interesting shift in sentiment developing in the French press. The campaign in favor of an indignant refusal to pay has mostly died down and semi-official propagandists are now taking the line that France, despite her apparent prosperity, is financially unable to make the $19,261,432 payment due the United States on Dec. 15.

The basis for this claim, which will evidently be elaborated upon in the government's second note to Washington, D. C., is that the treasury has not enough resources on hand to meet the payment and that it would be extremely embarrassed if it had to borrow at this particular moment.

Claim "Troublesome Complications."

While it cannot be seriously maintained that the credit of the government is weak, an attempt will be made to show that on account of technical considerations payment of the debt at this time would provoke a number of minor but very troublesome complications. This is a subject so technical that it cannot be intelligently analyzed until it is known exactly what the French arguments will be.

It will be particularly interesting to know how the government will explain its failure to take the necessary steps several months ago to lay aside sufficient funds for a payment which it is legally bound to make. There has never been any question that the amount itself is beyond France's power of payment. It is simply that no provision has been made in advance for the payment and it is now quite possible that the treasury finds itself in a genuinely embarrassing situation.

It should be explained that the enormous gold hoards of the Bank of France do not represent reserves on which the government can draw at will. In fact the Bank of France is not a state bank as Americans understand the term, but a private company which has a special charter from the state to do business for it.

$40,000,000 in Account.

The only available resource of the government at the Bank of France is the treasury running account which is now down to a little over $40,000,000.

This state of affairs is much less sensational than it sounds, however for the public treasury has been broke for a long time without any one seriously worrying about it. It is a French fiscal custom—at least it has been for the last two years—to keep only a small permanent fund, just enough to cover the running expenses of the state, in the treasury and issue short term notes against uncollected taxes for any special expenditures.

The mere fact that the treasury is bare has never deterred the chamber from voting lavish government expenses. In fact that is the reason why the treasury is bare. Falling off of tax collections has made this process progressively more unsound so that serious fiscal difficulties are now looming up, but no Frenchman regards this as symptomatic of the country's bankruptcy.

Herriot Meets Finance Chief.

This very question of the relation between the treasury and debt payments is understood to have been the subject of a long conversation between Premier Edouard Herriot and Louis Germain-Martin, finance minister, today. Otherwise there was no governmental activity on the question, Herriot contenting himself with keeping in telephonic contact with the British.

It seems probable that the new French note will be sent to Washington a short time after the British make another plea and that both will be patterned on a common model.

CERMAK LEAVES TODAY TO ASK FOR R. F. C. IDLE LOAN

Mayor Cermak and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, will head a delegation of city, county and state officials leaving today for Washington to urge approval of a new idle relief loan by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, is now in Washington and is to confer today with officials of the finance corporation. The Illinois delegation is to be heard tomorrow.

The delegation is expected to request $5,000,000 of the Finance corporation to aid the needy in Chicago and downstate. The exact sum has not yet been determined because all reports from downstate counties are not in.

WADSWORTH IS G. O. P. HOPE FOR 1936 CAMPAIGN

Recent Defeat Displaces Hoover as Leader.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

JAMES W. WADSWORTH.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Having extricated themselves from the wreckage left in the wake of the political tornado on Nov. 8, Republican leaders are indulging in much speculation on the probable fate of the G. O. P.

Here and there one encounters a particularly gloomy Republican, who from brooding upon the worst defeat of a major party candidate for President in a two party fight in a couple of generations, is wondering if his party is moribund—the victime of its prohibition straddle as the Whig party passed away the victim of its slavery straddle.

The dean of the Republican glooms is Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university and candidate for Vice President when Taft carried only two states compared with Hoover's six. For more than a decade the party, in the opinion of Dr. Butler, "has been moving steadily toward intellectual, moral, and political bankruptcy" and "has managed to get on the wrong side of every important question." It will go the way of the Whig party, he predicts, unless the younger element seizes control and reorganizes it.

See Hope for Comeback.

The vast majority of the party leaders, however, do not share Dr. Butler's pessimism. They are confident the G. O. P. will "come back" after four years or at the most eight years of Democratic rule. The radicals, such as Senators George W. Norris of Nebraska and Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, both of whom supported Roosevelt, think that the G. O. P. will be chastened by the country's indorsement of such liberalism as Roosevelt stands for and will undergo a change which will bring the radicals into control of the party.

The conservatives are quietly biding their time, making no predictions, demanding no reforms, serenely willing to let nature take its course, which, they are confident, will end in the ousting of the Democrats and the return of the G. O. P. to power, with the Old Guard in command.

Mr. Hoover is the titular leader of the party and in a few states the Republican national committeemen are Hoover selections. But the old Guard Republican leaders actually control the organization and Mr. Hoover will do no real leading. His recent disastrous defeat is commonly regarded as effectually effacing him from the political picture for all time. None of the old guardsmen and few of the Hooverites think there is a Chinaman's chance of the renomination of Mr. Hoover in 1936.

Mills Goes with Hoover.

Among those dragged down with Mr. Hoover into political oblivion the most prominent is Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. But for his association with the ill fated Hoover régime, including identification with the prohibition straddle, Mr. Mills would be considered today promising timber for the Republican nomination for President in 1936. He is an able and forceful man and extremely ambitious but hardly anybody thinks he now stands any chance of getting the support for the nomination of his own state—New York.

The man looming largest on the Republican horizon is former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York who scored a triumph in the late election. While Republican congressmen were being mowed down on every side Mr. Wadsworth was elected to the house of the seventy-third congress from his New York district. In 1926 he was beaten for renomination to the senate by a third party candidate put up by the drys to wreak vengeance on him for espousing repeal of the 18th amendment.

Anti-Prohibition Leader.

Mr. Wadsworth went out of the senate and assumed high leadership in the anti-prohibition cause, becoming an officer of the Association Against Prohibition. When he announced for the house the drys of his district resorted to the device they had found successful before—a dry independent candidate. But it was no use this time. The drys were engulfed in the anti-prohibition tidal wave. Mr. Wadsworth will be a commanding figure in the house and much will be heard of his qualifications for President.

Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania is another whose name figures prominently in 1936 presidential speculation. And of course there is Calvin Coolidge who will always be considered a possibility until he reaches the age limit.

NATIONAL DEFENSE APPROPRIATION CUT UNDER 600 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The cost of the American national defense establishment will run below 600 million dollars during the 1934 fiscal year if estimates now being prepared by the bureau of the budget are enacted into law at the short session of congress. Inquiry today disclosed that the navy budget for 1934 has been reduced to slightly above 300 million dollars, while that of the army will be considerably below 300 million dollars.

According to a recent report of the United States Chamber of Commerce American national defense expenditures for the 1931 fiscal year were 695 million dollars. During the current fiscal year appropriations for national defense, counting new shore stations, military posts, and new warship construction, amounted to 644 million dollars. On the basis of confidential figures not yet released for publication the appropriations to be asked for national defense in 1934 will amount to around 580 million dollars.

For the most part the reductions will be effected through cutting certain classes of pay, curtailment of new construction activities, and a general tightening up on expenditures. A few shore activities and army posts will be closed, but very little saving is anticipated through this avenue of economy. A cut of 1,700 marines will save a million and a half for the navy.

Hungary's Plan to Lift Wheat Price Lifts Deficit $6,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Nov. 27.—Hungary has tried two schemes to send up the price of wheat. Both of them have put the national treasury in the hole for a pretty sum. A third system was recently devised, but it was discarded at the last moment as being even more costly than the other two.

These two state enterprises designed to get the farmer more for his wheat than the world market affords are known here as the Futura company and the Boletta fund. The first, similar to the United States farm board, is now pretty well defunct, having ceased to interfere in a market which proved too strong for it.

The boletta, a household word in Hungary, carries on, running up the government deficit every day.

Formed as Marketing Aid.

The efforts of the government to enable the farmers to get more for their wheat go back to 1919 when the Futura company was formed. Its purpose was to help the small farmers market their produce. It was capitalized at $1,330,000, of which $1,130,000 was subscribed by state aided institutions. At first it managed to get along fairly well.

Then came the catastrophal drop in grain prices in 1930. The Futura company, on behalf of the state, rushed in with heavy purchases of wheat on the open market to support prices. Huge stocks accumulated and later had to be sold at a heavy loss. By June 30 of this year, the company's losses stood at $2,900,000. The company still has large stocks of wheat on hand and until they are disposed of, the exact losses will not be known. The government, however, has promised the league of nations that it will no longer use the Futura company to bolster up wheat prices.

The much discussed boletta system was introduced in 1930. Its purpose was to give a bonus to the wheat producer. Before a single bushel of wheat could be purchased in Hungary, the buyer had to equip himself with a special ticket. This ticket cost ten pengoe [$1.67] per centner [220 pounds] of wheat. Four pengoe [67 cents] went directly to the government.

The farmer received $1, of which he had to use half for taxes.

Later the system was revised. Instead of getting a bonus of $1 on every $1.67 boletta ticket sold, the farmer received only 67 cents and this time it was only valid for paying taxes. He received no cash. Since he was probably behind in his taxes, anyway, the bonus meant little to him. It may have made the government books look better. It bought the farmer none of the necessities of life.

On June 30, 1932, the losses of the boletta amounted to $6,000,000 and the scheme was losing money every day.

The farmer has not benefited, nor the government, nor the bread eater, who pays a cent more per two pound loaf than before the boletta went in.

Swollen by the boletta losses, Hungary's budget deficit for the present fiscal year is expected to total $29,000,000. The budget was calculated at $199,000,000.

DAVIS ACTS TO BRING GERMANS TO ARMS PARLEY

Talk with Herriot Seen as Step Nearer.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Germany's return to the disarmament conference appeared in informed quarters tonight to be a step nearer achievement as Norman H. Davis, American representative at the conference, pursued efforts to reconcile French and German disarmament viewpoints.

Mr. Davis, who is spending the week-end here, will try to convince Premier Edouard Herriot in an interview tomorrow morning that he should go to Geneva this week for a five power discussion the purpose of which would be to pave the way for unrestricted German return to the conference from which she has been absent since last August, it was learned on good authority tonight.

Must Have Concessions.

Mr. Davis was understood to have told Premier Herriot yesterday that Baron Konstantin von Neurath, acting German foreign minister, is willing to attend a five power discussion although Germany has not announced intention to participate in the disarmament conference proper.

German willingness to participate in the projected discussions is predicated upon French acceptance of certain conditions, it was said, and these conditions, which were not available here tonight, likely will be discussed when Mr. Davis and the French premier meet again tomorrow.

Premier Herriot told Mr. Davis yesterday that he firmly upholds his minister of war, Joseph Paul-Boncour, in his fight for discussion of the French disarmament plan as a whole. He does not want to single out any particular item, especially anything bearing on Germany's claims for arms equality.

Debts Weaken America's Voice.

The press maintained today that America's voice in disarmament had been weakened by insistence that war debts due Dec. 15 be paid.

The Petit Parisien gave prominence to what it said was a "prominent American's opinion" that United States' attitude on debts had opened the eyes of Europe and that those who previously were content with promises would now support the French thesis that any real disarmament guarantees should be written down in black and white.

3 IN AUTO KILLED RETURNING FROM POLITICAL PARTY

Injured Girl Survivor Tells of Drinking.

Two men and a young woman, speeding home at 4 a. m. yesterday from a party given for suburban politicians in the plant of the A-A Electric company, 3125 South 60th court, Cicero, were killed when their automobile hit a pillar of the Belt railway viaduct in Jackson boulevard near Kenton avenue. Two other occupants of the car were injured.

Those killed were Karl Gregor, 32 years old, 1418 North 18th avenue, Melrose Park, an insurance salesman and a son-in-law of former Mayor Gustav Bohlander of Melrose Park; Dr. William E. Werninghaus, 42 years old, 136 Broadway, Melrose Park, a dentist and a trustee of Proviso Township High school, and Dorothy Orszulak, 24 years old, 1857 South Loomis street. Gregor was driving.

Invited to Cicero Party.

The injured were Leslie J. Smith, 42 years old, 7606 Harrison street, Forest Park, also a trustee of Proviso Township High school, and Miss Henrietta Putchaven, 22 years old, who lived with Miss Orszulak.

Miss Putchaven told police she and Miss Orszulak were drinking Saturday evening in a soft drink parlor near Cullerton street and Blue Island avenue, where they met some men, slight acquaintances, who invited them to the party in Cicero.

Miss Putchaven said quantities of beer and whisky were served at the party, and that she and Miss Orszulak became separated from the men who had escorted them there. When the affair broke up, she said, they asked Gregor to take them home. He, Dr. Werninghaus, and Smith appeared to be sober, she said.

Crash at High Speed.

The automobile was traveling at such high speed when it struck the steel viaduct pillar that the motor was driven back through the body, almost to the rear seat. Gregor and Miss Orszulak were almost instantly killed. Dr. Werninghaus died an hour later in the Garfield Park hospital.

Miss Putchaven was also taken to the hospital in a taxicab, but soon left the hospital and went to her home. Police found her there suffering from a broken ankle. She was removed to the county hospital.

The police said that the crash was the fifth serious accident of this year at the Belt line viaduct. Jackson boulevard dips sharply to pass beneath the railroad tracks, and the passage is dimly lighted, they said.

Two Wives Collapse.

Mrs. Gregor had gone to spend the night at the Werninghaus home, her husband having told her that he expected the party to last until an early hour. She and Mrs. Werninghaus, summoned to the Garfield Park hospital, collapsed when they learned of their husbands' deaths.

Otto J. Schlessinger, 325 North Longcommon road, Riverside, president of the electrical company, said the party was "very orderly." He had been hunting in northern Wisconsin, he said, and brought back a quantity of venison which was served during the evening. The company does business with a number of suburban municipalities, and a number of suburban village presidents, mayors, and village trustees were at the party, it was said.

County Toll For Year 1,021.

These three deaths and one other increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 1,021. The other victim:

Mrs. Matilda Lundquist, 71 years old, 979 Vine street, Winnetka. Fatally injured last evening by an automobile at Humboldt boulevard and Hamlin avenue as she was walking to a church. Harry Kroll, 25 years old, 7850 Saginaw avenue, was the driver.

Miss Wilma Breitfeld, 45 years old, 407 Maple avenue, Wilmette, a dressmaker, died yesterday in the Highland Park hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when she walked against the side of a moving automobile in the Highland Park business district.

Hammond Autoist Killed.

Eugene Moore, 25 years old, 1921 Clark street, Whiting, was killed and five other young people were injured yesterday at 115th street and Calumet avenue, Hammond, when their automobile passed a stoplight and was struck by a truck. James Simzak of Trenton, N. J., the driver, told police he did not see the light.

Benjamin Du Bois Frost, son of Dr. Edwin B. Frost, professor emeritus of the University of Chicago and former director of the Yerkes observatory, and Miss Dorothy Lawrence of the Drake hotel, a writer for the Conde Nast publications, were recovering last night at the Passavant hospital from injuries suffered early yesterday in an automobile collision at Wacker drive and Wabash avenue.

The body of a man killed early Saturday by an automobile at Ashland avenue and Polk street was identified yesterday as that of Carl Costabile, 54 years old, 2306 Flournoy street. Police later arrested two Negroes and charged them with being occupants of the car which struck Costabile.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FLIES BACK FOR TEACHING NEW YORK SCHOOL

Newark, N. J., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president elect, stepped from a passenger airplane at Newark airport tonight. She said she had had a "fine trip" from Warm Springs, Ga., where she spent Thanksgiving with her husband.

The plane, carrying Louis M. Howe, a friend and advisor of Mr. Roosevelt, Miss Nancy Cook, a friend, Miss Salvine Thompson, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, and 11 other passengers besides Mrs. Roosevelt, was an hour and five minutes late. It was forced to buck heavy head winds most of the way. A cold wind swept the field when the party alighted.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she hurried from the south by air because of her school teaching duties in New York tomorrow. She posed for photographers, chatted briefly with newspapermen, and left with her friends for the Roosevelt town house in New York City.

FIND PEKING MAN HAD HANDS LIKE MODERN MAN'S

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Peking man—the strange ape like creature who lived in the caves of China 600,000 years ago—had hands like a modern man's, according to Prof. G. Elliot Smith, the noted anthropologist. Discussing new discoveries in the cave at Choukoutien, near Peiping, Prof. Smith said that they threw new light on the mystery which has baffled scientists ever since the Peking skull was found. Hitherto, it has been assumed from his abnormally small, flattened skull that the Peking man was only slightly above the ape in the scale of intelligence.

"During further exploration of the cave," said Prof. Smith today, "a small bone from the wrist was found which is not appreciably different from a modern man's. This adds most powerful evidence to support the belief that the hundreds of stone implements found in the cave were used by the Peking man.

"It now appears that the Peking man had hands essentially identical with modern man's and we are justified in the inference that the tools found with the remains of this man were made by him. They correspond entirely with the tools made by other primitive peoples. From the shape of other small bones found it appears that the feet of the Peking man differed from those of modern man. They were not straight, and he must have walked holding his toes in, as the ape does. There is nothing to show, however, that he was able to grip with his feet as the apes are able to do."

Kentucky Woman Killed; Son, 12, Admits Firing Shot

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Clella Lee, 30, was shot and killed today at her home on Lebanon Ridge, eight miles from here, and Sheriff Murray Brawner said her son, Vernon Lee, 12, admitted having fired the shot. He claimed it was accidental.

HEAD OF MORTON HIGH JOINS HIS PUPILS' REVOLT

Superintendent Assails School Board.

Harry V. Church, superintendent of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero, whose pupils are in revolt against the present school board, announced last night that he has joined the revolt.

"I've been pushed around long enough," declared Mr. Church. "Now I'm going to play ball myself. I've been fighting the board for months and now I'm perfectly willing to tell what I know of conditions to the proper authorities, including the new state's attorney. The worst that can happen to me is the loss of my job and I'm willing to sacrifice that if the pupils here will benefit."

Church Charges Waste.

One of the accusations made by Supt. Church is that teachers have been hired over his objections despite the fact, he said, that the school is $3,500,000 in debt.

Only three weeks ago, said Mr. Church, Edward Charvat, secretary of the board, demanded that he hire ten new teachers, two sponsored by each of the five trustees on the board. Mr. Church refused, but the candidates were employed just the same as teachers' clerks, he said.

Mr. Church also discussed the hiring by the school board of a man who was described as a former reporter for a foreign language newspaper in Cicero. This man was put in charge of the school paper at a salary of $300 a month, he said. The superintendent said it was his understanding that the ex-reporter was hired "to keep dirt about the board out of the Cicero paper."

Relatives Hired, He Says.

Inquiry at the school yesterday revealed that some school employés are related to or sponsored by trustees. According to Mr. Church, Mrs. Emma Churan, a nurse, is a relative of Trustee Ed Stuchlik. Frank Svoboda, president of the board, sponsored his daughter, Blanche, who is an assistant cashier of the school, the superintendent said. Mrs. Myra Makuska, a matron, is said to be a relative of Svoboda, Mr. Church added, and Joseph Lokay, in charge of the general store of the school, is the board president's son-in-law.

Mr. Charvat denied last night that he had demanded that Supt. Church hire ten new teachers. Ten vacancies existed, he said, and the board voted to fill them. Charvat added that he had been on the board a year and has stood for economy in all departments. Supt. Church, he asserted, had never made his charges before the board.

Winkler on Trial Today for Plano Bank Holdup

Gus Winkler, former companion of Fred [Killer] Burke, will go to trial in the Kendall county Circuit court at Yorkville today for the holdup of the Plano State bank two years ago.

Burke, who is now serving a life term in a Michigan prison for the murder of a policeman, has been identified from photographs as one of the bandits in the robbery. He and Winkler are alleged to have slugged Charles M. Jones, cashier of the bank, and escaped with $5,500. Winkler is now at liberty under $40,000 bonds.

FIND PROOF OF 95 BELOW ZERO ON MOUNTAIN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park service, in a report issued today tells how last spring four men ascended the north and south peaks of Mount McKinley, highest mountain in North America. They found a recording thermometer left there nineteen years ago by the party headed by Archdeacon Hudson Stuck and Harry Karstens, former superintendent of Mount McKinley National park.

"The minimum reading on the instrument was 95 below zero," Mr. Albright said, "and the indicator was as far down in the bulb as it could go. So the actual temperature was below that point and the position of the indicator appeared to point to a temperature of at least 100 below zero."

He invited his constituents to communicate with him at any time with reference to matters pertaining to congressional business. Mr. Simpson said that this service is in keeping with his campaign pledges.

GUARD TROTZKY LIKE ROYALTY AS HE LECTURES

Police Quell One Outbreak of Communists.

BY JOHN AHL-NEILSEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 27—Guarded as closely as royalty and receiving fees equal to those of a film star, Leon Trotzky emerged from his local seclusion and appeared at the Copenhagen sports palace tonight to deliver to 2,500 people his first lecture since he was exiled from Russia.

"I am politically a communist—age has failed to reform me," said the 53 year old ex-war minister introducing his subject, "The Meaning of the Russian Revolution," which turned out to be an academic review.

Strong cordons of mounted and foot police kept clear a forbidden area surrounding the stadium for 100 yards, and all ticket holders were closely scrutinized and checked.

Reds Seek to Gain Notice.

Reinforcements were also ready in the adjoining army barracks. No demonstrations of any kind occurred with the exception of a small outbreak by a batch of communists who vainly attempted to gain some notice.

The lecture was given at the invitation of the Danish Social Democratic Students' union. Before delivering his talk Trotzky broadcast a summary to America, receiving a fee of $1,500. Danish wireless authorities refused to broadcast the lecture, necessitating transmission by telephone to London, thence to London, thence to New York. In the American broadcast Trotzky compared the Russian revolution to the civil war to justify what he called its "high cost." Trotzky also was paid $5,000 by an American film company for a recording of his speech.

Trotzky received a sympathetic reception as he appeared upon the platform. He was dressed in a gray suit, wore a soft collar, and looked much like a kind old school teacher with his good hearted smile.

"Purpose Fulfilled."

In the first part he outlined two revolutions—first the overthrow of the czar in March, 1917, then the October bolshevik revolution. The second part dealt with the question as to whether the October revolution "had fulfilled its purpose," Trotzky answered "Yes."

He admitted that the solution of the agriculture problem was not yet complete and that development in this phase had not kept pace with industrial development.

Trotzky emphasized his points by hammering on the table with clenched fists and frequently raising his voice to a roar. He finished his speech amid a storm of applause and immediately left the building by a secret exit to an automobile which was swiftly driven away. He may be permitted to go to Sweden and Norway to deliver further lectures.

POLICE STUDYING $40,000 GOTHAM JEWELRY THEFT

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Police tonight were reported to be investigating the theft of $35,000 to $50,000 in jewelry and securities of unestimated value from the automobile of Mrs. Sara M. Stewart of Short Hills, N. J., in New York last Tuesday. Neither Mrs. Stewart nor police officials could be reached for verification.

LIVE STOCK SHOW DRAWS A RECORD CROWD OF 40,000

Wheat King Wins First 1932 Award.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The city folk of Chicagoland mingled with thousands of farmers yesterday at the International Live Stock exposition in Union Stock yards, where the largest display of farm stock and crops ever assembled bespoke a confidence in agriculture's future.

In the crowds estimated at 40,000, a new record for Sunday attendance in 33 years of Chicago fat stock shows, were hundreds of fathers and mothers. Many of them were showing the rising generation new rural wonders from the farm or contrasting the modern types of form produce with those prevailing when these Chicagoans lived in the country. Not a few saw in the exposition valuable suggestions for the time when they would be back on the farm themselves.

Exhibitors Await Judging.

While judges were inactive during the second day of the show, which continues all this week, hopes ran high among the exhibitors who awaited the selection of new world champions today and tomorrow.

Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alberta, Canada, advanced a step toward retaining the title of wheat king which he won in 1931. His sample of red winter wheat, a peck of golden grains all handpicked under his scrutinizing eye in his farmstead in the Peace river country, topped all others in that class, it was announced. Other types of wheat will be judged today and the best of them pitted against the offering of Trelle for the 1932 grand championship.

In the contests of American wheat growers with those of Australia and Canada, C. Edson Smith, veteran Corvallis, Mont., spring wheat champion, was unseated yesterday. The victor was A. M. Riewoldt of Victor, Mont., who last year won eighth place. T. E. Smith of Darby, Mont., produced the winning sample of white winter wheat shown among the 5,000 samples of farm crops.

Woman Farmer Wins.

Mrs. Mary E. Maycock of Milford, Prince Edward, Ont., for the second consecutive year won the championship award in field beans. Her showing was a superior selection of navy beans, which won over a sample submitted by another Canadian, J. H. Lampman of Ridgetown, Kent, Ont.

The Oklahoma A. & M. team won the intercollegiate crop judging contest, second and third places going to North Carolina and Nebraska respectively. The collegians were required to scrutinize various samples of crops, and the awards were based on their knowledge of market grading, comparative placing and identification.

The teams placed in the following order: Oklahoma, 3,645; North Carolina [last year's champion], 3,603; Nebraska, 3,506; Iowa, 3,500; Kansas, 3,485; Minnesota, 3,478; Michigan, 3,477, and Pennsylvania, 3,192.

An essay on the efficient use of feed in producing live stock last night won for Ray N. Ammon, University of Illinois student, a gold medal. The Saddle and Sirloin club of Chicago chose the essay from those submitted by several hundred agricultural college students in the United States and Canada.

A silver medal was awarded by the club to James Cullen of Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph, Ont., Can., and a bronze medal was given to Irvin F. Edwards, a student at Iowa State college. Only one girl student was entered in the contest and she finished fourth. Also a student of the Ontario college, she was Miss Regina van der Hoorn.

MILK MEETING HERE TO GOVERN SUBURBAN PRICE

The conference scheduled for today between representatives of large Chicago milk companies and heads of the Pure Milk association, dairy farmers' marketing organization, over reduction of milk prices in the city from 11 to 9 cents a quart, is expected to govern a similar price reduction in the other cities of the Chicago metropolitan area.

Albert Pike, head of an Aurora dairy company, announced yesterday that distributors in that city were prepared to reduce their prices to 9 cents if a similar reduction is made in Chicago. The same procedure will be followed in other cities about Chicago, it is expected, with the exception of South Bend, where distributors and dairymen have set up bargaining machinery independent of the Pure Milk association.

The conference for today was called after the milk wagon drivers' union voted last Friday to accept a $5 weekly reduction in wages. Union employés inside the dairy plants will take a similar cut. Dairy companies and farmers are expected to make possible the other savings necessary for a two cents a quart price cut.

The weekly loss in income amounting to $161,000 is to be apportioned as follows: Drivers and inside workers, $43,000; dairy companies, $48,000, and farmers, $70,000.

Dixie Cafe Owner Kills Robber, Puts Three to Flight

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Four men who drove up in a motor car to park near a café here early today didn't appear to be customers to the proprietor, Jesse L. Hughes. Warning A. S. Metzger, an employé, to be on the alert for a holdup attempt, Hughes seized a rifle and took a stand behind a tree 75 yards from the entrance. The motorists weren't customers. One strode in and ordered Metzger to hand over the cash. Hughes killed him with a shot, then smashed the car window with rifle fire and survived return shots as the three other robbers fled on foot.

1,300 4-H CLUB MEMBERS OPEN CONGRESS TODAY

Indiana Boy Proclaimed National Champion.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

To the rest of the world today may be only Nov. 28, or just Monday. But to the 1,300 young farmers and farmerettes, the boys and girls of the 4-H clubs, it's the first day of the eleventh 4-H club congress which is held annually in conjunction with the International Live Stock exposition.

From every direction and from many states the boys and girls were pouring into Chicago yesterday. The mezzanine floor of the Auditorium hotel, where headquarters of the 4-H club congress are established, hummed with thei activities and their voices. Their badges glinted in the Field Museum, the Planetarium, in Lincoln park and especially at the Union Stock yards, where the live stock exposition is in progress.

Name Champion Boy.

Floyd Weaver of West Point, Tippecanoe county, Indiana, was announced during the day by the national committee on boys' and girls' club work as the champion 4-H live stock boy and winner of a $300 agricultural college scholarship. Three scholarships are awarded each year to exhibitors in the junior live stock feeding contest who can show the best all around achievements in agricultural activities. Besides the scholarship Weaver received his trip to Chicago by virtue of his record, certified by his county agent, J. C. Ralston of Lafayette.

Weaver's nine years of 4-H club work have netted him $5,610 in trophies and cash. This year he was caring for fifteen beef animals, sixty-four pigs and five breeding sheep in projects on the 300 acre farm where he lives with his parents.

Wins $200 Scholarship.

Runnerup in the contest was William R. Bennett of Bristol, Harrison county, W. Va., who will receive a $200 scholarship and the trip to Chicago. Bennett used a total of 45 animals in his nine years of club projects. The value of his various prizes and trophies is $2,116. He was the high point individual scorer in all individual contests at a recent state fair. He lives with his parents on a 176 acre farm.

Vernon Epting of Prosperity, Newberry county, South Carolina, won third place, a $100 scholarship and the Chicago trip, with his record of 27 projects completed in nine years of club work. His prizes earned are totaled at $5,021. Starting with one pig, he branched into other lines until this last year he had five acres of corn, five of cotton, seventy-five animals and poultry, and an orchard.

Wilson to Give Dinner.

Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer and chairman of the national 4-H committee, is the donor of the trips and scholarships, and will also be the host tonight at a dinner party for the 1,300 4-H youngsters, at which Amelia Earhart Putnam, the flyer, will be a guest. The event will be held at the Wilson plant, 4100 South Ashland avenue.

Prize beef already selected was in readiness last night for the farm boys and girls, practically all of whom are connoisseurs of a juicy steak. The dinner, the fourteenth annual function of its kind to be staged by Mr. Wilson, will be followed by a vaudeville program.

Special trains on the elevated lines will carry the 4-H club members to the stock yards this morning, where pictures of the groups will be made, the exhibits visited and inspected, and an address given by B. H. Heide, general manager of the International Live Stock exposition.

Canning awards announced yesterday elevated two Indiana girls to first place in as many events. Phyllis Howard of Straughn was first in the vegetable class, keeping the title she won last year. Charlotte Oliver of Crawfordsville was first in the meats. In the menu class, in which each contestant submits five jars of ingredients to comprise a meal for five persons, first place went to Ruth Perrin of Flintstone, Md.

WOMAN WRITER WILL TALK HERE TODAY ON GANDHI

Mrs. Patricia Kendall, an American born writer who has spent several years in India, arrived in Chicago yesterday to speak today before a joint luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and the English Speaking union at the Palmer house. Her subject will be "The Economic Consequences of Mr. Gandhi."

Besides Mrs. Kendall, who is the only woman ever to have addressed the Canadian parliament at Ottawa, those at the speakers' table will include Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, the British consul general and Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ralph H. James, Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, Chandra D. Goooneratne, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon A. Smith, Robert Geddes, and Mr. and Mrs. Ford [illegible].

KIDNAPED AND ROBBED.

Frank Conser, 808 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, reported to the police yesterday that he was robbed of $44 and his watch by two men who forced him into an automobile at Van Buren and Wells streets and drove him to 66th street and Wentworth avenue.

FARM PROGRAM EARLY ON LIST FOR ROOSEVELT

Will Talk on Details This Week.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Agricultural relief in the immediate future is the objective of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He prepared today for a series of important conferences on that during this week. It is hoped a definite and early plan for bettering the farmers' situation will be formulated in the "Little White House" at Warm Springs, where the President elect will receive his guests.

Gov. Roosevelt will confer tomorrow with Henry A. Wallace, editor of the Farm Journal, with Henry Morgenthau Jr., one of his closest advisers, who has been conservation commissioner in the New York state department, and with M. L. Wilson, professor at the state agricultural college, Bozeman, Mont.

May Affect Tariff, Too.

The presence of Prof. Wilson gave indication that the governor still is determined to seek an immediate application of the domestic allotment plan, under which a domestic tariff will be levied on certain basic crops, the collections being apportioned among all farmers participating in the plan.

For example, the plan which Prof. Wilson discussed with the representative of THE TRIBUNE two months ago contemplates the levying of a domestic tax on wheat of 42 cents. This will be paid by the millers and spread to the bakers and consumers and other users of wheat. It would raise the retail price of bread, for example, one cent a loaf.

The tax would be collected by an agency set up by the government, but without any additional cost to the taxpayers, the operating costs being deducted from collections before distribution to the farmers participating.

Would Limit Crops.

In this manner, the farmer participating in the plan would be required to enter into an agreement to limit the extent of his crop according to the demand of the domestic and world markets, would receive the 42 cent a bushel tariff, less cost of collection, in addition to the world market price, which has averaged around 30 cents a bushel to the farmer.

It is considered fairly certain among the governor's advisers that this plan, applied probably to wheat and cotton, thus covering most of the stricken agricultural districts in the north and south both, will be presented in the form of specific legislative bills to the December session of congress. The governor hopes to have the plan applied to the plantings and harvests of the 1933 crop.

Later in the coming week President Elect Roosevelt has arranged for members of the agricultural committee of the house of representatives to visit him in the "Little White House," and these conferences will be followed by others with various agricultural leaders in congress and throughout the country.

The agricultural experts also will discuss plans for legislation granting federal credit to allow farmers with past due mortgages more time to save their homes and lands.

Plans Other Conferences.

Other conferences will include naval affairs tomorrow with Rep. Carl Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee; political matters, cabinet and patronage with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, and Frank C. Walker, treasurer; other matters with Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada.

Senators Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and James Byrnes of South Carolina and Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington Herald, called on Gov. Roosevelt today. Senators Byrnes and Wheeler discussed whether President Hoover would sign a beer bill if it was passed. It was reported they agreed the President could not risk the political consequences of refusing to sign such a bill if it was included in a general economy and tax reduction program.

Bandits Beat Decatur Man and Take $555 and Auto

Michael Heibowitz, 63 years old, of Decatur, was beaten unconscious and robbed of $555 last night by two men who drove him to 76th street and Ridgeland avenue, where they threw him out. Heibowitz and Mrs. Gertrude Ehrens, 3217 Sheffield avenue, were driving to the home of a friend on the south side. At 63d street and South Park avenue Mrs. Ehrens, in whose car they were riding, stopped to ask directions. After she left the car the two men stepped up and drove away with Heibowitz, he told police. They kept the car, he said.

SHOWMEN'S LEAGUE HONORS ITS DEAD

TWO TUGS LOST WITH 7 ABOARD; 2 OTHERS SAFE

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Storms which buffeted the upper lakes for days had subsided today, but not until two tugs had gone down, apparently carrying with them their combined crews of seven men.

The fate of the tug South Shore of Manitowoc, Wis., unreported since Nov. 19, became known today when the top of her pilot house was found floating in Lake Michigan off Frankfort, Mich. Coast guardsmen here, who received the word by radio, said there was little chance that Capt. Erwin Tonokin and Engineer Ole Ahlstrom, only men aboard, survived.

Other coast guardsmen searched the Lake Superior shore line in the vicinity of Grand Marais, Mich., for bodies of five men believed to have gone down with the fishing tug Lydia, registered at Racine, Wis., but operating out of Grand Marais, which foundered Friday night in heavy seas. None of the bodies has been recovered.

The Lydia was one of a fleet of three vessels fishing some miles out when the blow came up. Fears felt for the safety of the other tugs, Josephine and Isabella, both of Grand Marais, subsided when they returned to their home port last night, having found shelter on the leeward side of an island.

The South Shore was a 61 foot tug owned by W. J. Lawrie of Manitowoc. She set out from Garden, Mich., eight days ago for Milwaukee, a 30 hour run, with a cargo of potatoes.

Annual Event

The Showmen's League of America yesterday held memorial services for show people buried in "Showmen's Rest," Woodlawn cemetery. The services are held annually, particularly in remembrance of victims of a circus train wreck near Gary in 1918.

SKULL FRACTURED BY AUTO.

Fairfield, Ia., Nov. 27.—(AP)—W. N. Gogue, 60, of Monmouth, Ill., suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries when struck by an automobile near here last night. He was taken home today.

CLARA BOW HERE ON WAY TO MEET COWBOY MATE

Clara Bow, "It girl" of the movies, who recently has been reported making a film comeback, stopped in Chicago yesterday on her way to New York, where she is to meet Rex Bell, her ex-cowboy husband. They intend to forget the motion picture business for a trip to Europe, which may be extended to a world tour, she said.

FARMERS TO FORM FIVE POINT PLAN AT MEETING HERE

Federation Expects Congress' Approval.

Five major subjects which will comprise a new agricultural policy to be considered by delegates to the 14th annual American Farm Bureau federation convention in Chicago on Dec. 5, 6, and 7, were outlined yesterday by the organization's president, Edward A. O'Neal.

E. A. O'NEAL.

The five point plan is expected to be a definite and workable program which can be submitted to congress and meet favor with the new Democratic leadership in Washington, O'Neal explained. It includes recognition of the right of farm people to organize a system for making present farmers' agencies, private and governmental, function more effectively.

Seek Aid for Prices.

Other points in the plan include some means of enhancing the value of farm products by the control and disposal of agricultural surpluses, monetary stabilization, tariff revision rural credit improvement and reduction in taxes.

"The need for a new agricultural policy has been recognized for several years," declared O'Neal. "At our annual meeting next week farm people of the nation will determine the basis which that agricultural policy must be founded."

The various farm relief proposals expected to come before the December session of congress will be analyzed, and organized farmers will express themselves definitely on each, he said. Particularly attention will be given plans for alteration of the agricultural marketing act to abolish the present stabilization plan and replace it with a more effective system.

Harriman and Byrd to Speak.

H. I. Harriman, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, chairman of the National Economy league, will address the farm convention. Harriman, who has been active in consideration of farm relief proposals, is also expected to attend a conference of business men and farm leaders which will be held next week in Chicago. Admiral Byrd will discuss means of reducing governmental expenditures.

O'Neal expressed the conviction yesterday that the farm bureau federation would recommend changes in the laws governing the federal reserve system to create a controlled monetary system. Such a system, he explained, would be designed to maintain an "honest dollar" by preventing disastrous fluctuations in commodity values.

In its discussions of the tariff, the federation is expected to reiterate its stand for independence for the Philippines, since farmers hold that heavy duty free imports of fats and oils from the islands depress prices of butter, soybeans, corn, cotton and other farm products.

REVIEW BY U. S. UP TO MID 1932 DARK IN TONE

It Doesn't Reach Signs of Trade Revival.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—To congress and the American people the secretary of commerce in his annual report today presented a panoramic picture of the economic debacle constituting the third year of the depression.

There was no mention in that report of the signs of upturn which the department's business indicators have recorded in recent weeks and regarded by officials as "unmistakable" evidence of approaching better times.

Covering only the fiscal year from July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, it was a statement, based on statistics, of continued declines in virtually every field of economic enterprise. The more than seasonal gains of this autumn will be a part of the record for the next fiscal year.

Lamont Signs Report.

This year's report was signed by Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, although Roy D. Chapin of Detroit now is secretary of commerce. Mr. Lamont was head of the department during the period covered in the report. He resigned on Aug. 4 to reënter private business.

"Economic conditions in the United States during the fiscal year 1932 continued to be influenced by international developments," Mr. Lamont said in preface to the review. "To our own domestic difficulties, serious in themselves, were added a series of happenings abroad which imposed a further strain upon our economic system."

In this country, according to Mr. Lamont, "the trend of industrial production, prices, employment, pay rolls, merchandise distribution, foreign trade, and construction was downward throughout the year, interrupted only by seasonal improvement which in general failed to measure up to normal expectations."

Crop Prices Also Suffer.

While crop yields returned to normal during the year, he said, continued declines in agricultural prices reduced the gross value of the yields to "an amount only about half as great as that realized two years ago."

Some progress, the report said, was made during the year in reducing stocks of manufactured articles. However, it was stated, stocks of raw materials continued to accumulate, averaging 10.5 per cent above the previous year.

This accumulation of stocks, said the report, resulted in continued pressure on the price structure, so that the general level of wholesale prices receded throughout the year, averaging about 14 per cent below the preceding year. Retail food prices averaged 17 per cent lower, according to the report, while the cost of living averaged 10 per cent less.

As the third year of the depression progressed, Mr. Lamont said, consumers' purchasing, which he said had held up "relatively well in the earlier phases of the depression," began to reflect the "cumulative effects of lowered purchasing power." Department store sales dropped 18 per cent in the year, while chain store sales showed a similar decline.

Loss of Jobs Increases.

"The course of employment," said the report, "has followed closely the trend of business activity. There was a substantial increase in the number of idle during the year, as well as in the number employed on part time. Factory employment declined steadily and for the year averaged 15 per cent below the preceding fiscal year.

"Pay rolls were reduced by a relatively larger amount, owing to the increase in part time employment and wage reductions. Factory pay rolls averaged 28 per cent below the preceding year."

U. S. Leading Exporter.

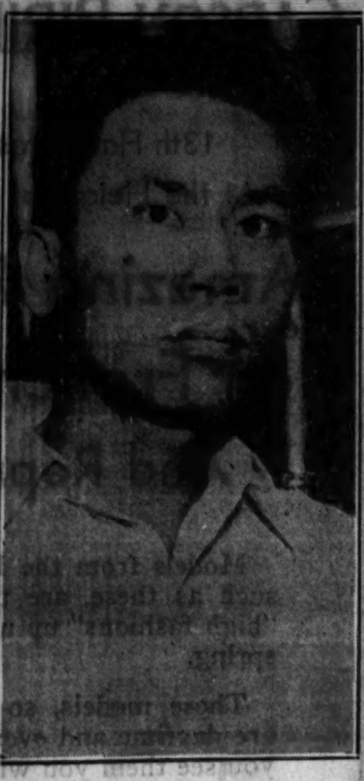
As to American foreign trade during that fiscal year the secretary pointed out that while it declined in value to the lowest level since pre-war days, "the United States maintained its position as the world's leading export nation as well as its usual position in the import trade—next to the United Kingdom."

Transportation—by rail and water—showed decreased activity during that fiscal year, according to the report. Railway revenue was 24.5 per cent lower than in the preceding year, while the volume of freight traffic decreased by nearly 10 million cars. Ocean shipping likewise slumped, said the report, with idle tonnage in the United States greater by nearly 32 per cent than in the previous year.

WOMAN SUICIDE'S BODY FOUND.

Falls City, Neb., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Hannah Hart, 70, was found late today in the Missouri river ten miles south of here. County authorities said death was a suicide. She was the widow of T. J. Hart, a retired farmer.

KILLER OF SIX



Julian Marcelino, 30, a Filipino, who killed six persons in Seattle, Wash., and wounded thirteen others before being captured by police.

Police to Return Suspect in Cattleman's Murder

Sergt. James Sullivan will leave today for Gering, Neb., to bring Merle Lowman, 18 years old, to Chicago in connection with the killing of Henry Shoop, a cattleman of Wibaux, Mont. Shoop was beaten to death in his room in the Stockyards inn, 4178 South Halsted street, on Oct. 31. Several days ago Ben Herr, a cattleman, was arrested in Pennsylvania as a suspect and was brought to Chicago. He said he was asleep in the room when Shoop was killed. He said Lowman was also in the room. Lowman, arrested in Gering, charged that Herr killed Shoop. The men will confront each other when Lowman is returned.

GOOD FELLOWS' HEADQUARTERS TO OPEN TODAY

It's None Too Early for Recruits to Enlist.

Good Fellows, your headquarters will open this morning in THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets. Today is none too early to decide that you're going to be one of the thousands who will enjoy Christmas the more for having played Santa Claus to some destitute family. Christmas Eve is three weeks from Saturday.

Good Fellows, while you are planning your Christmas in your own homes, your minds can be free of any depressive thoughts of the thousands unable to celebrate the holiday properly this year. You will have done your unselfish bit toward relieving gloom among the unfortunates.

Reader, Enlist Now!

There's a coupon in a nearby column for you to enlist now in this army of cheer. Write your name and address, tear out the coupon, inclose a 3 cent stamp, and mail to Good Fellows, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago. By return mail you'll receive the name, address, and brief description of a family recommended by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court, or other member of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. Your job will be to deliver to this family on Christmas Eve a basket of inexpensive toys, candy, fruit and nuts with some foodstuffs for the holiday meal.

The foundation of the Good Fellow movement is built upon this personal contact of a few minutes between the benefactor and the recipient. However, because there are those who want to participate but cannot spare the hour on Christmas Eve., the Good Fellows headquarters will accept cash donations to be used for baskets. Needless to say, all of the money goes to the poor, THE TRIBUNE paying all administration expenses.

Don't Miss the Visit.

But don't miss this personal visit. Read this typical letter written on Christmas day by a Good Fellow of another year, a young woman of the north shore:

"Dear Sirs: I am just dropping you a line in grateful appreciation of your wonderful service in the quick rendition of necessary information.

"We purchased the few durable toys early to avoid the rush, and bought a heaping basket of groceries, candy, nuts and fruit at reduced bargain prices. On Christmas Eve we were all ready to start on our errand.

"With the load in our rumble seat, we drove down to the address given. After asking directions, we located the building. My father struggled up three flights of stairs to make sure we were at the right place, while I remained below with the basket and toys.

"When the children heard that the load of stuff was downstairs they scampered helter skelter down the stairs and across the yard to where I stood. The little boy spied the sled with the basket on it and demanded whom it was for. When I told him, he let out a yell and grabbed it, while the rest of the family picked up the basket.

The First Ride.

"After wishing them a 'Merry Christmas' and starting off in the car we saw the little boy and his sister arguing about who should have the first ride. The last glimpse was of the boy waving his hand preparatory to a running slide.

"This is the second year that I have joined the Good Fellows, and I know it is much more fun making some poor children happy than lavishing an equal amount on a flock of Christmas presents which do not express the Christmas spirit so well. The total spent was astoundingly small, less than $6.50."

The amount the young woman and her father spent for their basket is higher than the average cost of being a Good Fellow. But, even at the expense of $6.50, the errand must have been worth while to this father and daughter. On Christmas day, probably surrounded by her own presents, her thoughts were of the boy and girl who received the sled, and she took time to write a letter about them.

Would it make you happy to be a Good Fellow this Christmas? Mail the coupon or visit the Good Fellow headquarters in the Tribune Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

Stench Bomb Hurled in North Chicago Theater

A stench bomb was hurled in the Sheridan theater, 1701 Sheridan road, North Chicago, yesterday afternoon, forcing more than 400 patrons to the street. All returned after the auditorium had been ventilated. Max Slepyan, one of the owners, said that although he employed a nonunion operator he has had no other trouble. He did not attribute the attack to labor.

ROB FOOD SHOP OF $300.

Three men ordered potato salad and boiled ham yesterday in the Aaronson food shop, 1615 East 55th street, then drew revolvers and forced Miss Tillie Hayes, the clerk, to give them $300.

ARGUMENTS OPEN TODAY IN TRIAL OF STONE OFFICIALS

The trial of Henry F. Norcott, president of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct investment and real estate house, and eight of his associates in Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward's court on a charge of using the mails to defraud will enter its final phase this week.

The federal indictment naming the officers of the 95 year old concern was an outgrowth of the failure of the company for approximately $14,500,000 two years ago.

Joseph A. Struett, assistant United States district attorney, will start summing up this morning. He expects to take most of the day. Tomorrow defense attorneys, including one or more lawyers for each of the defendants, will have their turn. It is expected that at least two days will be needed by the defense, which, with instructions by the court to the jury, would give the case to the jury probably Thursday afternoon.

Both sides agree there is little chance for a quick verdict.

Besides Norcott the defendants are Claude C. Niles, vice president; Marshall W. George, secretary; W. Scott Carroll, controller; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; Leslie A. Needham, attorney; Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer; David A. Coleman, and Francis E. Richardson, officials of a subsidiary concern.

Woman's Democratic Club Will Celebrate Tomorrow

Members of the Illinois Woman's Democratic club will hold a party tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Sherman to celebrate their party's recent victory. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman for Illinois and president of the club, will preside.

BURNS TO DEATH AT HOME.

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—A few blackened bones found in the smoldering ruins of a log cabin six miles east of here early today told the fate of Joseph Heddington, 58, a bachelor who lived alone in the house. He was subject to attacks of epilepsy and neighbors believe he upset an oil lamp during such an attack and was unable to escape.

Alleged Bandit Killer of Policeman on Trial Today

Jerry Kane, alias Harry King, 31 years old, will go on trial today before Judge Harry Lewis, charged with the murder during a holdup on July 4 of Policeman Frank J. Cunningham of the Maxwell street station. Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis said yesterday that he will ask the death penalty. Cunningham was shot by one of three bandits when he walked into a restaurant at 2025 Laflin street, where a holdup was in progress. Kane was captured while running from the restaurant.

Fierce Scottish Snowstorm Buries Sheep, Buffets Liner

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Swept by a fierce storm over the week-end, both highlands and lowlands of Scotland were buried in a blanket of snow today and many sheep were believed to have perished in drifts. The gale was so violent the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Richmond dragged at its anchor at Greenock and a tug with 50 passengers had to put back to shore until late today.

DIVERSION LIMIT IN ST. LAWRENCE TREATY FOUGHT

tion increasing the amount of diversion for navigation purposes the new treaty would make such legislation impossible except on the consent of an arbitral commission on which Canada would be represented.

A letter written to Senator Borah by Joseph J. O'Brien, president of the Consumers' Supply company of New York City outlines some of the points on which objection has been registered. In this communication the charge is made that the St. Lawrence treaty would forever prevent deep water navigation between the great lakes and the sea over all American routes. It follows in part:

"This treaty proposes, for the first and only time in the history of the nation, to grant the British empire authority to determine the amount of water which will be used by the people of the United States for domestic and industrial consumption, for bathing, for sewer operation, for navigation and power, and for the cultivation of forests and other agricultural crops.

"The powers created and organized by the proposed treaty are not confined to the international and wholly Canadian sections of the St. Lawrence river, which conveys the waters discharged by the great lakes over Niagara Falls, through the river of that name.

Authority Over Lakes.

"These powers of authority in construction, operation and management, embrace not only the St. Lawrence river but the whole great lakes system, and all the land areas which drain into the great lakes, including thirteen states of the nation and comprising about 43 per cent of the total national population.

"Two systems of control are establishing by this proposed treaty: One by the location of certain engineering works, all done to discriminate against the United States and favor the British empire; the other by the creation and administration of a joint commission which is to have jurisdictional control over the great lakes, and the drainage areas thereof, for all purposes, and by all known engineering operations.

"The first system of control has its engineering basis in the location of works in all Canadian or British territory, in the upper section of Niagara river, opposite Buffalo, which will permanently fix the diversion of water from the great lakes, forever to prevent deep water navigation between the great lakes and the sea over all American routes, either across the state of New York, or the states of Illinois or Ohio, or elsewhere, as Michigan, except by and with the approval of the British empire, as well as all other forms of diversion, including that of domestic water supply and water for bathing and fire protection.

Gives Britain Control.

"The second system of control is established by the authority to be conferred on the joint international commission which will have authority to supervise all works planned and to control the whole great lakes system. This authority empowers this commission to determine and prevent any and all diversion of waters from the great lakes.

"This Hoover treaty is, moreover, a very definite plan to empower the British empire to permanently prevent deep water navigation between the great lakes, the Atlantic, and the Gulf of Mexico, since it gives the British empire a permanent veto power over the diversion of waters from the great lakes, and deep water navigation from the great lakes to the sea, either across New York or across Illinois, or elsewhere, as across Ohio, is physically impossible except by the diversion of waters from the great lakes to support navigation in canalized river connections.

"It does this very positively by restricting Illinois from diverting over a fixed amount of water from Lake Michigan, and by making this lake, which lies wholly in American territory, subject to the jurisdiction of the joint international commission created by the treaty.

Excuse Not Valid.

"The excuse for this policy is that it is necessary to deny Illinois and New York in order to maintain safe navigation levels in the great lakes. But the very engineering report of the joint engineering board upon which the Hoover treaty is founded frankly concedes that safe navigation levels in the great lakes can be maintained by regulating gates at the respective outlets.

"But instead of adopting an American plan for regulating the level of the great lakes it has adopted and recommended a British plan, which locates such vital controlling works in all-British territory in the Niagara river. The evident purpose of this location is to take the whole matter of power and navigation control permanently out of the hands of the congress of the United States and subject it to international combination."

A. F. OF L. TAKES UP FIVE DAY WEEK AT CONVENTION TODAY

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Spurred by a declaration of their president, William Green, that it "is clearly evident" the time for a shorter work week has arrived, representatives of organized labor tomorrow will renew their search for a plan to make effective the six hour day and five day week.

While sentiment at the convention of the American Federation of Labor was considered overwhelmingly for the shorter work week, the delegates are proceeding cautiously in an effort to evolve an airtight plan. Because of this cautiousness they rejected almost unanimously last week a proposal that the A. F. L. agitate for a constitutional amendment making the 30 hour week mandatory. At least three plans are being considered.

Unemployment insurance, indorsed for the first time this year by the federation's executive council, likewise is due to come upon the floor tomorrow or Tuesday.

Government Party Slated to Win Election in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The government party was expected to win two of the three national administrative council seats filled in elections today. Executive power in Uruguay is divided between the president and the council of nine members. The nationalists were expected to win the third seat. Members of the council are elected for six years, three retiring every two years.

CHILE CALLS ON SOUTH AMERICA TO OUST REDS

Adheres to Argentina-Peru Suppression Pact.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 27.—Premier Javier Angel Figueroa today announced he will issue invitations for a South American conference "to take general defensive measures against communists," more specifically to outlaw communism, ban Moscow agents from South America and organize coöperation in stifling red outbreaks.

This follows Argentina's and Peru's request that Chile adhere to the convention they signed to coöperate in checking red activities, facilitating extradition and providing punishment of instigators of communism and anarchy.

Police Compare Notes.

Figueroa, without revealing "certain secrets," which he stated, "are in the possession of many of our sister states," disclosed that a comparing of notes between police departments of Santiago, Lima, Bogota, La Paz, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro had confirmed that during the last decade Moscow had made a deliberate, sinister, but secret, attempt to capture control of South American workers' organizations.

El Diario Illustrado, conservative daily, characterized the conference as a virtual confession that "no one South American power can beat the communists singled handed. Chile has been repressing reds since the war and has outlawed communist doctrine, yet it is being spread by foreign agents."

It is forecast here the conference will result in a general treaty detailing communist offenses and punishment and also banning Russian trade, other states agreeing with Chile that it is preferable to lose business than to run the risk of anarchy.

Uruguay May Hold Out.

Chile, for instance, though a gasoline shortage has her motorized transportation almost at a standstill, recently turned down an attractive Russian petroleum proposition because one of the conditions was the "establishment of a soviet trading mission in Santiago."

Buenos Aires points out that an obstacle to complete South American agreement is Uruguay's persistence in harboring a Russian trade delegation at Montevideo. Recent disturbances in Argentina, Chile, and Peru have been traced to that center.

Prefect Alberto Rencoret this week submitted secret documentary proof of communist activities which is believed to have prompted the government's adherence to the Argentine-Peruvian pact and the premier's calling the conference.

2 MILLION CHILDREN HOLD JOBS; OPEN BACK TO SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A widespread campaign to remove more than 2,000,000 children from employment by putting them back into schools so that "jobs may be given the 10 to 11 million adults" now in "desperate need of work" was announced today by the national child labor committee.

The committee released a statement carrying the signatures of Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college and delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, William Allen White, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

"More than 3,000,000 children from 7 to 17 years of age are out of school and more than two million boys and girls of this age are gainfully employed, while from 10 to 11 million adults are in desperate need of work," the statement said.

"We earnestly appeal to leaders everywhere to join in pressing toward the removal from industry of children under 16; a higher age for school leaving; promotion of educational standards, and vigorous defense of the school against unwarranted or injudicious use of funds."

ADOPT STRATEGY TO SAVE KERNER SEAT FOR PARTY

Judge Will Resign After Horner Is Governor.

There will be one bit of presto-changeo in the Democratic inaugural ceremonies at Springfield early in January. Not until Henry Horner has been sworn in as governor will Judge Otto Kerner prepare himself for installation as attorney general by resigning from the Cook county Circuit bench.

This is expected to require a little fast footwork, but the Democratic leaders are said to have decided it is necessary to retain their hold on the Kerner seat, which is of political importance because the judges of the Circuit court elect the south park commissioners. There already is one vacancy on the park commission, that of John Bain, and next February the term of another Republican commissioner, Philip S. Graver, expires.

Gives Choice to Horner.

If Judge Kerner were to resign before the present state administration retires, Gov. L. L. Emmerson could appoint a successor for the remainder of his term, which expires next year. With Judge Horner seated, Kerner can turn in his resignation and Gov. Horner can accept it and appoint the successor.

This is one phase of a subject—that of vacancies to be filled—which probably will be taken up by the Democratic managers in a conference in the near future. It involves a number of questions on which the organization is expected to take a position, the chief one being whether Judge Horner's duties in the Probate court are to be taken over temporarily by County Judge Jarecki, or if some other arrangement is to be made.

Seek "World's Fair Man" for Job.

There also is the question of the Bain vacancy on the south park board. Recently the Circuit judges held a meeting to take up this election, but postponed action until the Democratic organization has made a recommendation. The only suggestion in connection with the commissionership during the French Lick conference of Democratic leaders was a plea that "a real World's Fair man" be chosen, since the commissioners will be somewhat in the rôle of hosts during the Century of Progress exposition.

When the party leaders meet they will have several other vacancies to consider. George L. Reker, a master in chancery of the Superior court, and Leopold Neumann, a member of the jury commission, died last month, and recommendations for filling both places are to be made.

Horner Considers Park Change.

In addition, Erwin J. Hasten, president of the county civil service commission, was elected to the Municipal bench and will surrender his county place before taking his installation in judicial office next Monday, Dec. 5.

Replying to reports that he favors a form of consolidation of the west parks and the Lincoln park systems by the appointment of the same individuals on the two boards, Judge Horner said yesterday he had not been convinced any actual economy could be effected unless the two corporations are merged by legislation. He pointed out that it would be unfair to transfer the equipment or employés paid for by the taxpayers of one system over to another system supported by other taxpayers.

REBELS RETREAT FROM CAPITAL OF HONDURAS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 26.—[Delayed in transmission.]—(AP)—Citizens of this capital city, who have been on the verge of panic and shut in their homes for two days because of threats of attacks by rebels, were somewhat relieved tonight.

It was learned that two forces of rebels, led by Liberal party adherents who were defeated in the recent election, had withdrawn from the vicinity after sporadic firing, and that four nearby fortifications were strongly garrisoned by loyal troops.

Arraign Suspect in Gold Note Counterfeiting Today

Thomas Popov, 35 years old, will be extradited to St. Paul to face charges of conspiracy to counterfeit $20 gold notes, Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan of the secret service said yesterday. Popov will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Walker. Popov has denied any knowledge of the counterfeiting conspiracy. Federal officials said that three members of the gang besides Popov are under arrest, and that notes amounting to $15,00 were found on them. The gang turned out at least $30,000 in bogus bills.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

COLLECTING THE DEBTS.

Mr. Borah is abrupt and may be thoughtless in his protest against President Hoover's adoption of the suggestion that the debtor nations pay in their own currencies. The Idaho senator says this would be merely a moratorium under another name. It is true that Mr. Hoover did suggest the deposit of currencies pending an easing in the difficulties of transfer in exchange. That would be somewhat like putting an article in hock.

It may be, however, that the only way the United States can collect will be in foreign currencies—in other words, in credits established in the debtor countries, to be there transferred into goods and services. It was in that form that the debts were contracted, the debtor nations being at the time in extreme need of war material and other goods and services for which they were forced by their own circumstances to look to the United States.

If all this foreign debt of 11 billion dollars and interest is transferred to the American taxpayer, to appear in his national budget and to come out of his pocket, his budget in years to come must be shorn of many things which both national necessity and his own requirements would demand.

Material for national defense will be among the articles the American taxpayer will be unable to provide on anything like the scale his experts will advise him is precautionary. American shipyards and other industries may howl if it is proposed to meet these defense needs in foreign yards and industries, but let it be understood that if the foreign taxpayer does not pay his government's international obligations the American taxpayer is going to be stumped to meet the requirements of the American government. It may very well prove to be that the United States in the end will take its payment in foreign credits, or it will not get a dime, unless, of course, it gets some territorial compensations. Territorial compensations would be at least a satisfaction of sentiment and in some cases a real good, but it will not be any perceptible practical relief to the American whose money is meeting the costs of government.

FOLLOWING THE CYCLE.

The following are some observations on hard times collected by Charles Warren, former assistant attorney general of the United States and student of American constitutional history:

By Henry Clay in the house of representatives, March, 1824. "In casting our eyes around us the most prominent circumstance which fixes our attention and challenges our deepest regret is the general distress which pervades the whole country. It is forced upon us by numerous facts of the most incontestable character. It is indicated by the diminished exports of native produce, by the repressed and reduced state of our foreign navigation, by our diminished commerce, by successive unthreshed crops of grain perishing in our barns and barnyards for the want of a market; by the alarming diminution of the circulation medium; by the numerous bankruptcies . . . by a universal complaint for the want of employment and by a consequent reduction of the wages of labor . . . by the reluctant resort to the perilous use of paper money; by the intervention of legislation in the delicate relations of debtor and creditor, and, above all, by the low and depressed state of the value of almost every description of the whole mass of the property of the nation, which has, on the average, sunk not less than fifty per cent within a few years. This distress pervades every part of the Union, every class of society, all feel it. It is like the atmosphere which surrounds us—all must inhale it and none can escape it. . . ."

By Justice Joseph Storey to Justice McLean in 1837: "Our country is in a state of unexampled distress and suffering. Credit and confidence and business are everywhere at a stand. . . . The people have been stupefied and are led on to their ruin by the arts of demagogues and the corrupted influences of party."

By Ralph Waldo Emerson in his Journal, 1837: "Society has played out its last stroke. It is checkmated. Young men have no hope. Adults stand like day laborers, idle in the streets. None calleth us to labor. The present generation is bankrupt of principles and hope, as of property."

By Harper's Weekly in an editorial, 1857: "It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without the prospect of it. In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe, while all the energies, resources, and influences of the British empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection and with its disturbed relations in China. . . . Of our own troubles no man can see the end."

By the New York Nation in an editorial, May, 1874: "All through the depression of last winter people flattered themselves that the spring would bring back at least a portion of the usual activity, and that before summer we should be in a fair way to forget our woes. These expectations have not been realized. The dullness in every branch of industry is very great. Even stock speculation . . . is almost extinct. . . . There is greater depression than in 1858; the process of recovery has thus far been slower, the commercial activity of the community appears to be smaller. . . . There is more doubt about the future than there was after the last panic, and greater hesitation about entering on enterprises requiring a long period for the completion."

There will be no attempt to extract a moral—unless it be "Himmel, it's again."

INSPIRATION FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

The other day THE TRIBUNE devoted close to a column and a half to an account of how the city of Charleston, S. C., and the Citadel, the state's military college, located there, had each managed to come through a trying year without a deficit. Charleston is a long way from Chicago and it is not one of the great metropolitan cities of the United States. The Citadel's distinguished history goes back to the days before the revolutionary war, but its cadet corps numbers only 500 and its budget in 1931, before wholesale economies were undertaken, was less than $250,000, a sum which many educational institutions would regard as insufficient to finance the football team.

Nevertheless, that column and a half contained vital information for the American people, information which must be acted upon if the governments of the nation and many of its richest political subdivisions are to avoid bankruptcy and ruin. The significance of the news from Charleston lies in the demonstration it provides that the thing can be done. Cities and public institutions can live within their means. They can readjust their expenditures to fit their depleted purses.

More especially, Charleston today is teaching the American people that men of character and purpose like Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of the Citadel, and Mayor Burnet Maybank of the city of Charleston can turn the trick. A year ago the Citadel had a deficit of $24,000 after spending $215,000. This year the income of the college is only $125,000, but in spite of that reduction the institution has paid off the deficit and is living within its means. Gen. Summerall reduced his own salary by 45 per cent and other salaries by smaller percentages. He abandoned the practice of firing a salute at retreat. He saved money on heat, light, and water. He even denied himself the convenience of a telephone on his desk. To the students the experience acquired this year will be beyond price. They have learned that honorable men do not live beyond their means, however limited, and they have learned fortitude.

Mayor Maybank has placed his city on a cash basis, retired a tenth of its debt, and has made possible a reduction of 25 per cent in taxes. If the government of American cities was a profession instead of a political perquisite he would be seriously considered for the position of mayor of New York on his record of courage and accomplishment. The great universities should be fighting for the services of Gen. Summerall.

Editorial of the Day

THE END OF A HATRED.

[Peoria Transcript.]

A Democratic weekly published in Texas gloatingly calls attention to the presidential vote to prove that Mr. Roosevelt is not merely the choice of the southern Democracy, but of the people of the nation as a whole.

The weekly points out that the New York governor would have been elected President of the United States whether there had been any "solid south" or not. If all the electoral votes of the "solid south" were subtracted from his total and the electoral votes of Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Oklahoma given to President Hoover the successful candidate would still have a majority of 63 in the electoral college.

This leads to further interesting observations about the result. The Hoover electoral votes came from the New England states and Pennsylvania and Delaware. Yet the President lost New England by one electoral vote, since Massachusetts and Rhode Island together have 21 votes, as compared with 20 for Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut. The President elect carried the middle Atlantic states by 27 votes, since New York and New Jersey have 63 electoral votes to Pennsylvania's 36. Outside of these divisions the President carried only Delaware, with three electoral votes. Four states that never before went Democratic gave their electoral votes to Roosevelt. These were Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, and Oregon.

Just why this should be cause for rejoicing in the south is not clear. But, without respect to Republican or Democratic sentiments, the showing suggests something which for many years has been the dream of idealists. It suggests that from the political standpoint the hates engendered by the civil war have passed beyond the horizon of our national consciousness.

For nearly a generation after the civil war the Republican party flourished on the "bloody shirt" issue. Sober minded and fair Republicans detested the practice of waving the "bloody shirt" at every crossroads political rally, but they were unable to stop it. They knew that the real strength of their party lay in its conservatism, its soundness on money, its good sense on the tariff, and its benevolence regarding the workingman. But they also recognized that it succeeded politically in a large measure because it was easy to stir the hatred of the north by recalling the horrors of the war between the states. There are men under 40 years of age in the northern part of the United States who can remember being instructed in Republican loyalty by tales of Andersonville and similar yarns.

Now, as the Texas magazine points out, the north has gone Democratic. What it means as to the future is a matter for speculation. But it suggests that some of the bitterness of the past has gone the way of all flesh.

BETTER LUCK.

IT WILL BE such a pleasure to go out to the stock show and mingle with the horses and the cows and the pigs and the lambs. It isn't that they're the very finest of their kind that attracts us, but it's because we can be in their company for hours and hours and not one of them will start to tell us about the depression or ask who our bootlegger is.

THE LITTLEST GIRL.

Said the Littlest Girl:
"There is no sense in Pride Between lovers!"

"No," said Age.

"My lover is proud:
He will not take me
Because he has little to give.
I am weary with wanting him.

"He needs me for his comforting,
To share the lean days with him;
To be hungry with him, laughing;
To be joyful on his little;
To be cold if he is cold—"

"Ah, child! Ah, child! whispered Age, piteously.

"How may we grow together—
How shall we sink roots together
If I may not warm his hands
At my breast?"

"How, indeed?" whispered Age,
Remembering.

"I've danced with him, in pretty frocks,
And thought I loved him.
When we played, when we laughed together,
And he had gifts for me
I thought I loved him.

"But I never knew what loving him could mean
Until he came to me with empty hands,
And I saw pain, and pride, and withdrawal
In his eyes."

"There, there, pretty heart, wee woman,
There, there—"

"Oh, tell it to me—
Oh, say there is no sense
In such Pride
Between lovers!" sobbed the Littlest Girl.

"Child, child, there is no sense in it!"
Said Age.

A JUDGE IN NEW YORK, after pondering deeply the testimony offered by the neighbors in an apartment building, decided that a bridge club could not really be called a nuisance in the legal sense of the word. Well, maybe then bridge isn't disturbing to the neighbors, but when one of the players shoots his partner because he trumped his ace it always wakes us up and sometimes we can't get back to sleep again for hours and hours.

AND IN SPITE of all that's said against the return of the old time saloon [and everything is true, no doubt], let us remember, friends and neighbors, there is good in everything. Down in Tia Juana, Mexico, the city was threatened by a roaring brush fire. Nearer and nearer crept the dreadful flames, their red tongues licking greedily towards the quiet town nestling so cozily alongside the California boundary. The firemen, the ranchers and the forest wardens had fought until they staggered back with blistered, smoke grimed faces, exhausted. Tia Juana was doomed. Then what happened? The town marshal dashed from saloon to saloon in Tia Juana, and there are many, many saloons in Tia Juana, and ordered every man that stood with his foot on the brass rail drinking at the bar to turn out and fight the fire. And every man jack of them did; they beat back that prairie fire and Tia Juana was saved. Thus you see, children, that the most despised things may have at least one redeeming quality. The noble barroom loafers may have fought as they did because they had left their unfinished cocktails and brandies and highballs and beer sitting on the bar and wanted to get back to the saloons and the town marshal wouldn't let 'em go until they put the fire out. Be that as it may, they saved Tia Juana.

MR. STIMSON wrote nice long letters regarding the war debts to England and France to the effect that the U. S. would have to have something on account on Dec. 15 or we would be reluctantly obliged to put the matter in the hands of our lawyer. To which we imagine England will reply: "Don't be silly, old thing, or are you spoofing us?" while France will reply in a manner also strictly characteristic: "Quel outrage! Assassin! Assassin!"

TIC DOULOUREUX.

NEURALGIA of the face is one of the most persistent and annoying disorders to which the human animal is subjected. It does not destroy life and, therefore, vital statistics tell us nothing about it. Nevertheless, it is productive of incapacity and waste, for not only does the sufferer spend his savings hoping for a cure but he cannot add figures, keep books, or do any other work well if he is in misery with a pain in his face.

The milder forms of the disorder result from such diseases of the teeth as pyorrhea, unerupted teeth, and pulpstones, and from a variety of other disorders located above the Adam's apple.

Dr. Joseph Wasserman has an idea that true trifacial neuralgia, or tic douloureux, is another disorder. We quote some of his views of true tic:

The disease is not caused by syphilis, nor by any other constitutional disease, so far as is known. There is no relation between sinus disease and tic. The sinuses should be left alone and the sinuses left undrained. The pain is sharp, severe, stabbing, and paroxysmal; beginning in the same place, traveling in the same direction, and disappearing at the same point. Pain around the face that is steady and in the form of a continuous throb is not tic. To repeat, the pain of tic is in sharp, instantaneous paroxysms of excruciating type, starting suddenly and completely disappearing in a few seconds or a very few minutes.

It is one-sided and, at first, is without trigger zones. A trigger zone is an area in which we can start the paroxysm of pain by touching some spot or rubbing a surface.

The relief of the pain of tic can be accomplished in some instances, particularly if the disease is not long continued, by inhalations of trichlorethelene. Twenty to twenty-five drops of this drug are placed on a handkerchief and this is held to the nose until the drug has disappeared. Since this inhalation may cause dizziness it is safer to lie down during the inhalation.

This chemical is used in cleaning automobile bodies and in dissolving chemicals and its capacity for relieving pain was accidentally discovered. In addition to the cruder form, in which it has always been marketed, there are two preparations of it bearing trade names now available. It is capable of curing, as well as relieving, about one-sixth the cases. In cases relieved by it a few inhalations a year have some ability to prevent subsequent attacks.

Those cases that do not get relief from the inhalation of this drug may need to be operated on. One operation consists in injecting alcohol into the ganglion. This generally gives relief for six to twelve months, after which it may be advisable to repeat the injection. Another operation is for the purpose of removing the ganglion. It is more severe, but its results are expected to be permanent.

BOILS AND SHINGLES.

A. V. L. writes: 1. How may one distinguish boils, carbuncles, and the sores that occur with shingles?

2. What is the best treatment of boils?

REPLY.

1. Shingles is a form of neuralgia and develops along the course of a nerve. The sores are ulcers. That is, they are right at the surface, and the skin covering is promptly lost. A boil is a localized infection of tissue just below the skin with a staphylococcus. Pus is produced and an abscess results. This abscess destroys the skin overlying it. In other words, the boil opens and discharges.

A carbuncle is about the same as a boil, except that it is deeper in the tissues, and if pus forms in any quantity it has more trouble pushing its way through the layer of tissue to open on the skin. Of these, carbuncle is much the most serious.

2. TO CURE: Protect the boil until it is ready to discharge. In some cases it is advisable to lance. However, this should not be done hastily. After it opens, discharge of the pus and dead tissue should be facilitated, but squeezing can be overdone.

TO PREVENT: Regulate the intake of sweet and starchy foods. Keep the blood sugar down. Look out for diabetes. Keep the skin scrupulously clean. Protect the skin against scratching and rubbing. Boils phage has a place in treatment.

DRINKING ROOT BEER.

G. M. writes: Will drinking about one quart or more of root beer every day harm me?

REPLY:

I think it will, though I cannot prove it. It is a highly charged water containing sirup and flavored with essential oils daily.

The best drink is plain water.

LEGAL CONVEYANCE.

Olivet, Mich., Nov. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does the law provide a way by which a person who is a citizen of Michigan can convey real estate in North Dakota to a friend in trust to avoid its being seized to satisfy a mortgage on [2] other property which is worth nearly three times the amount of the mortgage? We wish to convey said real estate to a friend to be reconveyed to us on demand. 3. Can this reconveyance be embodied in the instrument of conveyance or by signed contract?

J. L. H.

1. Of course he can make the experiment of such a conveyance. If a creditor attacks the transaction and proves the facts stated in your letter then the conveyance could be set aside as a fraud on creditors.

2. If the other property is worth this much on the present market then it should be possible for you to get some other party to bid at the forclosure sale and thus make sure that the property brings a large enough price so that there will be no deficiency decree.

3. If the agreement to reconvey is included in the recorded instrument it will increase the danger that the instrument will be set aside.

In any event you would be running the risk that the grantee might refuse to reconvey to you, and in such event a court would refuse to grant you relief since you were yourself a party to a fraudulent transaction. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RUBBISH HEAPS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—The alley just back of our apartment is used by all the people in our block as a dumping place. This attracts flies and sends forth objectionable odors. The children set fire to the rubbish and as a result the fence is set afire. E. A.

Notices have been served on those responsible for dumping at the location complained of to discontinue this practice, and they have promised to comply. There should be no further cause for complaint, but we will keep the alley under observation, and see that the ordinance is complied with.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know about a will. A year has passed since the death and the money willed to me has not yet been paid. My share is $1,000 and so far I got $600. Please tell me how I should proceed to get the rest.

It may be that the assets are not sufficient to pay all of the legacies in full. Your first step should be to discuss the situation with the executor. If you are correct in your assumption that the money is available, then you might ask the clerk of the court to bring pressure on him to close the estate.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 28, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A warning to American bankers—and indirectly to private investors—against tying up their funds by investing too heavily in foreign loans in the shape of treasury notes was sounded by the federal reserve board in an official statement. While disclaiming "any intention of reflecting upon the financial stability of any nation," the board advises all investors to proceed with caution and formally announced that, with the liquid funds which should be available to American merchants, manufacturers, and farmers in danger of being absorbed for other purposes, it "does not regard it in the interest of the country at this time that they invest in foreign treasury bills of this character."

LONDON.—The most critical week in the history of Rumania has opened. Nothing short of a miraculous reversal in form can save Bucharest from siege within a few days and from capture soon afterwards. Everywhere the odds favor the Teutons. Bucharest is the center of a circle of enemies, approximately fifty miles in radius, which is closing every hour. Beaten on all sides, King Ferdinand's troops have surrendered the entire line of the River Alt. On the right wing of their front Gen. Mackensen's Danubian regiments swept down from two sides today on Alexandria, the centering point of a number of fine roads to Bucharest. After capturing the town the Germanic forces continued their forward drive. Between the Alt and the Jibles-Pitesci railroad Saxon troops, supported by a Neumark artillery regiment, made a quick thrust, broke through and scattered the enemy in wild disorder. At the same moment the Teutonic troops on both sides of the Alt in the Valcea region drove the Rumanians out of the entire Topolog sector. The invaders, led by Gen. Delminsingen, then took up positions looking down on the important railroad center of Pitesci.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico.—Francisco Villa was withdrawing his forces from the city and going in a northwesterly direction today. Fighting took place in the northwestern part of the city, where 200 Villa troops fortified themselves. By sundown they were completely surrounded and the de facto government officers said they would be annihilated tomorrow.

CHICAGO.—The board of local improvements is scheduled to close up shop tonight and several other city departments are on the verge of following suit because of lack of funds to operate for the rest of the year. The city council wrestled with the problem for two hours and adjourned to tackle it again today, but it was believed no legal remedy could be evolved. Many aldermen were disposed to make Michael J. Faherty, president of the improvement board, and other department heads "take their medicine."

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Charles E. Hughes announced here that on Jan. 1 he would resume the practice of law as a member of the New York City law firm of Rounds, Schurman & Dwight, 96 Broadway. His son, Charles E. Hughes Jr., also will enter the firm.

WILMETTE'S PUMPING STATION.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 23.—Monday's TRIBUNE sets forth reasons used as basis for injunction by the Shawnee club against Wilmette's proposed Diesel water works. The reasons, as given, such as vibrations, soot, unsightly parking of employés' cars, ruination of bathing beach, disagreeable fumes, discoloration of buildings, are unfounded and given without any knowledge of Diesel plant operation.

This type of engine is used in Macy's department store, New York City, and no noise or vibration is noticeable on any floor. It also is used in the Conway building, Chicago, and many of New York's newest hotels. Vibrations that cannot be detected in the same building where engine is installed will not be a source of annoyance to a building 150 feet away.

The United States government uses Diesel engines in all submarines; in fact, Diesel engines made submarines possible, and there are no fumes or gases to contaminate the limited quantity of air available in these small compartments. All modern ships are using this kind of power because engine rooms are below the water surface and difficult to ventilate. So, Mr. Shawnee Club Member, your buildings will not be discolored by soot or fumes, or ladies' dresses soiled.

As for parking city employés' cars, there is usually a private parking space provided in back of plant, obscured by a hedge.

A property owner, or any public spirited person interested in lower city taxes, or a taxless city, should be the last person to put his name to this petition. Why? Because the installing of Diesel engines in the Wilmette power station will very shortly prove not only to Wilmette but its neighboring cities and villages just how inexpensively power can be generated and open the eyes of the public to the possibility of a source of revenue available for all city funds, where heretofore a bond issue has been necessary for each project.

The only sincere objector to Wilmette's pumping station should be a public utility company, whose existence depends upon the ignorance of the people regarding the amount of revenue which can be realized by cities through owning their own power plants. D. D. COOK.

THE HIGH COST OF COLLEGIATE PARTIES.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—My complaint is against the traditional functions which are sponsored by fraternities and sororities, such as their supper dances, proms, and etc. I am for social activity, yes, but when it is still compulsory for a fellow to squander money to rent a dress suit to attend such an affair, that costs also about five dollars per couple at the least, then I agree with our practical business men who say that collegiates are soft skulled. I complain because I am but one of many who do not possess formal clothes; our incomes of scattered cash are way below our needs for necessities and the expenses of these affairs cannot be met.

PRACTICAL STUDENT.

ALCOHOL AND GASOLINE.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—With drunken auto drivers a daily occurrence, how can THE TRIBUNE brazenly advocate more beer and liquor, as it has done for years? I drive a great deal, but I am fearful that our streets and highways will all become death traps when liquor flows as freely as THE TRIBUNE desires.

DR. H. W. CHENEY.

THE NEW ERA.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—It won't be long now, I'm telling you. The world's greatest event to date is the World's Fair, almost upon us. There were 29 million souls at the last great fair in Chicago. There were sections of the city then, like Cottage Grove avenue, where visitors were paying as high as $5 to sleep in the front hall on the floor. This time everybody will have to fill the attics with beds to accommodate the money spenders. Everybody is hoarding now to see the 1933 centennial. With more railroads, more traffic channels and more methods of travel, Cook county will be entirely occupied with airplane fields, auto parking spaces, railroad yards, shipping channels, hotels, garages, and eat houses.

Golf courses, parks and preserves will be appropriated. When these pilgrims come to take a look at the fair and the rest of us, they will go back home, like the queen of Sheba, and report that "the half has never yet been told." With chariots flying, loaded with people, between two ungodly high towers, airplanes and gas bags at dizzier heights, and hot air shooters like myself on the ground, the fair is bound to be a success. Prosperity is "not around the corner." It is less than six months straight ahead.

If I can write this stuff on nothing but home brew, I will take you all up to the pearly gates as soon as we all can be ushered into those magnificent thirst counters, trimmed with bar maids—but don't crowd. There is room for everybody. Why always feel poor when 5 cents worth of beer will make us feel rich? ALLEN STEVEN.

LOOKING FOR A MAID.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—I am wondering just what is wrong with the unemployed—young women and girls particularly? I am a housewife of several years' standing, and in that time have had to have help to assist with my housework. I have a six room apartment, no washing for a girl to do, and have no children to be attended. We are a grown family of four.

Needing help, I have called on the various relief stations and charities and offered a good home, plenty of food, and a fair salary to some young woman. During the last week I have had at least a hundred applicants. Several girls have promised to accept the position, but never came back. In many cases I have paid the girls' carfare both ways and given them a nickel to call and let me know if they decided not to take the position, but that was the last I heard of them. They never used the nickel to call me back.

From all sides you hear of the terrible state of affairs. You are asked to give, give, give. I have come to the conclusion that what is wrong is too much charity. At the present time people are getting aid financially that enables them to live better than if they worked for a living. The answer to this terrible depression is, I am sure, too much charity.

MRS. C. BERLINER.

EXAMPLES OF COURAGE.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—Hardships make strong character if they are faced and conquered instead of avoided. There are many persons who are coming through the depression gamely and others would do so with some encouragement. Our pioneer forbears were strong men in hard times. Give us some hardy examples so that the unemployed and unhappy may learn what has been done, and can be done, and take heart.

JARECKI TAKES STEPS TO SPEED TAX COLLECTION

Orders 40 Large Suits Placed on Calendar.

County Judge Jarecki took steps yesterday to speed the collection of approximately $200,000,000 in taxes from property owners who have filed objections to the 1928, 1929, and 1930 levies in his court.

First, he announced that the practice of allowing taxpayers who come into court and receive judgment on their objections to escape half the accrued penalties of 1 per cent a month on their delinquent bills will end on Dec. 15. After that date all penalties must be paid in full, he said.

Then he prepared a list of forty of the largest loop taxpayers who have objections pending and whose aggregate tax bills amount to $5,720,000. These tax cases, he said, will be put on his court calendar, the owners ordered into court, and their objections disposed of so that the property can be sold by the county treasurer if the taxes remain unpaid.

Will Rule on Objections.

The judge said that he intends to rule on all the 250,000 objections now pending in his court against the 1928, 1929, and 1930 tax rolls before the 1931 tax bills are placed in collection. To accomplish this he has conferred with State's Attorney Elect Thomas Courtney and recommended the establishment of a special tax department in the state's attorney's office.

This department, the judge proposes, would handle all tax matters including personal property suits and foreclosure suits now pressed by Special County Attorney Edward M Winston and all tax objections now handled in the County court. Attorney Winston's contract with the county board expires in January.

With a number of clerks employed in preparing the objections for trial and serving notice on attorneys and objectors, the accumulated call can be disposed of within four months, the judge said.

List of Pending Cases.

Some of these cases that are pending, with the names of the owners as they appear on the books of the county treasurer and the total bill for 1928, 1929, or 1930 taxes still unpaid are as follows:

Moir Hotel company, the Morrison hotel, 71 West Madison street, $339,719.
Board of Trade, 133 West Jackson street, $412,214.
Strauss Safe Deposit company, 300 South Michigan avenue, $504,572.
Emil and Carl Eitel, 124 North La Salle street, $323,266.
Ridgecroft Real Estate company, trustee for the Tower building, 2 North Michigan avenue, $257,184.
Honoré and Potter Palmer, 114 South Wabash avenue, $517,244.
Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 153 West Monroe street, $73,132.
Continental and Commercial bank, 161 West Adams street, $279,153.
Standard Office company, 222 South Michigan avenue, $121,415.

RESIGNS PULPIT

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The resignation of Dr. Albert Parker Fitch as pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian church was announced at today's communion service by the Rev. R. W. Anthony, associate pastor. Poor health was ascribed as the reason.

Dr. Fitch, who had served as pastor since 1928, took a six months' leave of absence on April 1 in an effort to recover his health. He returned to his duties on Oct. 2, but ten days later suffered a stroke.

Recognized as a liberal in church circles, Dr. Fitch challenged the Wickersham report as an "inconsistent compromise" and on occasions attacked the stock market.

He came to New York from Carleton college in Minnesota, where he had been a member of the faculty. Prior to that he was professor of religious history at Amherst, a post he assumed after relinquishing the presidency of the Andover Theological seminary in Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. Fitch was born in Boston in 1871 and was graduated at Harvard in 1900. He was ordained a Congregational minister three years later.

POLAND RATIFIES PEACE TREATIES WITH RUSSIA

WARSAW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Poland ratified today nonaggression and conciliation pacts with soviet Russia which have been under negotiation for a long time. President Moscicki signed the documents and official announcement will be made tomorrow. The nonaggression pact was initialed last July and its corollary, the conciliation pact, was initialed in Moscow by Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar, and Stanislas Patek, the Polish ambassador, on Nov. 11.

Foreign Minister Beck in an interview with the correspondent of the Russian Tass news agency in Geneva said:

"I feel gratified to be able to say that I consider the Polish-soviet conciliation pact foreseen in the nonaggression pact as very significant and real both for Poland and soviet union. I believe that it will greatly contribute not only to improved atmosphere in both countries, but also to stabilize good neighborly relations."

The Polish-soviet nonaggression pact is one of several similar pacts negotiated by the soviet government. One was recently concluded with France and another has been under consideration with Rumania. In the pact, both parties declare their eagerness to maintain peace and state that in their mutual relations they have renounced war as a national policy.

Colombia Denies Report 65 Peruvians Died in Clash

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The ministry of war emphatically denied a report published in the newspaper El Pais today that 65 Peruvians were slain when they attempted to capture the Colombian base of El Encanto Oncaraparana, seven miles from the Putumayo river.

(There have been unconfirmed reports of fighting between Peruvian and Colombian forces since the occupation of Leticia, upper Amazon river port, last Sept. 1, by Peruvians.)

PROPOSE BUDGET COMMISSION TO CUT TAX LEVY

United Action by Public Officials Is Urged.

George O. Fairweather, member of the joint commission on real estate valuations, announced yesterday that a proposal to convene an unofficial budget commission for Cook county has been recommended by the managing committee of the Chicago Civic conference to the several hundred civic organizations which compose the conference's membership.

The proposal will be sent out this week to the member organizations for their approval. If they concur the mayor and the presidents of the board of education, the sanitary district, the county board, and the three large park districts will be petitioned to meet to discuss the necessity for reducing the tax burden in Cook county and to allocate on this basis the tax requirements of the major local governments.

What Civic Conference Is.

The Chicago Civic conference was an outgrowth three years ago of a survey made by the Union League club and the University of Chicago of civic and improvement organizations and their aims. It functions, according to Mr. Fairweather, as a clearing house for its members on information regarding taxation and allied subjects.

"In view of the necessity for lowering taxes," said Mr. Fairweather, "the resolution that will be sent to the member organizations urges the public officials to convene as a voluntary commission to oversee the budget making of the local governments, the officials giving joint consideration to the total expenditure requirements of all local governments.

"It is essential that the aggregate tax bill be collectively determined through the selection of the minimum of essential services that are necessary so as to produce the lowest possible total tax levy for 1933.

Urge a Reasonable Levy.

"The proposed budget commission can examine the expenditure requirements of all the local governments and determine what services can be sacrificed in the interest of conserving the most important governmental activities. This should be done with regard to keeping the total tax levy for the coming year within a reasonable estimate of tax income."

The managing committee decided to recommend the proposal for a budget commission at its meeting on Nov. 19. Besides the argument that the proposed commission could cut budgets where the least harm would be done, it was stated that tax payments undoubtedly would increase from lowering of the tax levy. It is the belief of the managing committee that the $200,000,000 minimum tax levy demand of the citizens' committee on public expenditures should be supported, Mr. Fairweather said.

VARNER CORRY TO SEEK RETRIAL IN JUVENILE COURT

Attorneys for Varner Corry, 16 year old slayer of a policeman, will ask that he be retried in the Juvenile court when they appear today before Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court. The state Supreme court recently remanded the case for a rehearing after the boy had been found guilty of murder before Judge Joseph Sabath and sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary.

James M. Burke and George Crane, attorneys for the boy, said they would cite to Judge Lynch a portion of the report of the Wickersham commission which recommended that juvenile cases be handled in a juvenile court.

Young Corry was convicted of the murder of Policeman Edward Smith, whom he shot after he had been caught swimming in the pool at the John Marshall High school on Memorial day, 1931.

"One COLD after Another"

Is Usually the Same Cold Repeating Itself!

Treatment Methods!
—Due to Ineffectual

Many times a person suffers three or four colds a season and thinks it is a different cold each time. As a matter of fact, it is often the same cold repeating itself, due to inadequate treatment methods. Only half-cured in the first place, the cold keeps coming back, and all the time it keeps weakening your system and exposing you to more serious trouble.

A Cold Calls for a COLD Remedy!

There is no subject on which the public is in more need of information than the treatment of common colds and grippe. First of all, a cold is a cold and requires a COLD remedy. A preparation that is good for half a dozen other things besides colds can't be as effective a cold remedy as a cold calls for.

Many popular remedies which the public takes for colds often only make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

It is also well to remember that a cold is an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside applications only relieve temporarily, if at all. They can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Ask your doctor and he'll probably tell you that the closest thing to an ideal cold remedy he knows of is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. In fact, many doctors frankly admit that they couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if they wanted to. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective and reliable because it does the several things necessary to thoroughly kill a cold.

Acts Four Ways!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—the first step in knocking a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system, which is the final touch in banishing a cold and which also fortifies the system against further attack.

This is the treatment every cold requires and anything short of it is courting danger.

In dainty tablet form, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. And it is absolutely safe for young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. All over the world it is the standard cold tablet.

Beat the Cold to the Punch!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped, and is sold by every drug store in America. Keep it handy as the ounce of prevention that beats the pound of cure. At the first sign of cold or grippe take a few of the tablets and you usually knock the cold overnight. Remember, no cold is too slight for immediate attention—and remember, there is no substitute for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

ACTS TO BLOCK LOOPHOLES IN CRIMINAL COURT

Prystalski Adopts New Writ Policy.

Chief Justice John Prystalski is making a survey of the Criminal court, it was learned yesterday, with a view of plugging up the loopholes through which convicted persons escape punishment even though they may be guilty of the crimes with which they are charged.

The first step is to stop the release of Municipal court prisoners from the Bridewell or county jail because of defective information. In the past, Criminal court records show, many prisoners have been freed because of these defects by means of writs of habeas corpus filed in the Criminal court.

The most recent example is the case of Adam Durica, 53 years old, 1733 String street, a furrier, who evaded most of a ten months' Bridewell sentence by means of a writ of habeas corpus after he had been convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was rearrested recently on charges of attacking three schoolgirls.

Durica Freed on a Writ.

Durica was released from the Bridewell on a writ of habeas corpus based on the allegation that the information on which he was tried was defective. This was admitted by the assistant prosecutor, according to the judge who issued the writ.

Chief Justice Prystalski's new method is to rule that, where such a contention is raised and found to be a fact, the presiding judge had no jurisdiction to try the case. He has asked his associates on the Criminal court bench to follow his ruling.

"If there is no legal complaint the trial judge had no jurisdiction in the case," said Judge Prystalski. "If the judge had no jurisdiction there could not have been a trial. No question of jeopardy can be raised.

"My new system is to order the police and prosecutors in each of such cases to get a new complaint and to try the defendant just as if he had not been tried before. I have refused to release such defendants on writs until the new complaints are issued."

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, said that he was glad to hear of the efforts to plug up the loopholes by which criminals sometimes escape.

"Judge Prystalski is to be commended for his new policy," said Mr. Chamberlin. "It is a common sense rule of law to follow."

As a rule, complaints against defendants in the Municipal court are drawn by warrant clerks. These clerks are policemen who are not trained in the law. In the hurry of trying hundreds of cases each day some defective complaints slip by.

STORM SWEEPS FLORIDA COAST; BOATS AGROUND

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mountainous waves borne ashore by a northeast gale caused wide property damage, washed several boats aground, foundered a number of smaller craft and brought the highest tides in years to the northeast coast of Florida and South Georgia last night and today.

At Fernandina, Fla., the 32 foot schooner, Augustus G. Hilton, was torn from her moorings and cast upon a bar. The shrimp boat Nepenthe sank and a private yacht was grounded.

At St. Augustine the waves carried over the seawall, swamping several small boats. An ocean front resort and an old pier on Anastasia island collapsed.

The moat surrounding old fort Marion was filled with tide water. Crews labored throughout the day and night reinforcing the seawall with bags of sand and concrete.

Daytona Beach experienced its highest tide in 10 years and gusts of winds reached 75 miles an hour, observers said.

The Daytona Beach Yacht club's weekly regatta was called off today after three of the boats participating capsized. Their crews were rescued.

Are you sure your advertisement will KEEP?

IT TAKES more than a sound idea and a good layout to make your advertisement pay. It must be timed to the readers' buying hours, moved close to the opportunity to buy. A message timed too early is almost as badly handicapped as one too late. It shouldn't be asked to preserve its punch—to keep fresh overnight for 14 to 18 hours. And it needn't!

You can reach New York's housewives just before they buy. You will not be required to compete with New York's ever-growing variety of evening diversions—radio, bridge, theatres, talkies, sports, parties. You will reach women when their minds welcome practical household guidance — during the planning-and-buying hours from 8:30 A. M. to 3 P. M. (when, it has been demonstrated, the great bulk of the day's buying is done).

Keep every advertisement fresh, especially in New York! DAYTIMELINESS is helping manufacturers get RESULTS every day. May we tell you all the facts?

EINSTEIN INJECTS NEW 'MATH' TERM INTO HIS THEORY

Finds 'Spinors' Are Aid in Relativity Calculations.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—(AP)—"Spinors," a new word and the latest thing in higher mathematics, is vitalized by Albert Einstein, promulgator of the theory of relativity.

In a report to the Prussian academy of sciences he says:

"Semi-vectors are equivalent to spinors and may be used freely in relativity systems."

THE STORY OF "SPINORS."

"Spinors," inquiry in America showed, are barely two years old, so new that many mathematicians shy off from discussing them. Yet "spinors" are queer only in spelling. They might equally well be called "Spinners," for they are the mathematics of the "spin" of an electron, and that spin is quite like that of a top.

Although "spinors" arise from the lowly and invisible electron, Einstein apparently has found that they apply equally well for calculating the vast space occupied by all the stars.

For the spin of an electron, its existence proved thoroughly by the spectroscope, is like the daily spin of the earth on her axis, as she revolves annually around the sun. The electron seems to revolve around an infinitely small central sun, the nucleus of an atom. As it revolves, the electron also spins. Not only earth, but the whole milky way of stars, and every other celestial object visible in telescopes seems to be spinning.

"Spinors" Aid in Calculations.

As in the electron, electrical effects arise from these spins. "Spinors" are equations which calculate more broadly than heretofore possible, the electrical and other forces and motions involved in spinning.

Formerly the "vectors" to which Einstein refers had to be used in such calculations. A vector is a straight line of definite length and direction but no fixed position in space. A "spinor" is more than this. Evidently Einstein has further refined the mathematical accuracies by finding that "half-vectors" are sometimes like "spinors."

Inasmuch as physicists are finding that spin of some sort is part of life itself, the new word "spinors" may prove to be no more "highbrow" than was the word "zero," meaning the numeral, when it came into use about 1,000 years ago.

"Spin" Discovered in 1925.

Until almost modern times civilized man had no numeral zero, and the simplest figuring was in consequence laborious. When zero, or cipher, was introduced, the masses had so much difficulty in comprehending that to this day cipher remains a symbol of secret codes.

The history of "spinors" begins with the discovery of the electron's spin about in 1925 by Groudschmit, Ehlenbeck, Urey and Bichowsky. The mathematics involved in this spin was clarified somewhat two years later by W. Pouli.

Then in 1928 P. Dirac, professor of mathematics at Cambridge university, England, refined Pouli's calculations. Next H. Weyl, a German mathematician, wrote these theories into mathematical forms.

Finally L. Van der Waerden, a Dutch mathematician, presented the theories in still more systematic forms and "spinors" came into formal existence. His book on them was published this year.

OLD GOLD MINER AND FIGHTER OF INDIANS IS DEAD

John Biehr, 87 years old, who fought in the Indian wars of the late '80s and '90s, died suddenly of a heart attack last night at Sugar Grove, about 10 miles west of Aurora, where he had lived alone on a little farm. He was a sergeant of Company E, 20th infantry, which saw action against Sitting Bull in the South Dakota Indian uprising. His captain was Harry Hale, now a retired major-general.

After his discharge from the army Biehr went to Alaska and mined for gold for 19 years. He lived alone there for all the 19 years, in a cabin so far from civilization that his supplies were taken to him by dog sled. He got to Nome, the nearest city, only once in the 19 years. When his health failed he returned to the states and bought the little Sugar Grove farm where he died.

He has no known relatives.

FATHER AND SON KILLED BY COLD WHILE HUNTING

Cambridge, Md., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Lost in the marsh country of the eastern shore, where they had gone hunting yesterday afternoon, a boy and his father were frozen to death before their bodies were found about daybreak this morning. The temperature dropped suddenly last night to 15 above zero.

The dead are William Macknight, 65, manager of the American Stores company cannery at Hurlock, Md., and Thomas Macknight, 18.

The three Macknights and a companion started hunting shortly after noon yesterday in the Drawbridge, Md., section. The companion became cold and returned to a nearby town. When the Macknights did not appear by 1:30 this morning the fourth man solicited aid and began the search which culminated in the finding of the two dead men and Samuel about daybreak.

WARNS GERMAN YOUTH OF FRENCH LEGION PITFALLS

Association Says Foreign Service Wrecks Lives.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—In the northern sections of Berlin, where thousands of idle gather daily, an unusual attraction has opened its doors. It is known as "the Foreign Legion."

A bit of investigation revealed that this was an institution sponsored by the "Protective Association Against the French Foreign Legion," which was organized in Germany in 1927 by a former legionnaire, Fred Westphal.

(Parents of two American boys last week sought to get their sons away from the French Foreign Legion. The father and mother of Harry Wahlberg of Milwaukee appealed to American authorities in France to prevent their boy from carrying out his intention of joining the legion. Mrs. Mabel Bradford of Des Moines, through Senator Dickinson, pleaded with the state department to obtain the release of her son, Orval Chenoweth, who enlisted for the five year term.)

The two young men in charge of the exhibition on the Lothringen strasse are also former legionnaires.

"We are not working against France," one of them declared, "but against the system used by the legion. It is our duty to warn the youth of Germany, especially the idle, who are most likely to fall pray to the lures of the legion, against taking the fatal step of enlisting.

"The urge to join the legion is so great that in spite of our efforts sometimes 400 to 600 Germans are shipped from Marseilles to Morocco in a week. And most of the glory of the legion today consists not in soldiering, but in building roads, railways and plantations. The soldier who enlists is nothing but a day laborer.

"Those who are dismissed are so broken in body and soul that they are no longer fit for human society. Germany has at present 6,000 veterans of the legion to care for. More than $1,000,000 is spent by the government on them every year."

ESME Wingfield-Stratford, upon the publication of "Those Earnest Victorians" several years ago received the plaudits of critics here and abroad. The book was considered one of the really interesting and penetrating studies of the early Victorian age.

Now the same author in "The Victorian Sunset" continues his story from 1870 down to the beginning of the twentieth century. "If we had to select a point of time by which we could date the passing of the great Victorian age," he writes, "it would be that in which Dickens dropped in a mortal swoon from his place at the dinner table on the 6th of June 1870. . . . By 1870 the stately edifice of Victorian achievement stood practically complete, and, if every work of creative genius subsequent to that time were to be blotted out of memory, our estimate of the most eminent Victorians would be substantially what it is today."

"The Victorian Sunset" is divided into four parts, the first a sort of historical prelude, the second an interpretation of the spirit of the '70s in England, the third the '80s, and the fourth the '90s. The chapters, dealing with a great variety of subjects that are manifestations of the Victorian spirit, are very short, but done with a vividness and penetration that are memorable in such short space.

Mr. Wingfield-Stratford characterizes each age in his brilliant and analytical chapters. In each part of the book the author discusses the relations between men and women, the social and political attitudes of all classes of people, the developments in the fields of art, literature, and science, and the changing social customs and habits.

It becomes increasingly apparent that the gay and lighthearted last decades of the Victorian era were cast over by the shadow of bloodless social revolution. The standards of early Victorianism had long since perished in these last years of her majesty's reign; the old foundations were crumbling and rotted to the core, but it was the dawn of a new century before a new social and moral structure could be built.

A fascinating companion volume to Mr. Wingfield-Stratford's analysis of the Victorian age is "The Great Victorians." Many of the great figures presented in this volume lived long after 1870, the height of Victorian culture, but their flowering for the most part came when Victorianism bloomed most magnificently. The editors of this book have sought to obtain as wide a diversity in interpretation as possible from modern contemporary commentators. They have selected from the brilliant gallery of Victorian figures a list that fairly and typically represents the spirit of each field of human endeavor.

Charles Morgan writes of that strange and enigmatic figure, Emily Bronte, with sympathy and understanding, if not with originality; Sackville-West gives a womanly and wise view of the solid, moral, and mature genius, George Eliot. G. K. Chesterton, with his usual acumen enhanced by humor, presents the character of Charles Dickens, who never knew just what sort of writing he could do best.

Rebecca West, who rarely errs in her critical estimates, no matter what the subject or theme, is represented in "The Great Victorians" by a characteristically penetrating analysis of Charlotte Bronte. T. M. Tomlinson studies Robert Louis Stevenson; H. J. Laski evaluates Robert Peer; the brilliant Harold Nicolson appropriately estimates Lord Palmerston. Sylva Norman writes of Thomas Hardy and, in the second part of the essay, includes personal reminiscences of Edmund Blunden.

Frank Swinnerton interprets William Makepeace Thackeray, J. Middleton Murry writes of William Morris, Hugh Walpole of Anthony Trollope, and Lascelles Abercrombie of Robert Browning. There are altogether forty Victorian personalities evaluated in this book, and, although all of the evaluations are not original, they are interesting and brilliant, precise pen portraits.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?
BY
H. A. RIPLEY

Copyright 1932 By Stern Syndicate Co. Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

AN ALMOST PERFECT ALIBI.

"The Patrie case disclosed some ingenuity, Kelley," remarked Prof. Fordney to his old friend.

"Sunday night Patrie was known to have threatened Ellison and Monday night Ellison was murdered.

"Both men are sort of 'gentlemen farmers.' A bitter enmity existed because of a dispute over their adjoining properties.

"Patrie's alibi was that he left his house Monday evening at 7 p. m., walked a mile north to inspect a new house he was building and walked back again. The time of the murder was definitely established; if Patrie's alibi were true, he couldn't have committed it.

"Fortunately, the footprints of his walk, all the way and back, were plainly visible. They were apparently made by brand new shoes. I took plaster impressions and compared them with all of Patrie's shoes. I found a new pair which corresponded identically. His housekeeper said he had worn them for the first time Monday night. She had noticed them on his feet when he left the house and Tuesday morning he had given them to her to have cleaned. They were covered with mud.

"However, Emmy, a servant, insisted she saw Patrie rowing south on the river at the time he claimed he was walking north. While a person can easily be mistaken her insistence set me thinking. A little thought and it occurred to me how Patrie must have managed it.

"I discovered without difficulty where he'd purchased the shoes. Had he been a bit more clever he'd have gotten away with this murder."

"Nice work, Joe," complimented Kelley. "I see where he got life."

WHAT DEDUCTION GAVE FORDNEY THE CLEW THAT BROKE PATRIE'S ALIBI?

Gift Lingerie for Christmas Sure to Please

Two New Colors Are Hits of the Season.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ONLY the most seductive adjectives can be used for describing the new lingerie that is being folded and refolded in rustling reams of tissue paper in all the shops.

Christmas lingerie, the colorful kind, makes the average female positively swoon with proper appreciation . . . the sheer misty chiffons . . . ninons . . . delicate cobwebby laces swirling around the edges that contrast flesh, peach, and other colors equally well.

There are two brand new colors that are simply luscious . . . a rosy, raspberry red that some one has called "Spanish rose," and if roses in Spain bloom with such a delectable rosy abandon, the tourist tickets to that land of castanet should be all sold out in less time than it takes to tell.

This rose colored lingerie is fabulously alluring . . . wait till you see the fitted, lace yoked nightgowns, the long flared skirt with exquisitely rolled hem, the skillfully fashioned bodice top that is made almost entirely of incredibly thin and lovely lace of the shade called bistre.

The front neckline is square with the design of the lace encrusted over the chiffon. The back neckline or deep V backline is also outlined with the same sepian tinted lace and half way up the back two infinitesimal shoe string size straps hold the two lacey back sections in place.

You can buy audaciously eye filling combinations and French panties of the same delectable rose chiffon . . . filmy lace encrusted wisps that are the most gorgeous unmentionables any acquisitive Christmas gift collector ever Oh-ed and Ah-ed about. If this color seems a bit too rosy for daily use, you can hoard it for specially blue days. Any down hearted dismal soul would bloom riotously with such good looking underlayers, out of sight, but certainly not out of mind. The rosy red chiffon nightgown can be worn as a slip or underdress for the clinging chiffon velvet hostess gowns of the same color, which are without any argument quite the most glamorous velvet creations that have ever hung over a hanger.

In the same secluded nook where these Spanish rose temptations are to be found are the newly unpacked pieces of lingerie of the new lingerie white . . . opalescent cloudlike mists of chiffon with a perfect name of "moonstone white." The stuff looks fragile, misty, and as delicate as the shimmer of moonlight, when you hold them in your hands, but what this new white tint does for you after you slip it over your shoulders and fasten it smoothly over your hips is something to babble poetically over. These nightgowns, combinations, and panties made of this superlovely tint of white are practically indescribable. Lace just as thin as a shadow and just as alluring is used for top banding and edgings, lace that is the same pearl luster or tint as the moonstone white of the ninon and chiffon.

New "moonstone white" nightgowns are as demure and interesting as the new formal evening gowns and dance frocks . . . they have demurely puffed, very short sleeves, high waistlines, quantities of old fashioned ruchings, and lace trimmed ruffles. They are very long and full skirted, but you can buy some lavishly lace trimmed creations that are all lace from shoulder to waistline and the skirt is of gossamer chiffon or ninon.

While these two new colors will keep you gasping, the low price marks on all the collections of Christmas lingerie will start you shopping at once, completely satisfied with your good shopping luck!

Clothes Speak Louder than Many Posters

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Out of the recent election comes to my ears a tale that indicates that good works are an excellent thing in woman; an unblemished public record, ditto; a tremendous capacity for accomplishment, advantageous—BUT a smart get-up nothing to be ignored in a national office seeking hour.

The candidate, a super-conscientious public servant, has relegated clothes to a position of no importance, as it were. There came up the question of money for posters admonishing all good citizens to vote for Miss X, we shall call her.

"Three hundred for posters—and nothing for clothes?" ruminated her political backers.

"The principle is wrong," they volunteered. "Better three hundred for clothes and nothing for posters."

So the poster money was converted into sartorial benefits and the lady rode to victory.

We're not saying 'twas the clothes that rode her there. BUT the fact that a male body saw the value of female decorativeness and urged it over campaign plaudits in poster form means something, you'll agree.

Now this business of dress is not one of the generally neglected concerns of our sex. Most of us spend, according to our income, fairly lavishly on clothes. But what brings up this subject today is the reminder by a friend who never appeared so well dressed as she does today and who is doing it on one-fifth and less of other and riper spending days. Which accomplishment she attributes to her new system of planning and budgeting new system of planning and budgeting.

No more willy-nilly buying—a hat with nothing to go with it; shoes that don't belong; frocks that have neither need nor occasion to justify that crazy buying urge. A bag, neither daytime nor evening; a color that should never have been chosen.

Now there's plan; there's shopping for value;

Quality of Voice Attracts Attention.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

With only a small amount of advance publicity, Emily Mickunas came into the city—they say from Philadelphia—to give a song recital at the Eighth Street theater yesterday. With more of a preliminary blare, or better, with a few more appearances, she might easily become a well known figure in music, for she is by all odds the best coloratura soprano heard here in a number of seasons.

Technically she has developed to the point where she can sing "Una voce poca fa" from "The Barber of Seville" and the Bell song from "Lakme" with all their glitter of runs and flourishes.

Other singers have done these and will continue to do them. Where Miss Mickunas excels is in a superlatively lovely quality of voice, a quality with the sparkling bead of vitality in it, that beautifies on its own behalf every phrase that she sings. Pergolesi's "Nina," for example, becomes a quite different work when it is projected by her voice.

One of her groups consisted of Lithuanian songs. The rest were more or less conventional excerpts from the coloratura répertoire. She was assisted by Philip Warner, accompanist and solo pianist.

Frieda Brim's second piano recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon went a considerable way in the direction of increasing the favorable opinion formed at her first. The first was planned to display a young girl with a striking technical development. Yesterday's program displayed a musician. She is both. Any one who can play the Bach Fugue in A minor of the Liszt transcription and the Beethoven Sonata in D minor with understanding has gone beneath the surface.

She included a few display pieces, Rachmaninoff's rewriting of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" and Liszt's of Pagnini's "Campanella" among them, but the pieces named above, together with a group by Chopin and another by Scriabin were contributions of important music.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is the picture that Gloria Swanson wanted and Constance Bennett got. When Gloria sees it she'll purr.

It's all so forced. Beautifully staged and costumed, excellently photographed and, in many instances, spendidly acted, it still, to my way of thinking, is a labored, synthetic affair that never once hits a true keynote.

The story told is of Judy Carrol, actress. Something is all wrong with Judy's stars or else she doesn't know her numerology. Every jar of jam her eager fingers reach for, no matter how innocently, topples over on her, leaving her a mess in the eyes of the world.

In her struggle upward from the gutter of sorts where she spent her childhood days, Judy has dragged her gin loving mamma with her. [Gin loving mamma realistically portrayed by clever Jobyna Howland.] And by mamma she sticks to the bitter end, which is, in truth, just that.

Perhaps her adoring manager's words, "Judy, you are a very great lady!" recompense her for the loss of the man she has just sent back to his wife and new born babe, but, in sooth, I fear not.

Miss Bennett's performance is difficult to analyze. It is workmanlike. It is appealing. But, for me, it had the Chatterton failing of too obvious calculation. Even the undoubted wistfulness in the heroine's lovely eyes seems mirror perfect. The lady wears gorgeous clothes, but should shun like poison the backless evening gowns she effects.

Joel McCrea qualifies as the ardent-young-playwright-about-to-get-a-divorce, who is the grand passion of Judy's life. Paul Lukas is properly self-effacing and artistic as the man who makes three a crowd. June Filmer is a darling as the child the stern orphanage authorities won't let Judy adopt because—well, because . . .

Dialogue, like situations, strives desperately for effect. Direction was earnest but not brilliant.

And now, I guess, I've told you enough to enable you to sum "Rock-a-bye" up for yourselves.

See you tomorrow!

Ines de Soriano Will Be Bride at Small Wedding Wednesday

Cable Discloses Plans for Church Ceremony at Biarritz; Only Families Will Attend Luncheon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A CABLE from Paris informs us that the marriage on Wednesday of Ines de Soriano, daughter of Marquis and Marquise de Ivanrey of Spain [the former Italia Blair of Chicago] to Gonzalo de la Gandara, son of the Marquis and Marquise de la Gandara, will be a very small and simple ceremony.

The marriage is to be solemnized at 11:30 o'clock at St. Martin's church in Biarritz. There will be no reception following the service, but the immediate families will attend a wedding luncheon at Villa Ines, the De Ivanrey residence.

The only Chicago relative present will be Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, the bride's maternal grandmother, who has been in Geneva, Switzerland, for several years.

While the wedding is to be a small one, it no doubt will be impressive and picturesque, with the dashing Ines wearing the conventional white satin gown with a long train, and her two attendants in green chiffon dresses with short brown velvet jackets and small brown velvet hats. The bride's mother is to wear red velvet, which should be immensely becoming to her Spanish type of beauty.

The bride and bridegroom plan to travel around the world on their honeymoon, after which they will return to Biarritz pending a decision about their permanent residence.

Miss De Soriano made her debut in Chicago at the Casino in 1928. Her husband-to-be was a cavalry officer in Spain during the monarchy and happened to be guarding the palace that night in April, 1931, when King Alfonso fled.

Longmeadow Hunt Closes Season.

As the climax to a very successful season, the master of the Longmeadow hunt, Col. Albert E. Peirce, and Mrs. Peirce gave a gay hunt breakfast at their Winentka residence on Saturday following the morning run. The guests included members of the field who have ridden through the season and wives and children who have ridden through at least one hunt.

A week ago Saturday night the Longmeadow Hunt club gave a much larger party—a dinner dance for the landowners and farmers over whose property they ride during the hunting season. It was held at the Sunset Ridge Golf club and more than 300 guests took part in a jolly program of hunting songs, movies, and dancing. Clark J. Lawrence, president of the club, was toastmaster, and Ernest R. Ballard, in the absence of Col. Peirce, made the address of the evening.

A quartet of last year's debutantes who have had the happy thought of entertaining for four of their close friends among the buds of this season are Miss Betty Brown, Miss Jane Brooks, Miss Eleanor Wheeler and Miss Paula Uihlein.

They are planning to give a dinner dance on Dec. 21 at the Blackstone hotel for Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Marie Swift, and Miss Marjorie Goodman, and we'll venture to wager it will be one of the gayest debutante parties of the season, as all four of the youthful hostesses were entertained so much last winter that they should have a pretty good idea of how to give the sort of party that debutantes enjoy best.

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Choosing appropriate fireplace equipment for the holidays and all winter is a delightful task, the more delightful because of the wealth of appealing accessories available. Lovely screens are a necessity, fire lighters give a quaint and homely touch, festive dust pans have their place, as have poker, shovel and tongs. As for andirons, they grow handsomer each year, guarding as they do the leaping flames which gleam perhaps with varicolored lights from sundry powders and crystals. And since it is so easily possible, fireside equipment should conform to room style and hearth size.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White plans to sail his four master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Henry Shepard, backer of the venture, plans to fill the boat with a cargo of his own choosing and stop at certain ports to trade cargoes.

INSTALLMENT VII.

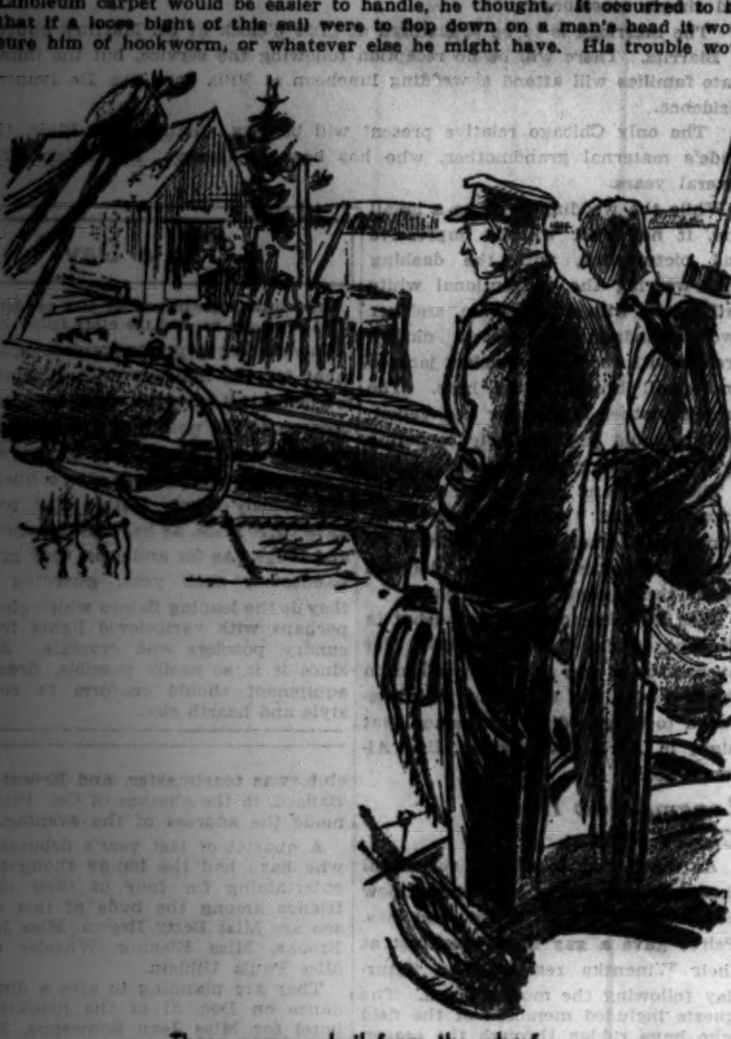
A YANKEE INDIVIDUALIST.

Peter had often admired four masted schooners from a distance, finding them picturesque and impressive. But this was the first time he had been aboard one, and he looked round the deck and aloft bewildered and dismayed.

He asked the captain: "Do you mean to say that you can handle this great vessel with a crew of six, sir?"

"That's all there were when I brought her up from Turk's island last voyage; in the dead a-winter with a load of salt. Two of 'em ailin', at that. Hookworm."

Peter looked at a sail that had been hauled on deck for bending. Linoleum carpet would be easier to handle, he thought. It occurred to him that if a loose bight of this sail were to flop down on a man's head it would cure him of hookworm, or whatever else he might have. His trouble would be a broken neck. Staring at the huge sheaves through which the halliards led, it seemed as if a full crew would be needed to hoist one of them alone, without the enormous spar that was the gaff, to say nothing of the sail. As for the sheet ropes, he would have said that if wet and stiff it would tax the strength of a gorilla merely to coil one down.



There came a hail from the wharf.

The captain smiled. "We go at it different from aboard a thirty foot sail boat. All engine power. Same way that it's easier to put a ton safe in an office on the tenth story of a skyscraper than a heavy trunk on the third one of a boardin' house."

"What if you have to reef?"

"Seldom do. We drop a sail or two entirely, then if it gets too bad, heave to."

Adam said cheerfully: "Take a slant at the chain cable, Peter. Getting it in is one of our field day sports."

But Peter was getting the idea. "Why not? It takes only two men to haul a freight train up a long grade." His heart began to lift as he looked up at the tall spars. "She's a grand ship."

"Grander than we need," said Capt. Hiram, "but the point is we've got her. Does seem, though, like taking a ten ton truck to go to town after a dozen eggs."

He showed them into the after cabin house. As aboard all the more recent vessels of this type the accommodations were spacious and modern, rooms paneled in bird's-eye maple or walnut with mahogany trimmings; a large bathroom and a smaller one with latest accessories; real house beds bolted to the deck; handsome solid furniture and all the place admirably aired and lighted and heated and equipped with screen doors and electric fans. The house was like a new built one plan modern shore cottage even to pantry and kitchenette, but its weight of material would have built half a dozen such dwellings.

Capt. Hiram said: "I thought I had a bargain when I bought this one new at Bath for $100,000, right after the war. She has slowly ruined me. Nobody would give me a thousand dollars for her today. And now Henery has the nerve to say that we're going to take her out and make money with her."

"Let's hope he's right, sir," Adam said.

"You heard him going on last night about there being no sense nor sanity in the President's setting a national Thanksgiving day when the worst thing could happen the country was bumper crops of everything and all hands of our population working dawn to dark. Henery claimed it ought really be a day of national lamentation and the flags half masted when the cleanup showed Mother Nature and all the husbandmen to have been bountiful and industrious."

There came a hail from the wharf. Capt. Hiram glanced that way and said dryly: "Funny how women seem to cotton to cranks. There's Henery been showin' them through his cold storage plant. It's chock-a-block with mackerel he first slack salted, then iced when everybody else was heavin' 'em overboard. No wonder his relatives get worried."

The four masted schooner Abigail White, named after Capt. Hiram's mother, was moored bow and stern a cable's length off Henery's old fish and cold storage wharf, an ancient but heavy structure built for the berthing of granite carriers. Adam got into a launch alongside and went over to bring the others aboard.

Mr. Henry Sheppard looked his character of whimsical Yankee individualist whose mind worked with no reference to prevailing opinions unless perhaps conversely. The success of his various past ventures might be ascribed to fool's luck or a sort of inspirational vision for opportunity, as one saw fit. He was big framed, powerful but lean, and his mild clean shaven face would have reminded the old time theatergoer of Joseph Jefferson.

He said to the captain:

"Hiram, we got to heave up and breast in 'longside."

"What for . . . ?"

"I got some more stuff to set aboard."

"What kind, Henery?"

"Mixed cargo. 'Twon't cost you no more to lay to my wharf. I fixed it. Let's go over there. I see you got steam. . . ." He looked at a whisp of vapor, forward.

"Yes, sir," Adam said. "I fired up the donkey to drag out the sails. . . ."

"Well, the tide'll be comin' for another hour, and that's time enough. You heave short 'n' I'll shunt you over, come high water. Buoy that kedge astarn, 'n' we'll pick her up and set her aboard. Guess we best start."

"Ther'es an eddy here at slack water," said the captain. "She's too big a vessel for you to try to shove into the wharf with that pushee-pullee of yours, Henery. Best take a bow line over and I'll let her swing on the kedge."

"Jest's you like, Hiram."

Ladybird came out of the cabin door. "You Yankee sail masters do yourselves well. Rate more space and comfort than a royal navy admiral. Better pay, too, I fancy."

"When we get it," said the captain.

Roberta, behind her, asked: "Who else lives in this penthouse?"

"The mate, and the steward billets in the small room off the pantry."

"Look here, captain, when do you sign me on for mate?" Ladybird asked.

"What about seamanship and the handling of gear?"

"Fair."

"Come slack water, we aim to breast in to the wharf. Then I'll see how good you are."

"Aye, aye, sir." Her voice was cool, as usual. Peter wondered how much of this was bluff.

Wally Reid Jr. Makes Bow as Movie Player

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 27.—Wallace Reid Jr., who now is playing in pictures, looks so much like his late father that film people who knew Wally Reid in his heyday sometimes catch their breath when they meet the son on a set. Same dimples, blond hair, profile and rounded chin and all.

Young Reid has just finished his first film, "The Roaring Strain," an important film for Willis Kent, with an auto racing background. He is 16 years old. Like his father, the kid is an intuitive mechanic; when his mother, Dorothy Davenport Reid, led the inquiring visitor to talk to the youth, Wally Jr. was found under an automobile. "I take it down and put it together again every month," Reid explained, as he made two little smudges into one big one with his thumb on one cheek.

The boy's mother has a longer career of successes as a woman picture director than any other member of her sex, but is not active at this time.

There's a tiny, bright eyed Japanese tot named Philip Horimoto, who's been stealing scenes in "Madam Butterfly." Told by Director Gering to look out a window of the set and imagine he sees a big vessel coming in, bearing his father on it, the child looked out—toward the blank wall of the sound stage—and with his eyes shining, and excitement quivering in his voice, said, "O, see the big ship. O, what a pretty ship. My daddy is coming home on it."

Only half the speech in the dialogue, but the director thought it was great and let it all stay in the accepted sound version. Some of the youngster's other "ad lib" touches have been allowed to stay in the completed sequences at Paramount, too. Little Philip, an American by birth but a Japanese by blood, is not yet three years old, and plays the part of the child who was born to the Japanese girl by an American ship officer.

Five Out of Six Married Pairs Stay That Way

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Do you know any married persons who are happy together? Couples who after a short time do not spend their lives quarreling? Perhaps you do! I don't! And please don't imagine you have a monopoly on friends. What puzzles me is that where there is a party of single persons it's a congenial gathering with little or no squabbling. You can pick a married pair out in ten seconds—especially if things don't go just right with either of them. What a married system! What a system? NEMO."

Yes, "Nemo," I'm going to disappoint you. I know married persons who are happy together. True, I, too, know a number who are not—who, as you say, spend their time picking on each other and making faces at life generally. But you and I, "Nemo," talk about the quarreling pair. They furnish us with meaty gossip, speculation, a chance to exploit our private views on what people should do and what they should not do.

The happy ones we neglect, mainly because we can't put in our little oar of advice or criticism. They do not give us a chance to expand in a superior way. But they are there, just the same. Five of the six of the married pairs aren't getting divorces, you know. They're getting along, somehow. Maybe to you and to me some of them aren't offering pictures of story book bliss, but they're sticking to it.

So these couples who stick to the fireside must find something there that pessimistically inclined observers do not see. And that's where folk are wrong in condemning marriage as a place of purgatory where souls must suffer just because they are married.

So there's no use going sour on the institution because of it or them. Their manners could stand improvement, it's true. Their loyalty to each other could stand better public exhibitions, but the fact remains that they're not seeking separations, so there must be something about the old game that is worth while, after all.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Pitiful Plea for Help.

"I am a widow, out of work and with no family to help me. I am badly in need of winter clothing and can't buy it. Do you think some one would have a coat, dress, and underwear, size 54 or 56, to give me?

"MRS. K. A."

Clothing given to this woman now would relieve her of much anxiety and would insure warmth for her during the cold weather. Have you any in her size which you are planning to discard?

Ceremony Will Be Held at Biarritz.

Miss Rosamond Baker, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Baker of Lake Forest, is to give a luncheon tomorrow at the Woman's Athletic club, with sixteen of her contemporaries as guests. Mrs. Baker and her daughter are to be at the Ambassador for the month of December.

Mrs. Frank R. Elliott of the Drake hotel is to give a dinner for Miss Honoré White, the debutante daughter of Mrs. Howard Fenton, on the evening of Dec. 22, preceding the Princeton Triangle club show at the Auditorium. Mrs. Charles B. Shaffer is to give a dinner on the same evening for her sub-deb daughter, Miss Barbara Shaffer.

The Junior league is to hold a luncheon tomorrow at A Century of Progress, preceding a tour of the buildings with the object of giving members and volunteers a more definite idea of the part of the league is to play in the "Enchanted Island" for children at A Century of Progress next summer.

The Junior league is not, as has been reported, to undertake the management of the entire children's department of the exposition, but is to limit its work to the presentation of plays in the Children's theater. At the luncheon today volunteers will be given suggestions for speech making to promote the league's project at schools and Parent-Teacher meetings.

Eli Bates Sale Tomorrow.

An Eli Bates sale, featuring Christmas gifts for men will be held tomorrow at the residence of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen at 1430 Astor street. Mrs. Bowen's daughter, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., are to give luncheons for the women assisting at the sale.

Mrs. Charles G. Dawes is to open her Evanston residence on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 6, for a musical to be given by Bruno Steindel under the auspices of the Chicago, Winnetka, and Evanston auxiliaries of the Cradle.

Mr. Steindel is donating his services in order that the total proceeds may benefit the Cradle. He will be accompanied by Hilda Edwards.

The entire main floor and box circle at Orchestra hall has been sold out for the concert which Chaliapin is to give tonight for the benefit of the Chicago Girl Scouts. The concert is the third of a series sponsored by the Scouts and there is no doubt about its success financially, for all of the fashionable music patrons of the town are anxious to hear the great Chaliapin in his first appearance in Chicago in four years.

Among those who have made reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spauding, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. William V. Kelley, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler.

Voters' League Lecture Today.

Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter has ordered plenty of little gold chairs to accommodate the Lake Shore League of Women Voters members who will be coming to her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive this afternoon to hear Clark Eichelberger talk on "The Disarmament Conference up to Date."

The first of two scheduled lectures given by Theodore Hume last week at Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick's apartment attracted such a large crowd that the league is contemplating continuing these Monday afternoon talks through December. Mrs. Carpenter is presiding officer of the league.

Mrs. Hunter Dickson and Mrs. Harry Batchelor will be hostesses at a tea this afternoon at Mrs. Dickson's residence at 8124 Ingleside avenue for the chairmen and committee members of the Kenwood Social Service club's annual benefit theater party to be given on Dec. 14 at Ed Wynn's "Laugh Parade" at the Grand Opera house.

The committee in charge of the "Shadows of Paris" ball to be given by the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association on Dec. 10 at the Stevens hotel includes Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., in charge of music; Miss Helen McNair and Mrs. Lawrence Nelson Jr., tickets; Mrs. John MacLean, program; Miss Jean Spens, chairman of debutante models for the midnight fashion show; Mrs. Frank Thies, in charge of fashions; Mrs. Charles H. Brown and Mrs. James Hadley, invitations.

Shadow grotesques will be used to suggest the atmosphere of the French capital and in addition to supper, a fashion revue, and dancing there will be games and carnival features.

Lecture for Renaissance Society.

Members of the Renaissance society have been invited to hear Frederic C. Woodward speak about some of his experiences in and impressions of the orient at a meeting on Friday evening, Dec. 9, in Ida Noyes hall at the University of Chicago. The program will be followed by a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Woodward.

"The Road to Life," the second of the series of foreign made movies sponsored by the Renaissance society and International house, will be shown tomorrow at 4:30 and 7:30 and 9:15 p. m. at International house.

Mrs. Perry H. Kenly of 70 Cedar street is expected to return today from a fortnight's stay in New York.

Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay who spent Thanksgiving in New York with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin Jr., will remain in the east for another week.

Miss Carol Bush, who went east for the Harvard-Yale game and for a visit in New York with her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Gentry, returned to Chicago in time to spend Thanksgiving with her sister, Miss Emeline Bush. Their mother, Mrs. William H. Bush, has gone to Texas for a week's stay.

Miss Elizabeth Telling of 2622 Lake View avenue is back in Chicago after a three months' absence in the east, where, among other things, she made arrangements for exhibitions of her paintings and did a portrait of Mrs. Laura Lord Scales, Smith college warden, at the request of the Smith college board.

The paintings she made in Bali, Java and Siam last winter are to be shown during December in the Brooklyn museum, and late in January she will go east again for the opening of an exhibition of the same pictures in a New York gallery.

Calvert Club.

Child Corrects His Mother's Faulty Report

Youngsters Demand Accuracy.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"There was terrible excitement," said her mother as she ended the story. "A crowd gathered around and stayed for hours."

The 10 year old daughter listened with absorption.

"No, mother, they didn't stay for hours. Don't you remember, we were only a few minutes late for lunch and grandpa always has lunch at 2 o'clock?"

"Well, I was exaggerating a bit, darling," said her mother chummily. "You know that's one of my failings and it did seem as if the crowd stayed for hours!"

Would you have been embarrassed if you had been "mother"? Would you have answered like this? Or can you think of a better way? Do you mind it when the children correct you before people? What do you do about it?

Do you say, "You're rude to interrupt." or "That will do, William!"

There's a right way to manage such things and a wrong way. But "sitting on" a child, especially a small child, is not the best way. You see, you've got to keep in mind that a correction of you from your child has its own causes.

In the first place, children often have a passion for accuracy. Also, they like to hear a thing told the same way every time—you know that [to your sorrow!] in telling a familiar tale to them over and over again. And they do not think of appearances.

Just to say it's rude isn't enough. "Why is it rude? I don't see," a thinking child is apt to say.

You may have worked it out to your own satisfaction, but one mother I know got her results by talking it over with her child in some such way as this: "I don't remember lots of things as well as you do, Mary. But suppose I'm talking to Aunt Helen and telling her something and I get it wrong. If you interrupt me and contradict me then Aunt Helen will either think I'm pretty dumb or she'll think I haven't known how to teach you to be polite. So let's plan some way for you to give the high sign when I'm off the track."

THE STAGE

Katharine Cornell will give the first performance of her latest production, "Lucrece," in the Hanna theater of Cleveland, O., tomorrow night. This is a drama from the French of André Obey, translated by Thornton Wilder. The star will be supported by Robert Loraine, Blanche Yurka, Brian Aherne, Charles Waldron, Joyce Carey, Pedro de Cordoba, and nine others. The stage settings and costumes for "Lucrece" were designed by Robert Edmond Jones. Deems Taylor has supplied an orchestral accompaniment.

"Of Thee I Sing," now in the last week of its prosperous engagement at the Grand Opera house, will move to St. Louis after next Saturday night's performance. The week of Dec. 12 will find the show in Kansas City. Then will come a pre-Christmas layoff for the company. The holiday period will be spent in single performances in the largest available structures in such cities as Omaha, Des Moines, Davenport, and Sioux City. The general direction of the tour will be toward the Pacific coast.

The repertory of the Chicago Operetta company, which is now being organized by David Erwin Russell for a twelve weeks' season at the Civic Opera house, will be selected from the following works:

"The New Moon," "Rose-Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Song of the Flame," "The Three Musketeers," "Firefly," "Sweethearts," "The Spring Maid," "Miss Springtime," "Naughty Marietta," "The Prince of Pilsen," "Gypsy Love," "The Count of Luxemburg," "The Red Mill," "The Pink Lady," "Sari," "Wildflower," "Babes in Toyland," "The Fortune Teller," "The Yeomen of the Guard," "The Mikado," "The Waltz Dream," "The Chimes of Normandy," "Robin Hood," "The Chinese Honeymoon," "The Beggar Student," "The Geisha," "The Bat," "Iolanthe," and "The Riviera Girl."

Billy Bryant's showboat company, now in session at the Cort theater, will change its bill next Sunday night from "A Bird in a Gilded Cage" to "East Lynne." For later offerings Mr. Bryant promises "Little Nell of the Ozarks" and "Lena Rivers."

A new comedy by Knowles Entrikin, ex-Chicagoan and professional playwright, will be staged by the Dramatic Association of the University of Chicago in the Reynolds club theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. "The Extra Five" is its title. Entrikin has been represented on Broadway by "Seed of the Brute." He is also active as a stage director.

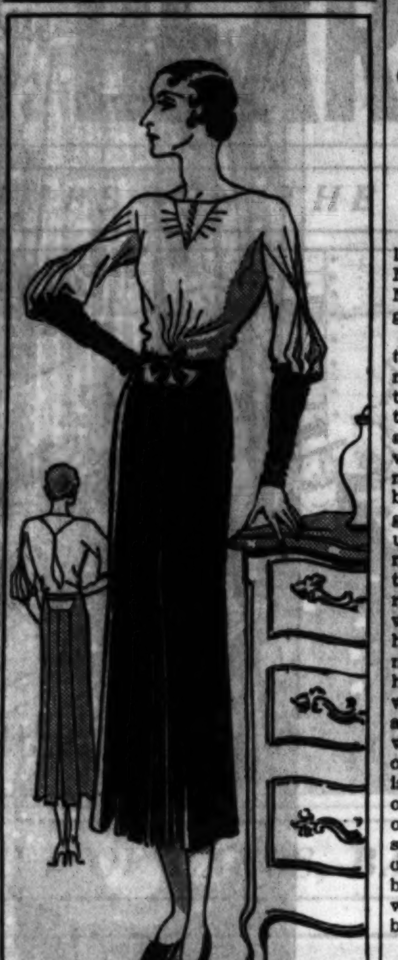
The Light Topped Afternoon Frock Paris Favorite



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Patou's way of letting the light shine at the top of his afternoon dresses has become one of the popular afternoon fashions in Paris. Dresses with blouses in some light color, usually Patou's tea-rose pink, and made of a shiny material are a feature of this house that is taking hold of the fancy of elegant women. Originally the blouse part occupied about half of the silhouette, since Patou put the waistline down to new low levels. The blouse is shown in today's sketch as it is generally worn.

This dress, created by Jean Patou, has a tea rose satin blouse, with a bateau neckline, below which a little triangle of satin, in front, is trimmed with buttons and serves to hold the tucks that flank it at the sides. The sleeves have long copper-brown cuffs and are flared above by sun-ray plaits that meet a group of sun-ray tucks on the top of the sleeve. The brown cuffs are fitted closely at the wrists by buttons.

The skirt of this dress, made of copper-brown satin, has two box plaits at the center front and back and between the two front plaits is an accordion plaited godet to give an extra forward movement. At the top of the box plaits the skirt is cut away in front and back, just below the belt which ties at the center front. A bit of the pink satin of the blouse shows where the skirt is cut out.

Declares Terrified Christians Do Not Live in Land of Spirit

"Not the most startling discovery of our time is the multitude of supposed Christians who are as terrified as any one else," said Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray, the pastor of the Central Methodist church, Detroit, before the Chicago Sunday Evening club last night.

"We have not lived in the land of spirit we have claimed," he said. "The idea of God has been interesting but irrelevant. We have wanted to have religion without being religious. We want a God that keeps his distance, being on call rather than wanted. As a consequence the greatest suffering of today is one of loneliness."

Certain Foods Disguise Taste of Canned Milk

Condensed, Evaporated Differences Given.

BY MARY MEADE.

Those tins on the grocer's shelf labeled "Unsweetened Evaporated Milk" and "Sweetened Condensed Milk"—what do they contain? Really good whole cow's milk?

That seems to be the tip-of-the-tongue question with many home makers who have dropped me questions on milks over the phone or through the mail. And this is the answer: "Yes, evaporated milk, as we buy it unsweetened, and condensed milk, as it comes to us sweetened, are both pure cow's milk obtained from good dairying areas where herds are under the same supervision as other registered cattle. The difference between the two is simply this: evaporated milk is the whole milk from which 60 per cent of the natural water has been removed by a vacuum and nothing added, while condensed milk has likewise had 60 per cent of the water taken away, but has had sugar added. There are places in cooking where either fresh bottled milk or one or the other of the canned types is equally delicious and there are other places where a particular one of the three forms seems best to answer the needs of a certain dish. Our own tastes and inclinations are our best judges, once we have become, as we should be, familiar with the possibilities offered by all three.

How water is removed from these partially dehydrated milks is another question I'm often asked. A vacuum, in the case of evaporated milk, turns the trick. This method prevents the destruction of certain vitamins of which milk is an important source and after the 60 per cent of water has been removed the remaining rather thickened milk is put through a machine which breaks up the fat particles into such small sections that they lose the desire to rise to the top, instead remaining constantly, as we say, in "suspension," or evenly dispersed through the milk. All of which accounts for the absence of a "cream line" in a can of evaporated milk.

Since cleanliness and health are guardian angels in the kitchen these days, manufacturers of all kinds of foods must be able to give us a guarantee that their products are free from lurking germs. Dehydrated milk canners insure this safeguard by hermetically sealing their cans and then sterilizing them thoroughly. This same heat also affects the curd-forming substances of the milk so that the curds formed when the milk reaches the stomach are easily digested—one of the reasons these types of milk are sometimes advised in infant feeding.

From the nutrition end of it evaporated milk, diluted with an equal amount of water, holds its own with milk from our morning dairy delivery. It is not necessary to refrigerate it before opening the can, but it is after that. Leave it in the can and treat it just as you would fresh milk, storing in a cold, clean place.

Condensed milk supplies additional food value in the added sugar content.

But now comes the inevitable remark of some one, "I don't like the taste of it." And that, after all, is a matter of opinion and training. The flavor of dehydrated milk, as well as its color, is due to the sterilizing process. The heat causes a slight caramelization of the milk sugar, which gives us the flavor.

In cooking there are some dishes where this flavor is distinctly objectionable and where we will always prefer to use fresh bottled milk. Other combinations of food nicely disguise the slightly "cooked" taste and in these either type of milk works satisfactorily. Brown sugar, for instance, camouflages the taste when evaporated milk is used on cereals. In cocoa, fruit drinks, and tomato juice cocktails the flavor is seldom noticeable. With scalloped and creamed fish and particularly in oyster stew fresh milk or the evaporated type may be used with equal effectiveness. Other disguises for this caramelized flavor lie in cheese sauces and other cheese dishes, in fruit whips, ice creams, sherbets, and custards, in pies, cakes, breads, and pastry.

In other words the taste of evaporated milk and sweetened condensed milk is noticeable chiefly when the milk is taken as a beverage—without the addition of other foods or flavoring, and in coffee or tea.

But whether we try unsweetened canned milk now and then or stick to the morning supply from the dairy for ordinary kitchen triumphs, there are a few places where the special make-up of an evaporated type of milk gives a particular value. For instance, in a food where crystallization plays a large part, as in candies and ice creams, it has its advantages, for just as commercial ice cream manufacturers put the mixture that they are to freeze through a homogenizer, a machine that finely subdivides all the ingredients and obtains a fine division of ice particles and therefore a velvety smoothness, evaporated milk manufacturers homogenize their products before they seal them in the can, rendering them both popular and useful in the making of hand turned as well as mechanically frozen desserts.

It is also possible to use concentrated evaporated milk effectively as a binding agent for coatings in deep fat frying, if the necessary egg eludes us. Or if there is a sudden call for sour milk and we do not have it on hand or wish to sour our fresh dairy supply sour milk may be made from evaporated milk by the addition of one tablespoon of vinegar to a cup of diluted milk. Or for sour "cream," use the same amount of vinegar to a cup of undiluted milk. A pleasing, uniform sourness results.

Several times when I have published recipes calling for the whipping of evaporated milk women have called in and said that they couldn't whip it stiff. Evaporated milk will seldom whip as stiff as will regular cream, but it will become fluffy and quite thick if handled in the right way. This is the method: Place a can of the milk in cold water, bring to a boil, and boil five minutes. Take out and cool. Place the can in the coldest spot in your refrigerator and chill till very cold—below 50 degrees F. Have ready a cold beater and cold bowl and beat until thick. There is no danger of it turning to butter. It will whip even better if a little lemon juice is added, and this mixture may be used in fruit whips where thick fruit pulps are employed.

The annual three day convention of Sigma Kappa Pi national sorority will open on Friday at the Knickerbocker hotel.

Woman's Aid to Celebrate 50th Birthday

Observance Will Be Held on December 8.

The Chicago Woman's Aid is preparing for the celebration of its 50th anniversary on Dec. 8. The celebration will begin with a breakfast at noon in the Standard club. A revue: "Fifty Years Young," will follow, depicting the many milestones that have been passed during the club's existence. Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz, as president of the club, will preside at the festivities.

Yesterday Mrs. Schwartz recalled the projects inaugurated by the Chicago Woman's Aid. Some, she explained, were begun to meet temporary needs, but others have continued throughout the fifty years.

"We opened a sewing room for dependents of the United Hebrew Charities and gave a library to the Maxwell street settlement," she related. "We assisted in maintaining this settlement for three years. We provided a kindergarten at the Home for Jewish Friendless, and a ward for children, and a kindergarten at Michael Reese hospital where we also furnish flowers to patients.

"We have given manual training equipment and a sewing teacher to the Chicago Hebrew institute and provided the first social service nurse for the Associated Jewish Charities. We gave a room to Winfield sanitarium, a penny lunchroom at Foster school, and started an afternoon and evening community center at John Smyth school. We have provided a worker for the Vocational Supervision league, inspected basements in public schools and obtained readers for the blind.'

Among other works fostered by the Chicago Woman's Aid have been the playroom for the Institute for Juvenile Research, help for a birth control clinic, art exhibitions, a service fund for the blind, hospital social service, food service for unemployed women, testing of eyesight and hearing of school children, furnishing of beds at the Chicago Lying-In hospital, scholarships for higher education, and Red Cross work.

The group was organized as a fruit and flower mission. It added art, literature, philanthropy, civics, education, and other activities which have put 70 committees to work. There are courses in theories of education, current events, child study, and philosophy.

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade — whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No telltale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Boston Braves, a first year team in the National Professional Football league, visited Wrigley field yesterday for the first time and presented the Chicago Cardinals with their fifth defeat of the year, 8 to 6, in the last game for the Chicagoans. The Braves scored all of their points, a touchdown and a safety, in the second half.

Dollar day and ladies' day produced an announced attendance of 6,200, of which it was estimated some 1,500 paid their admissions. The federal government, by its 10 per cent tax, which applied to all spectators, was the big winner financially, while the Cardinals also were defeated at the box office where Boston's guarantee of $4,000 was not taken in.

Boston is one of the two teams the Cardinals have beaten and when Walter Holmer's long pass in the first quarter was taken to the goal by Glen Martin, it seemed that the Cards were on the way to duplicate the 9 to 0 victory they had registered in Boston earlier this fall.

Musick, Battles Start.

However, Jim Musick, former Southern California full back, and Gip Battles, a hard running half back who once starred for West Virginia Wesleyan, decided otherwise. This combination of east and west, with all important aid from a charging line, overcame the Cardinal lead of six points, and, once nominated as pace maker, dominated the game.

The Cardinal touchdown was the thrill play of the game. It was entirely unexpected and gained a total of 63 yards. On third down, with seven yards needed, Holmer wound up at his own 37 yard line and let fly a 43 yard forward pass. Martin split the Braves' secondary. He outran the defending half back and caught the ball on the dead run. Hank Hughes, Boston's safety man, came in too quickly and when he missed knocking down the pass, Martin continued his jaunt unimpeded to the goal line.

Finn held the ball for Holmer's place kick for the seventh point, but he juggled it momentarily before Holmer kicked, and the ball shot wide of the uprights.

Poor Kicks Popular.

After the subsequent kickoff, Musick sounded warning of what Boston accomplished later. Following Hughes' 35 yard return, Musick smashed through tackle for 22 yards. This threat died, however, when Ledbetter intercepted Hughes' forward pass on the Cardinals' 17 yard line.

The Cardinals outplayed Boston during the second quarter and twice threatened to score. The first drive had its inception in Hughes' weak punt, but after reaching Boston's 30 yard line, Holmer's forward pass fell incomplete in the end zone.

The second opportunity began in the same manner. Holmer's kick to Boston's six yard line forced Hughes to punt from behind his goal line. The ball went high against the wind and out of bounds on Boston's 15 yard line. Musick averted trouble, however, when he intercepted Holmer's second down pass.

Kresky Blocks Punt.

Finn's fumble of a Boston punt in midfield in the third quarter forced the play into Cardinal territory. Subsequently the Cards had the ball on their own 20 yard line. Here Walter Kiesling cost the Cardinals 15 yards when he was penalized for illegal use of his hands on the offense. Holmer went into his end zone to kick.

Joe Kresky, Boston guard, crashed through the line and blocked the punt. The ball bounded sideways and Nip Felber recovered, but he gained possession on the end line, which automatically made the play a safety and scored two points for Boston.

Holmer then kicked off from his 20 yard line and Boston took possession in midfield. From here the Braves marched for the touchdown which decided the game.

Battles Crashes Through.

Musick and Battles accomplished a first down in three plunges. Musick then took command of the attack and his plunges advanced to the Cardinals 15 yard line as the third quarter ended. On the first play of the last period Battles raced outside of the Cards' left tackle, overpowered three tacklers and finished in the corner of the end zone. His place kick for extra point failed.

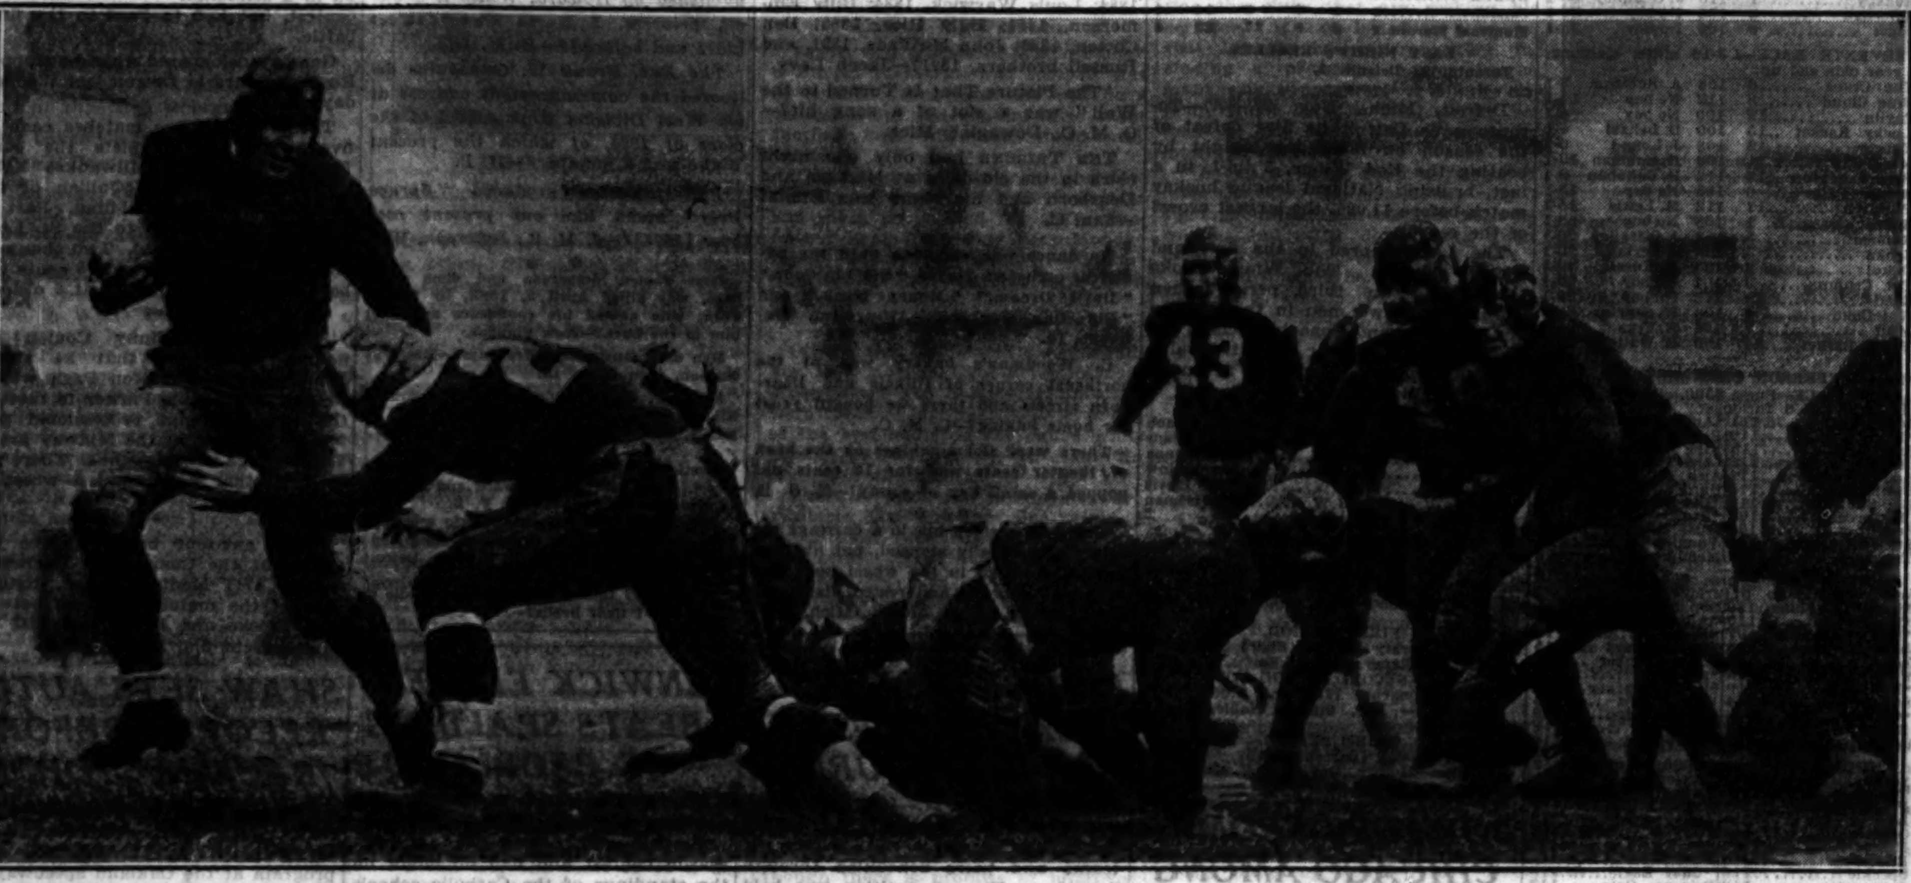
IT WAS BATTLES TO LEFT OF CARDS, BATTLES TO RIGHT OF 'EM



The Cardinals went down to defeat at Wrigley field yesterday when the Boston Braves beat them out by the margin of a safety in a National Professional league game. And the principal cause of the defeat was Gip Battles, Boston half back, a former West Virginia Wesleyan star. Battles is off for a short gain here, before Creighton, Cardinal end (No. 24), stops him. No. 26, who is Hughes, Boston half back, missed Creighton and wrecked the play. No. 43 is Kassel, Cardinal end, and No. 49 is Kiesling, Cardinal guard.

Wisconsin Names McGuire Most Valuable Player

MICKEY M'GUIRE.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Walter [Mickey] McGuire, the Irishman from Honolulu, T. H., who directed the field tactics of the University of Wisconsin football team from a half back position, has been chosen the most valuable man on the Badger squad.

Mickey thus wins THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S white gold watch fob and becomes eligible for THE TRIBUNE'S Big Ten trophy, awarded to the conference player most valuable to his team.

Keen Field General.

Through McGuire's generalship Wisconsin put into effect the proper plays at the appropriate times and forced reputedly stronger Big Ten teams into defeat. McGuire established almost a faultless record as an individual player, but the Badgers speak most highly of his insight into the weaknesses of opposing teams. He directed and participated in the execution of Wisconsin's most complicated and most effective play. It was a short forward pass followed by a lateral pass. It failed to effect a touchdown only once.

The best individual play by McGuire this year probably was in the Minnesota game when he jumped high above the heads of two taller Gopher back field men to catch a pass and score the deciding touchdown.

McGuire also was strong defensively. Although he played defensive half back and was not used in the safety position, he prevented four opposing runners from scoring after they had broken through the line. In each case the opposing runner had an open field and McGuire, by virture of his speed, caught him.

Averages Four Yards.

The 22 year old half back carried the ball on offensive play 47 times and gainly only a fraction less than four yards on each attempt. Against Chicago and Iowa McGuire's yardage in each play averaged in excess of five, while against Minnesota it was a little less than three.

But his consistency as a defensive back and a ball carrier was not his only achievement. McGuire punted 18 times for an average of more than 43 yards. This included quick kicks from scrimmage. He averaged 45 yards on each return of a kickoff and turned one of them into a touchdown by running 87 yards through the Minnesota team. He was regarded as Wisconsin's best pass receiver.

Because of McGuire's blocking ability he did not carry the ball so often as other members of the squad. He weighed between 175 and 180 pounds throughout the season.

Can Kick Barefooted.

McGuire is the son of an Irish father and a Hawaiian mother. He was born in Honolulu and began his education in Kamehameha at what is comparable to a graded school. While less than 10 years old he played his first game of football.

He can still make a drop kick or punt with his bare feet almost as well as he can with shoes on. He demonstrated this on the practice field at the behest of coaches and members of the squad. He kicks and passes from the left side.

Before coming to Wisconsin McGuire attended Punahou academy. He was a member of that high school's quarter mile relay team which participated in the Penn relays in 1929. In that year he established a record in the Hawaiian islands for the 220 low hurdles.

McGuire virtually has put himself through the university. During the summers he was employed as a life guard and during the school year served as the Beta Theta Pi house manager. While not in this capacity he has served the meal table of his fraternity brothers and washed dishes.

The closing of the football season this year ended McGuire's efforts in the field of sports. He is homesick for Hawaii. During the remainder of the year he intends to concentrate upon books and get his bachelor's degree in the school of economics.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the United States Golf association, announced today the executive committee had approved the recommendation of the women's committee of the U. JOCK CATTELL'S 69 TAKES LEAD IN $10,000 OPEN

Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Jock Cattell, 23 year old Jacksonville, Fla., professional, scored a 34—35—69, one short of a course record, in windy, rainy weather today to lead the first day field of 120 entrants in the 72 hole $10,000 Miami Biltmore open golf tournament.

Cattell, a professional for only three years, was one under par on the outbound nine holes and one under coming back.

Sarazen Trails With 77.

Two strokes behind the Jacksonville pro and tying par were Roland Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., another comparative youngster in the golfing business, and Al Watrous of Detroit, with 71. Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, had a 72.

Gene Sarazen, defending champion and United States and British open champion, was well behind the leaders with 77. Walter Hagen, former U. S. and British open champion, took a 75 over the well trapped course, as did Johnny Farrell and a group of other professionals.

Curtis Bryan of Lakeland, Fla., was low amateur with a 77 to tie the first day score of Sarazen. Ralph Redmond of St. Petersburg, Fla., did not defend the amateur honors he won in the 1932 Miami Biltmore open.

Cattell Gets Five Birdies.

Cattell, playing his first major tournament, got away to a bad start, but redeemed himself with consistent playing that counted five birdies before the day's 18 holes were completed.

Cattell won the first money prize of the tournament, $25 for low score for the first 18 holes.

Field goal—Wycoff.
Referee—Bobbie Cahn. Umpire—James Kelly. Linesman—David F. Hummell.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—After leading, 3 to 0, at the end of the first half, Staten Island succumbed to the superior speed and power of the Green Bay Packers today, 21 to 3, before 10,000. The Packers' regular back field took up the attack in the second half, putting Stapleton to rout.

Stapleton scored first in the second period on Doug Wyckoff's placement kick after a series of first downs and passes brought the ball from midfield to Green Bay's 10 yard line.

Neither team had been able to gain through the line in the first period. There were frequent fumbles due to the bitter cold.

Packers Grab Passes.

The Packers scored in the third and fourth periods, twice on intercepted passes. Hinkle went over for the first touchdown on a drive through tackle. The other two resulted when Stapleton began passing in desperation.

The second touchdown came in the fourth period when Englemann grabbed the ball on his own 42 yard line and raced down the right side lines unmolested. The safety man was deftly taken out by Grove.

Johnny Blood repeated Englemann's feat five minutes later, intercepting a pass on Stapleton's 30 yard marker.

Rout Follows Passes.

What started out to be a defensive game developed into a rout as the Packers uncorked their combination Notre Dame and St. Mary's spinners, with Englemann, Hinkle, Grove, and Herber alternating.

After penetrating the line for several long marches with this attack, the Packers unloosed a passing attack.

Only once after their second period did Stapleton get up momentum. That was in the third period when Campiglio threw several short flat passes to Ken Strong for two consecutive first downs.

GIANTS BEAT DODGERS.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Two touchdowns in the fourth quarter gave the New York Giants a 13 to 7 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers in a National Professional Football league game at Ebbets field today.

The Dodgers scored in the second period on a pass from Benny Friedman to Stumpy Thomason. Friedman kicked goal. A blocked kick led to the Giants' first touchdown early in the final quarter, the Giants recovering on Brooklyn's 20. Plunges took the ball to the five yard line and McBride tossed a short pass to Flaherty for a touchdown. Moran failed on the try for point and Brooklyn led, 7 to 6.

A little later, however, the Giants opened up another drive that carried to Brooklyn's five yard line. Again McBride passed to Flaherty across the goal line for the winning touchdown. Moran added the extra point.

COPPERS GAIN 7-0 REVENGE ON SING SING TEAM

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The Port Jervis police, arch rivals of the Sing Sing Black Sheep, gained sweet revenge for their early season beating today when they defeated the penitentiary football team, 7 to 0.

It was the rubber game of the series. The Cops won, 13 to 0, in 1931. Early this autumn, Sing Sing won, 7 to 0. Today the contest was close, but early in the second quarter Officer Cuddeback, assisted by Officers Duffy and Bierline, who formed interference, wriggled and skipped 14 yards for the touchdown.

Cuddeback then rammed the line to score the extra point. Alabama Pitts, Daniels, Nelson, and Capt. Jocker were the Sing Sing stars of the day. The temperature was below freezing, but a crowd of 88 rooters accompanied Police Chief Edward Moorehead's team.

Memphis Tigers and St. Louis Gunners Tie, 0-0

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Memphis Tigers and the Battery A Gunners of St. Louis battled to a scoreless tie in a professional football game today. The game, played mostly in midfield, was featured by a punting duel between Joe Lintzenich of the Gunners and Frosty Peters of the Tigers.

RACE BILL GIVES TRACKS $640,000 OF FANS' MONEY

Measure Up to Governor; Turfgoers Oppose It.

Chicago race tracks will be permitted to take an additional half million dollars out of the money the public wagers next season if Gov. Emmerson permits the Michel bill, passed last week by the general assembly, to become a law.

The bill, put through in the guise of a relief measure, provides that daily license fees for all tracks be increased $1,000 a day [from $2,500 to $3,500], the added license to go into the emergency relief fund. To offset the higher license, the race tracks, according to the provisions of the bill, are authorized to increase their "take" from the pari-mutuel betting pools from 6½ per cent to 8½ per cent.

This means that 8½ cents of every dollar wagered by race fans would be kept by the track, leaving 91½ cents to go into the mutuel pool. Thus the track's take on an ordinary $2 ticket would be 17 cents. If the better makes only a $2 bet on each race of a seven race program the track will retain $1.19 of the $14 wagered.

$640,000 More for Tracks.

Many thousands of Chicago race fans look upon the Michel bill with alarm. For the betting statistics show the added 2 per cent of the betting pools will net the race tracks approximately $640,000 in a season. Their only added expense will be $160,000 for the 160 days of racing which usually constitute the Chicago season.

A low average of the daily betting at Chicago track is said to be $200,000. In 160 days at this average the racing patrons of the tracks in Chicago wager $32,000,000. The extra 2 per cent take, as provided in the Michel bill, thus gives the race tracks an additional revenue of $640,000 on the season and the emergency relief commission exactly $160,000.

The racing measure was introduced at the special session of the legislature as a relief bill by Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria.

Muster Extra Votes.

Dispatches from Springfield said: "There was a thrill of subdued excitement and an outburst of whispering when the Michel measure was passed by a vote of 104 to 15. A day earlier only 88 votes were mustered for it."

One dispatch related: "There was mention of a turkey dinner, a mysterious social affair said to have taken place in or near Springfield the night before the bill finally passed."

Continuing, the dispatch said: "One member of the legislature, who said he did not exactly understand what was meant, said another member asked him about voting for the bill and at the same time cautiously held out his right hand with four fingers extended and the thumb hidden. The opinion prevailed that some or all of the tracks were behind the bill."

Track Heads Admit "Break."

Heads of Chicago tracks who could be located in Chicago yesterday admitted it looked as if they were getting a "good break" if the bill becomes a law.

"Arlington Park hasn't paid the slightest attention to the Michel bill, because the Arlington Jockey club is not interested in profits," Roy Carruthers, general manager, said.

The Arlington Jockey club's membership includes many of the industrial, social, and business leaders of Chicago. Because the track did not go in for profits and operated on a "sport for sport's sake" theory it presented the richest racing program in the world last July. Gov. Emmerson and other high officials frequently attended the races there.

Thought It Was Relief Measure.

"The business men's association in charge of Hawthorne looked upon the Michel bill strictly as a relief measure, and so we haven't studied the details of it very closely," John Schank, the president, said. "I don't know much about the bill, except that our daily license jumps from $2,500 to $3,500. If the bill permits an 8½ per cent take out of the mutuels instead of a 6½ per cent, one thing is sure—we are not getting any the worst of it."

Schank said the average daily betting at Chicago tracks next year will not be $200,000. He based his opinion on the falling off in the volume of betting at the tracks here last season. Col. M. J. Winn, head of Washington

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Portsmouth Spartans and the Chicago Bears battled to a 7 to 7 tie here in a National Professional league football game that held the interest of 10,000 fans until the final whistle. It was the second tie of the season between the two teams and the sixth for the Bears.

Roy [Father] Lumpkin was the outstanding player of the day. He stopped a Bear threat in the first period by intercepting a pass on the 10 yard line after Red Grange and Dick Nesbitt had worked the ball to Portsmouth's 30 yard mark. In the third quarter he grabbed a pass which Clark threw from midfield and carried it to the Bears' eight yard stripe to pave the way for Portsmouth's tying score.

Long Pass Brings Touchdown.

The Chicago eleven scored just before the half ended. With half a minute to go, the Bears had the ball on their 49 yard line. Doehring, who went in for Nesbitt, dropped back to his own 40 yard line and passed to Johnsos in the end zone for the touchdown. With a strong cross wind lessening chances of making a drop or kick from placement, Molesworth passed to Corbett for the extra point.

Portsmouth came back with a rush after the half, with Gutwoski, Presnell, and Clark leading the march that carried the ball from the Spartan 20 yard line to the Bears' 22 yard stripe. The attack crumpled when Gutowski fumbled, Brumbaugh recovering for the Bears.

Penalty Hurts Bears.

Late in the third period Portsmouth launched another drive which produced the tying points. Taking the ball on their own 25 yard line, the Spartans put the ball on the Bear 42 yard mark in five plays. Clark then passed to Lumpkin, who raced to the eight yard line. Clark bucked to the one yard line in three tries.

It then was discovered that Buckler, who had replaced Engebretsen at tackle, had neglected to report to the referee. This gave Portsmouth first down with inches to go as the quarter ended. However, it took Gutowski three tries to plunge across. Despite the cross wind, Clark elected to drop kick for the extra point and sent the ball sailing between the uprights from the 24 yard line.

Both teams threatened twice before the game ended, but neither team was able to keep up a sustained drive.

Bears Are Outgained.

Portsmouth had the edge in first downs with 14 to Chicago's 7. The Spartans made 279 yards from scrimmage, while the Bears were rolling up 121. Portsmouth completed only three out of 16 passes for 39 yards as compared to five out of 11 for 90 yards for Chicago.

WALTHOUR TRIES TO STEAL LAP AS BIKE RACE OPENS

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Thirty riders started on their way at Madison Square Garden tonight in the 53rd international six day bicycle race.

Bobby Walthour dashed to the front as the field, discarding the customary rolling start, got away from a standing start. Other riders and onlookers accepted Walthour's opening dash as a traditional starting spurt, but soon they awoke to the fact that Walthour was upsetting tradition in a bid for a stolen lap within the first few minutes of the race. With the realization came as mad a riding jamboree as the race has ever produced.

A total of 30 laps were stolen in the first half hour.

Marsh Fires Drive Rabbits from Homes

BY BOB BECKER.

Numerous grass fires which are sweeping through marshes in Chicagoland are turning pheasants and rabbits out of their snug "houses" into a cold world. There are too many of these marsh fires for the good of wild game, judging by the number we saw a few days ago when we were driving through the country between 100 miles to 50 miles west of Chicago. The largest blaze was in a marsh near Kirkland, Ill. We saw the smoke forming a pale yellow cloud in the clear sky long before we drove through the town.

Aside from the blaze and what it was doing to game birds and animals which found food and shelter in the tall weeds and grass of this marsh, we were particularly interested in watching four or five people who were walking around the line of the fire as it slowly worked through the dry grass. One of them was standing with a dead rabbit in his left hand and a shotgun in the other. He was watching closely for cottontails which had to break from the weed thickets and run for their lives in order to escape the flames.

The Illinois game code makes this kind of hunting illegal according to its provisions. It is against the law to set any fires in a marsh and then hang around the fire to shoot at either game birds or animals as they tear out of their hiding places.

The Illinois game code on this point reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful to set fire to or to burn any peat, grass, brush or other inflammable substance for the purpose of or to assist in hunting, or to hunt around or near by any peat, grass, brush, or other inflammable substance which has been set fire to for that purpose, while it is burning."

Because we have had a dry fall hundreds of grass fires in Illinois have injured the cover and food of pheasants and rabbits. These fires have evicted animals and birds from natural cover which they had counted on for the long cold days of winter.

Therefore, landowners who wish to give the rabbits, pheasants, quail and Hungarian partridges a good chance to go through the winter should not set fire to any weedy or grassy areas on their property. To hold all good pieces of cover is simply giving wild life a break at a time of the year when it needs protective areas and food supplies.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Dave MacMillan of the University of Minnesota is one coach who hopes his team will get a drubbing—the sooner the better.

Looking forward to building a basketball team that will at least equal the record of the last two years when Minnesota tied for runnerup in the Big Ten, he believes the outlook would be bettered by a practice season defeat.

"What this team needs is a good licking," he said. "Did you see what those freshmen did to the varsity in their last practice? Five freshmen—they didn't even know each other's names—licked the varsity. The veterans can't stand prosperity."

GANOS, WEST PULLMAN TIE.

The Gano A. C. eleven and the West Pullman Parks battled to a scoreless tie yesterday at Gano field, 115th and Halsted streets before 3,000. The Gano A. C. will meet the Fukas next Sunday for the Chicago semi-pro heavyweight title. The Ganos beat West Pullman earlier in the season.

New Race Bill Gives Tracks Fans' Money

License fees at race tracks in Maryland, where attendance, betting, and the class of racing compare with the same items on Chicago's big tracks, is $6,000 a day, as compared to the $2,500 a day which the tracks in Cook county have been paying. The pari-mutuel "take" in Maryland is 7 per cent.

In Kentucky the pari-mutuel "take" is 10 per cent, having been increased from 6½ per cent since the period of depression set in. Daily license fees are about the same as they are in Illinois.

Money for Agriculture.

Since pari-mutuel betting on racing was legalized in Illinois about six years ago license moneys and admission tax have gone to the department of agriculture to be used for premiums at state and county fairs. It totals into the millions of dollars.

The Michel bill increasing the license and the pari-mutuel "take" as well, provides that 30 per cent of license fees and admission tax shall go to the Illinois emergency relief commission, the remaining 70 per cent to be used for the usual premiums at state and county fairs.

The Michel bill awaits the signature or veto of Gov. Emmerson this week.

Togo (Minn.) Ever Faithful to Doc Romnes of Hawks

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Even though the hockey fans in the major league cities become fickle and quit admiring Doc Romnes, sprightly young Blackhawk, he still will have his public. Doc's father is mayor, justice of the peace, postmaster, master of the dog pound, and a few other officials in Togo, Minn. He also is keeper of the Togo General Merchandise Emporium and Togo's most popular gas station. Being such an active gent, the senior Mr. Romnes naturally has many friends, and all of them the faithful members of the Elwin (Doc) Romnes admiration society.

Three times a week during the hockey season the society meets around the drum stove in the emporium. Newspapers and clippings are available at every meeting and there always is a detailed discussion of what Doc has done or what his fans think he could have done had he been present in any cited emergency.

Doc Gives Up Idea of Being a Doc.

Elwin got the name of Doc because he took the pre-medic course at St. Thomas college in St. Paul, Minn. He since has given up the idea of studying medicine.

Doc, who now is 25 years old, was born in White Bear, Minn. Both of his parents had come to this country from Norway a few years earlier. Doc is is one of fifteen American born hockey players now employed in the National league.

Romnes' first playing in organized hockey was done in the Copper Country league, after which he went to St. Paul in the American association, where he played for three seasons before he was purchased by the Blackhawks.

Back from Minors for Stanley Cup Play.

As soon as Doc reported to the Hawks he was shipped to London, Ont. for seasoning, with an immediate recall stipulation in the transaction. The first month he played with London he made six goals and seven assists, bringing about his recall to the Hawks, with whom he played in the Stanley cup finals in 1931.

In the season of 1931-'32 Romnes was sent to Pittsburgh, but last January again was recalled and performed regularly with the Hawks, including participation in the Stanley cup playoffs.

Romnes spent last summer as a guide at the famed woods resorts at Ely, Minn. The duties of a guide in this region required that he be an expert canoeist. In the summer, Doc travels more miles in a canoe than the total of his walking and auto driving.

HAS HIS PUBLIC

DOC ROMNES.

Doc's ambition is to own a large resort in the north woods and he already has acquired land and several cabins as the nucleus for his project.

Says This Gardiner Guy Can't Really Shoot.

Like other Hawks, Doc picks on the fame claims of Chuck Gardiner. For instance Chuck, in this series of pieces, stated he considered himself the sweetest singer in major league hockey, and right away Lolo Couture came up with the claim he could sing not only sweeter but louder than Chuck.

Now Romnes assails Gardiner's claims of being the crack shotgun shooter of major league hockey.

"I never have seen this Gardiner shoot," says Doc. "But I'll make him look like he was toying with a beanshooter if I get him into the north woods in duck season.

"I can bag the limit of 15 a day actually blindfolded. I shoot ducks by instinct and I shudder to think what would happen to the duck world if I ever started aiming."

N. U. BASKETBALL HOPEFULS BEGIN PRACTICE TODAY

Resumption of classes at Northwestern today will mark the start of the winter sport program, including basketball, track, swimming and wrestling. A number of football players will compete for the various teams.

Four will report fo basketball. They are Ed Manske and Lyle Fisher, ends; Al Kawal, guard and Harry Leeper, half back. The latter three are sophomores, Manske is a junior. He did not play basketball last season because of an operation after the football season.

Guards Big Problem.

Fisher is a brother of Waldo Fisher, a Purple basketball and football star of several years ago. He will be a candidate for the center. The other football men will seek guard positions.

The two guard positions constitute the biggest problem at Northwestern and must be decided for the season opener against Bradley next Monday night. Last year's regular guards, Bus Smith and Saul Farber, have been graduated.

Two Regulars Back.

Other guard candidates are Nels Culver, Ken Moeller, Chet Perry, Marvin Moonshower and Barney Medintz. All were reserves last year. Culver is one of the best shots on the squad while Moeller's 6 feet 4 inches gives him an edge over the field.

Three of last year's lettermen are available. They are Capt. Joe Reiff and Don Brewer, forwards and Elmer Johnson, center. Reiff and Johnson were regulars and it is around them that the team will be built.

MAROONS OPTIMISTIC

Basketball prospects at the University of Chicago, none too rosy as the squad shapes up at present, will depend on Coach Nels Norgren's ability to develop speed and finesse in a team which lacks both height and ruggedness.

The Maroons won only one of their twelve Big Ten games last year, and though there is promise of improved performance this year, the fight will be uphill. Six of the strongest quintets in the conference, Wisconsin, Indiana, Northwestern, Iowa, Purdue and Michigan, will meet the Maroons in home-and-home games, while Notre Dame will come to the Midway Feb. 4th for the first time in some years.

Three Regulars Back.

Three of last season's regulars, Keith Parsons, center; Jim Porter, guard, and Byron Evans, forward, will form the nucleus of Norgren's team.

Most promising among the new men are Pat Page Jr., a guard, and Tom Flinn, a forward, both of whom were backfield men on the Maroon football squad, and Bob Eldred, a forward.

Members of last year's squad who have graduated are Harry Ashley, Kenneth Fraider, Bernard Wien, Paul Stephenson, Scott Rexinger and Louis Schlifke. All were major letter winners.

Cut Admission Prices.

Continuing their policy of drastic price reductions, introduced at the start of the football season, Maroon athletic authorities have announced a season book price of $5.00 for the 13 home games, which exempts the books from the government tax because the average price per game is less than 40 cent.

Single seats for nonconference home games with the exception of the Notre Dame game and the game with the University of Kentucky, which will be played during the semi-finals of the Stagg Christmas Week Interscholastic, Dec. 30, will be 40 cents. Reserved single seats for the six Big Ten games, Notre Dame and Kentucky, will be 75 cents. The Midway schedule will open a week from Saturday, with Lake Forest as the first practice opponent. The schedule follows:

Dec. 10—Lake Forest university.
Dec. 17—Alumni.
Dec. 27—Beloit college.
Dec. 30—University of Kentucky.
Jan. 2—Washington university at St. Louis, Mo.
Jan. 7—Wisconsin at Madison.
Jan. 9—Indiana at Bloomington.
Jan. 14—Northwestern.
Jan. 16—Iowa.
Jan. 21—Michigan.
Feb. 4—Notre Dame.
Feb. 6—Iowa at Iowa City.
Feb. 11—Marquette at Milwaukee.
Feb. 13—Purdue.
Feb. 18—Northwestern at Evanston.
Feb. 20—Michigan at Ann Arbor.
Feb. 25—Indiana.
March 4—Purdue at Lafayette.
March 6—Wisconsin.

He's Not Through! Johnson Considers Minor League Bids

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Baseball is not going to lose Walter Johnson for a while.

The player who was let out at the end of last season by the Washington Senators after 20 years as a great fireball pitcher and four as their manager expects to be back in the game this coming season, although probably not in the big leagues.

Good natured as ever, the Big Train of baseball sprawled at ease in his roomy old farmhouse in nearby Maryland and talked over his past, present and future, as well as that of the game.

Gets Managerial Proposition.

He shied only at naming for publication the clubs that are seeking his services. It can be said, however, that Johnson has several offers, including a promising minor league managerial proposition. A definite announcement may be forthcoming before the hot stove league season is many weeks old.

"I had a letter from a friend of mine the other day asking me why I don't get away from baseball with its worries and settle down on a quiet farm," remarked Walter.

"I told him I'd be pleased to settle down on a farm, but when you've got six or eight children to feed and put through school it costs money. So I'd probably continue in baseball for a while."

Takes Over Old Farmhouse.

Johnson has a houseful of youngsters—his own motherless brood and the children of a sister who died a few years ago.

Partly to give them lots of room to play and partly to satisfy his own inborn love for the farm he took over, some years ago, an old farmhouse on an eight and a half acre tract.

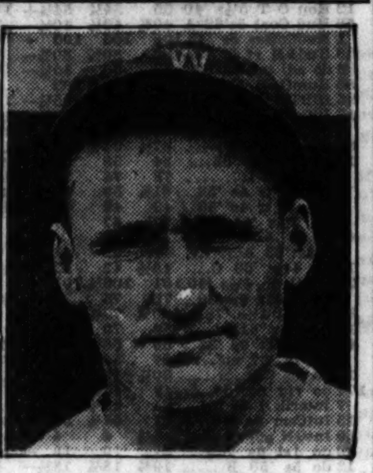
There he raises prize winning chickens and dogs. Numerous cats wander around the spacious grounds, and a cow and a calf add to the pastoral touch.

"I was born and raised on a farm myself," Johnson said, explaining why he likes it.

Around him as he talked was a strange assortment of trophies, filling tables and cupboards and overflowing onto the floor.

Next to a cup awarded for "Best Rhode Island Red in Show" was one "Presented on Behalf of the Boys of America to Walter Johnson, Their Hero of the American League."

COMING BACK



WALTER JOHNSON.

A $700 Trophy.

Nearby was a huge silver trophy which Washington fans filled with 700 one dollar bills and presented to him in 1913.

On the walls were pictures of Walter Johnson posing with President Harding, President Hoover, Doug Fairbanks, Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, and a dozen other celebrities.

Johnson made it clear that he does not hold with those who think baseball is going to pot.

"People will always be interested in baseball," he said.

He added that the big leagues, if they are wise, will bolster the minor circuits to keep up interest in the game among the younger generation and to insure a steady supply of playing material.

He's Pulling for Cronin.

Walter's face lighted up enthusiastically as he spoke of Joe Cronin, the 26 year old shortstop who was picked by Clark Griffith to succeed him as manager.

"He's a fine boy and a hustler," he said. "I'd like to see him go ahead and have a big year. I'll be pulling for him."

WEST PICKS FOUR PROBABLE FOES FOR ROSE GAME

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The west's choice of opponent at the Tournament of Roses game Jan. 2 lay between four eastern elevens, Michigan, Colgate, Pittsburgh, and Alabama Poly, unofficial observers believed today.

Although the Rose Bowl association has not announced its western choice, the selection invariably goes to the Pacific coast conference champion, which is the University of Southern California.

The western team, after being selected by the Rose Bowl group, will be called upon to choose its own opponent. Michigan, Big Ten champion, has received considerable attention, despite the fact that a Big Ten ruling prevents post-season games.

A Big Ten squad has not been seen at Pasadena since 1921, when California whipped Ohio State, 28 to 0.

Colgate, with a record not marred by a single point against it, is ranked as another outstanding prospect, especially if the Big Ten refuses to allow Michigan to play. If Alabama Poly defeats South Carolina Dec. 3, it will gain the southern conference championship. Pittsburgh, with a 12 to 0 victory over Notre Dame, has a record less clear, with ties against Ohio State and Nebraska.

BUSH STILL IS EASTERN SCORING LEADER WITH 114

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—In the last full week of eastern football no scoring star arose to threaten the lead of Louis Bush, the Massachusetts State half back who completed his season a week ago with a total of 114 points. None seemed likely to reach such heights in the few remaining games as the Thanksgiving contests and Saturday's games brought no important changes in the standing of individual leaders.

Bush's 19 touchdowns still gave him 37 points more than his nearest rival, Joe Kershalla of West Liberty, while Pendergast of Manhattan and Shepherd of Western Maryland followed with 73 and 72 points respectively.

Sam Clayman of Tufts maintained his field goal lead with three, two up on Chase of Brown and Kelly of Boston college. Abe George of Cornell held his place as leader at scoring points after touchdowns. His final total was 14.

The Berwyn Legion Parrots won their eighth victory of the season, defeating the Oak Park Rookies, 14 to 0, yesterday at Berwyn.

NOTRE DAME BACK TO GRID CLINIC AS 17,700 SHOUT

Band Leads Parade in Honor of Victors.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's influenza victims and football cripples returned to the clinic this afternoon after sweeping one of the greatest Army teams in years off its feet for a 21 to 0 victory.

The student body of 2,700 and 15,000 South Bend well wishers were at the station to greet the team. The crowd fell in line behind the cabs which carried the players and escorted them through the business district and out to the campus. The Notre Dame band led the procession.

All Are Happy.

The team was obviously flushed with its startling New York triumph. Coach Hunk Anderson could not conceal his elation, either.

During the return trip Anderson handed out compliments right and left. The only time he became serious was when he ran across something of interest in the scouting notes for the Dec. 10 game with Southern California at Los Angeles. These he had spread before him all day.

"Southern California will use ten formations from which it can run an unlimited number of plays," he said. "The tandem shift, sometimes single and sometimes double, is confusing and I am sure that our defense will be harder to teach than for any game we have played this fall."

Praises Team's Blocking.

"Our new style of attack" he continued, referring to the use of a back field man in motion, "together with the wealth of old plays we have is enough to beat any team, if we only block. That's the whole story of the Army game. Our linemen and backs blocked so that Army players stayed blocked.

"The main thing we have to do now is to learn our defensive assignments against the U. S. C. attack and to keep in the right mental frame of mind. There will be lots of nice things said about the boys from now on, and I suppose Coach Howard Jones will start the bear stories pretty soon. So we'll have to work hard to keep the squad from becoming overconfident. Maybe trying to learn all those Southern California formations will help in this regard."

SIX CADETS HURT.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Army's tired football squad returned quietly from New York today, ready to start practice tomorrow for the Navy game.

There was no demonstration when the team arrived, but at supper tonight the 1,300 cadets assembled in the mess hall cheered the players.

Kilday, Fields, Lincoln, Jablonsky, Vidal, and Kopcsak were slightly injured in the Notre Dame game.

A light drill is scheduled for tomorrow.

NATION-WIDE CUT IN AIR EXPRESS RATES ORDERED

Rail Links Extend Service to 23,000 Cities.

A nation-wide reduction in air express rates, effective Dec. 1, was announced yesterday by the air express division of the Railway Express Agency, Inc., and six of the major air lines operating over 11,266 miles of airways. The reductions will range from fifteen to thirty per cent, and also will be effective for air-rail express shipments.

The air lines involved are United Air Lines, Western Air express, National Parks airways, Northwest airways, the Kohler Aviation corporation, and Rapid Air transport.

Apply to All of Country.

With the rail connections of the Railway Express agency to 23,000 cities the new air express rates will be applicable to the entire nation, it was said.

The rate revision is the fourth made by the Railway Express agency since the inauguration of air express six years ago and will reduce the rates in some cases to one-third of what they were two years ago. The new rate for coast to coast shipments is $10.44 for ten pounds, contrasted with the previous rate of $13.80 and the rate a year ago of $26. The new rate for overnight service between Chicago and New York is 34 cents a pound for ten pounds and more.

Rates Include Delivery.

Other new rates out of Chicago will be as follows: To Cleveland, 18 cents a pound; to Kansas City, 22 cents a pound; to Los Angeles and other Pacific coast cities, 86 cents a pound, and to Dallas, 44 cents a pound.

The rates include door to door pickup and delivery service in principal cities at no extra cost, acceptance of shipments prepaid, collect or C. O. D., and $50 free liability for 100 pounds or less, the announcement stated. Under these tariffs practically all types of merchandise are accepted up to $5,000 in value, 200 pounds in weight, and 106 inches in height and girth.

During the months of July, August and September the average length of the trips made by passengers of the air lines in the United States was 275 miles. This was revealed yesterday by Col. Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics through reports to his office by the air transport operators. The average for the preceding three years was 227 miles. During the three month period 164,583 passengers were carried for a total number of 45,297,037 miles, the report showed.

Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance.

Kindly give me your opinion of the soundness of Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company.—M. F. A.

Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company was incorporated in 1878. It is purely mutual. The company has had a fairly rapid and steady growth. Insurance in force on Dec. 31, 1931, was $423,345,000, against $292,471,000 on Dec. 31, 1924, $109,147,000 on Dec. 31, 1904, and $7,461,000 at the close of 1884.

Policy holders' surplus is sufficient and the reserve basis is strong. Expenses are low and mortality rate is favorable. Income in 1931 was $20,992,000 and disbursements, including $3,098,000 dividends to policy holders, were $16,156,000.

Admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1931, were $98,139,000. Of these 4 per cent was in real estate, 40 per cent in mortgage loans, 22 per cent in policy loans and premium notes, 29 per cent in bonds (amortized values), and 1 per cent in stocks (June 30, 1931, values). Of $28,773,000 bonds held $4,656,000 were obligations of the federal government, states, counties, etc.; $12,398,000 were railroad obligations, and $11,681,000 were obligations of public utilities.

The company is licensed to do business in all states except Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

It was examined by the insurance department of Pennsylvania as of Dec. 31, 1930. The report was favorable. The company has an excellent reputation.

Council Bluffs Gas.

Please give me advice concerning Council Bluffs Gas company first 5s, due 1948.—H. C. C.

Council Bluffs Gas company is controlled by Lone Star Gas corporation. It supplies natural gas to Council Bluffs, Ia.

The $1,200,000 first 5s, due 1948, are secured by a first mortgage on all fixed assets of the company.

Earnings are consolidated with those of the parent company. Lone Star Gas corporation reported gross of $18,648,000 for 1931, against $19,991,000 for 1930 and $18,211,000 for 1929.

President Denning said that 1931 earnings were adversely affected by the low price of fuel oil and unseasonably warm weather. The parent company earned fixed charges 3.42 times in 1931, 4.60 times in 1930, and 5.87 times in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1931, it reported current assets of $6,266,000 and current liabilities of $8,628,000. Notes payable were $4,402,000. On May 24, 1932, the company announced that bonded debt had been reduced by $780,000 and bank loans by $1,825,000. During the same period cash increased $400,000 to $1,982,000.

CASH WHEAT'S PRICE STRENGTH FEATURE OF PIT

Commands Premium Over Futures.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat markets of the world gave a good account of themselves last week despite the fact that lowest levels known to the speculative trade were recorded in Chicago, and most of the other markets. The most important and unusual feature was that in the face of heavy continuous liquidation of December contracts in all markets, cash wheat in practically every leading market in the world commanded premiums over December and in some instances increased them over recent weeks. Few, if any men in the trade have ever witnessed a similar situation.

To see millers buying cash wheat at the best premiums of the season, while cash handlers in terminal markets were favored with fair sized orders for cash wheat from interior millers at advanced premiums, was a situation that seldom occurs when supplies are the largest known. It suggests that interior holders of wheat are not selling to any extent, and that millers are unable to obtain supplies. Wheat has been shipped back from Chicago to interior Indiana and to the southwest and to southern millers generally.

No Pressure on Cash Wheat.

There was no pressure on cash wheat anywhere the world over, despite enormous liquidation by holders of December contracts which has been on for more than a month. The open interest has been reduced from 120 million bu about the middle of September to 56 million bu at the close on Friday, a decrease of 64 million bu. Contracts have been changed from December to May, and the open interest in the latter increasing nearly 8 million bu during the week to 90 million 835 thousand bu.

A strong cash situation in the face of enormous supplies, and a weak speculative position, such as at present, presents a market situation that is regarded as unusual.

Politics and money conditions are attracting increased attention and promise to be important factors for months to come. The debt conference tends to create nervousness, and with sterling exchange the lowest in recent years, there is an abundance of uncertainties to keep traders in an uneasy position.

Fear Farm Relief Bills.

All indications are that congress will be given numerous bills for farm relief, and those who are familiar with many of them regard them as likely to create more trouble than benefit.

Many traders are giving especial attention to poor prospects in the southwest, and none too good in the middle west. It is too early, however, for such influences to have much more than a sentimental effect, but along in April they may become more potent as a bull factor. There is a controversy over the size of the spring wheat crop, which will probably be settled by the government final report, due Dec. 15. The question of acreage and yield per acre is in dispute between the private and government experts.

A few operators who are taking a long view of the situation express moderately bullish sentiments, which will have to be greatly amplified by actual buying orders to offset the effect of large supplies and absence of export demand for the United States grain.

Harvest in Southern Hemisphere.

Harvesting is on in Argentina and Australia, and new wheat from there will be moving into consuming territory in the near future. Australian wheat is to go largely to China and Japan, and Argentina's to non-European and European ports, where it will compete with Canadian ports.

A number of prominent trade leaders favor the belief that all bearish conditions have been discounted, that political interference is gradually to disappear, and the trade will get back to a sound supply and demand basis, which eventually will work out for the best interests for the farmer, the consumer, the miller and all others.

These views are expressed by President Peter B. Carey of the Chicago Board of Trade, and by Arthur W. Cutten. There are a few men, however, that believe December wheat is likely to sell at 40c. At the low point of the week it was down to 41½c, a new low. At the close it was 43¼@43⅜c, with May 47⅝@47½c and July, 48⅝@48½c, showing December closed ⅛c higher, and other months were off around 1⅜c for the week. Prices for the week follow:

Liquidation Depresses Oats.

Low prices have increased waste of corn on farms, also enlarged consumption through feeding operations. Every bulge now brings increased offerings from farmers as good cash premiums prevail for old and new grain. Prices were down to around the season's low and closed with net losses of ⅛@1⅛c. December being the strongest.

Oats were offered freely by tired holders, while buying support came from profit taking by shorts and by cash interests. Trading was lighter than the preceding week and a year ago, and the close recorded net losses of ⅛@⅛c, December being 15⅝@15¾c, May 17⅞@18c, July 18¾c.

Rye rallied from the low point and closed ⅛c higher to ⅝c lower, with December at 33½c, May 31¼c and July 33c. Barley made a net gain of ⅜c for the week, May closing at 33c. Sales of 153,000 bu were made for future delivery, against 868,000 bu the previous week.

Advises More U.S. Control of Utilities

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A broad expansion of its regulatory authority over public utility companies was recommended to congress today by the power commission.

In its annual report, the commission urged that it be authorized to require concerns with federal licenses, including holding companies, to submit any information desired as an aid to their supervision.

While the recommendations had to do only with federal licensees—those operating on public land or navigable streams—the commission gave notice that a program for general regulation was being held in abeyance pending investigations in that field by senate and house committees.

Sees Public Interest.

"It is convinced, however," the commission said, "that the public interest requires the early vesting of authority in the federal government to control, so far as it may be determined to be within its jurisdiction, the regulation both of electricity in interstate commerce and of the holding company in the power industry."

What extent this control would take, Chairman Smith of the commission explained, would depend on congressional action. Reports by the congressional committees making the studies may be made at the forthcoming session.

While the failure of the Insull companies had nothing to do with the recommendations, Chairman Smith said, the authority desired "would have a tendency to prevent such things in the future."

Explaining that "any theory of federal regulation of the holding company should be considered with two fundamental purposes in view," the commission listed them as:

"First: Regulation of the holding company in relation to the operating company and through the operating company to the consumer of electrical energy; and, second, regulation of the holding company in relation to the investing public, which is principally interested in the securities of such holding company."

Three Major Provisions.

"Any draft of holding company legislation," the report continued, "must incorporate three major provisions:

"First, a declaration of jurisdiction.

"Second, a declaration concerning evidence of control and the burden of proof.

"Third, a grant of authority to acquire complete information upon which such regulation and control can be predicated."

"The vital and essential prerequisite to any exercise of authority over either holding companies or utilities engaged in interstate commerce," the commission said, "is the acquisition of the knowledge of company affairs upon which intelligent action toward regulation may be had."

COPPER MARKET QUIET AWAITING OUTPUT PARLEY

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The copper market continued to mark time this week pending the meeting of international producers when problems of the industry are to be discussed.

The undertone was slightly easier, however, reflecting reductions in European quotations, although domestic producers held unchanged at 5⅝c for delivery to the end of the year in the Connecticut valley. However, for 1933 delivery, the price of 5½c was extended to the first half of the year. There was practically no domestic buying.

Tin sagged into new low ground for the movement, influenced largely by recent easiness of sterling exchange. Moderate demand has developed on successive declines as consumers' needs have not been covered, but more active buying is said to be deferred pending a return of stability.

Lead remained quiet after the recent decline. Consumers who have still part of their December requirements to fill have been restricting purchases. Some inquiry for January delivery was reported but smelters have not generally opened books for that position.

Demand for zinc was restricted to carload lots as buyers apparently lacked confidence owing to an easier undertone in other metals and commodities. Prices held unchanged, however, reflecting continued firmness of the ore market.

Offerings at antimony at concessions failed to attract demand and the market remained dull and nominal.

N. Y. CENTRAL'S OCTOBER INCOME SHOWS INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—The New York Central railroad reported for October its first increase in net operating income for any month this year since February. Net for October was $3,575,385, a gain of $1,707,000 from October, 1931.

Reflecting a close hold on expenses, the road's operating ratio for October was 72.8, against 82 for October, 1931. For the ten months it was 77.4, against 79.8 in the same period last year, a decrease of 2.4.

POULTRY BOARD LAUNCHES DRIVE ON HIJACKERS

Merchants Open War to Guard Shippers.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A campaign to prevent losses among shippers of live poultry to Chicago's famous Fulton street market, second largest poultry market in the world, has been launched this week, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago poultry board and the Fulton Street Poultry Merchants' association.

Since the hijacking of trucks loaded with cash producing surpluses of midwest farm flocks two years ago, a system has been developed under direction of Charles E. McNeill, general manager, which has almost eliminated the practice. Before the system became operative as much as $10,000 in losses was reported by shippers in a little more than a week.

Convoys for Trucks.

"Considering the fact that truck shipments are constantly increasing in Chicago's 35 million dollar live poultry industry," McNeill explained, "preventive measures are quite important on the highways leading to the city. Likewise, we are being given extra police protection within the city limits."

The system includes the concentration of trucks at three outlying points, Elgin, Joliet and Kankakee in the early morning hours. When the shippers are ready, state police convoy them into Chicago.

Heavy shipments of poultry start early in November and continue all through the winter. Since establishing the new safeguards a year ago, officials report almost negligible losses, and in two of three robbery cases reported last winter the bandits were caught and convicted. The third robbery was not reported to the poultry board for its action.

Business Growing.

For five years the Fulton market has been steadily increasing its total volume of business. Mr. McNeill attributes this to the enforcement of a set of regulations self-imposed by the commission firms in the Fulton market itself.

Country shippers are constantly advised to investigate the firms to whom they ship poultry, he said. Too many are inclined to ship and complain afterwards, for as in most other markets there is a fringe of unscrupulous operators.

The poultry board, whose offices are at 856 Fulton market, is in position to advise farmers impartially along with its duties of inspecting and grading the foodstuffs handled in huge quantities there daily. All poultry handled in either the Fulton or South Water street markets is subject to city health inspections.

Operates Like Stock Exchange.

Each morning between 9 and 9:30 a. m. the shippers, packers, cold storage owners and bankers who constitute the 187 members of the poultry board are represented in the "call" which takes place before large blackboards much as does the trading in stocks, bonds or grains. In this case the trading is in turkeys, geese, ducks, hens, cockerels, etc.

On a busy day there will be sold 110 or even more truckloads of poultry in addition to carlot and express shipments. The average is smaller than this, but there always is sufficient trading to express clearly the market trends between buyers and sellers.

Every receipt or shipment is recorded with its seller and buyer and the disposition of the products. The board itself does not enter into the establishing of prices, any more than the board of trade or stock exchange. Every sale must be bona fide, subject to the board's established rules.

Truck Shipments Increase.

The increase in truck receipts over rail shipments during the last year in both Chicago and New York has been rapid, McNeill points out. Last year up to Nov. 21 295,358 coops came by truck, 138,022 by express, and 728 carloads came by freight. This year in the same period 362,268 coops came by truck, 63,338 by express, and but 277 carloads by freight.

Henry F. Batterman, 952 Fulton street, is president of the board. Other officers include Alex Getz, Harry Goldberg, Laurence H. Brink, Louis C. Snyder, G. W. Randall, L. A. Neuman, Thomas Seracino, Charles Hopkins, Jack Perlman, Albert Cizek, Theodore Cuny, and Michael H. Weinberg.

FLORIDA GRAPE GROWERS ASK WINE APPROVAL

Ocala, Fla., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Florida Grape Growers association has placed itself on record as favoring congressional action that would authorize manufacture and sale of wine and provide for control, Dr. Charles Demko, vice president, states.

In a resolution adopted by the executive committee, the association's legislative committee was instructed to take action at once looking to that end. The legislative committee also was instructed to appeal to congress for measures to prohibit importation and sale of wines of foreign manufacture.

Dr. Demko said Florida's 5,000 acres now in grapes could be extended to 100,000, thereby giving employment to 50,000 persons.

RADIO POSITION SEEN STRONGER AS SUIT IS ENDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—In the changes agreed upon in order to settle the government's suit, the Radio Corporation of America emerges, it is declared, in a stronger position than it has ever enjoyed, except that it will now stand alone, without the financial and general support of the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing companies.

Radio corporation will have nonexclusive rights to all patents of these companies covering vacuum tubes and radio circuits. Because it will be the only company able to grant complete licenses on all the required patents to other radio manufacturers, its revenues from this source will continue. The consensus of several leading radio makers last week was that they would continue as licensees of R. C. A., which will retain all royalties.

Pays Some Royalties.

The only royalties R. C. A. will have to pay out will be for uses of patents in other fields than radio. It will pay 5 per cent to the electric companies on its sales in the new fields it may enter. So far as present scientific development is concerned, these other fields comprise such operations as counting or sorting, medical and therapeutical apparatus and "control" apparatus using vacuum tubes and other devices.

While General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing recover the right to manufacture radio sets and tubes, which they abandoned in 1930 in exchange for additional R. C. A. stock and other considerations, they are debarred from resuming such manufacturing until May, 1935, in order to afford the Radio corporation freedom from their competition.

May Not Resume Work.

It is doubtful, however, if the electric companies will resume the manufacture of radio apparatus, since their plants equipped for radio production were turned over to R. C. A. in the 1930 deal. If they do resume such manufacture, it is provided that the electric companies shall pay royalties to R. C. A. like any other radio and tube maker.

The General Electric Supply company distributes radio sets which are manufactured by the R. C. A. Victor Company, Inc., wholly owned subsidiary of the Radio corporation. Westinghouse Electric Supply company some months ago abandoned its contacts with R. C. A. Victor in favor of Kolster Radio corporation, an R. C. A. licensee, which manufacturers exclusively the sets distributed by Westinghouse.

Have Years to Run.

All the present nonexclusive licenses to radio patents granted to R. C. A. by the two electric companies and A. T. & T. run until 1955, ten years beyond the date in former contracts, guaranteeing the company enjoyment of its position for at least 23 years.

While research in the radio and allied fields and, more generally, in the applications of vacuum tubes and electric circuits, becomes a very important activity of the Radio corporation, the two electric companies and A. T. & T. will continue their research work as well. The Radio corporation will be in a position to license others under the patents on future inventions of the three companies.

TWO OF CLOSED MICHIGAN BANKS PLAN TO REOPEN

Allegan, Mich., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Petitions for permission to reorganize the Citizens State bank of Plainwell and the First State Savings bank of Otsego have been heard by Judge Fred T. Miles in Circuit court here. Both banks have the necessary stock subscriptions in sight.

Judge Miles announced that permission to reorganize both banks would be granted in about thirty days. It was also stated that petitions are soon to be presented to reorganize the Citizens State bank of Otsego. After the two Otsego banks are reorganized steps will be taken to consolidate them. Officers and directors must be selected before the banks can be reopened.

FINDS RETAIL TRADE IN CHICAGO DISTRICT IS MOVING FORWARD

A marked increase in local retail trade occasioned by the official opening of the Christmas shopping season, a greater preliminary attendance than anticipated for the annual Live Stock exposition, a large number of buyers from thirty-two different states attracted here by the furniture market, a rise in pay rolls in the Seventh district with some improvement in employment conditions, and a new gain in carloadings by three railroads, characterized the last week in Chicago, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In addition to the season upturn in the buying of holiday goods, retail trade experienced a larger volume of sales in the way of winter clothing for men and women. House furnishings also came in for more attention. Toys led in the volume of advance sales; and, although the buying was much heavier than last year, the prices were materially lower. Wholesalers were given more rush orders for special lines to replenish broken stocks of local retailers.

Wage payments increased, developing a trend somewhat more favorable than last year, when there was a noticeable decline. Though the number of employés declined, this downward trend was lessened to some extent by the action of a large local farm implement company which has rehired about 2,000 part time employés for work during the winter and early spring months. Approximately $1,100,000 is being expended for new equipment in these plants.

MANDEL BROS. SPEND $100,000 ON BEAUTY SHOPS

How advantage was taken of existing low prices in the installation of a floor of beauty shops in Mandel Brothers department store in State street was explained yesterday by Leon Mandel, general manager of the company. The shops, which are said to be the largest in the country, will be opened this morning.

"This improvement in our store made necessary the expenditure of more than $100,000 for labor, materials and fixtures," Mr. Mandel said. "In excess of 100 men in Chicago factories and in our own store received employment they would not otherwise have been able to get. This employment lasted for more than three months.

"In return for this expenditure we were able to get far more than we would have been able to two years ago. We have followed out a scheme of decoration that adapts the grace of the skyscraper age—which involves unusual wall panelings and blending of colors. All this would not have been available two years ago for the amount of money that we planned to spend. So by improving our store now we are able to help business recovery by increasing employment and we have been able to get so much more for our money that the expenditure is more than justified."

3 CONNECTICUT SILK FACTORIES ON 24 HOUR DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Willimantic, Conn., Nov. 27.—Three silk mills of this city will tomorrow begin work on a twenty-four hour schedule. They are the Willimantic Silk Company, Inc., main plant, the Kobe Silk company, and the Corn Spinning company. Their plants will be operated on three eight hour shifts for the present, utilizing the machinery for every minute of the day and night.

About 855 operatives will be affected. They will be put to work after several weeks of idleness. Orders recently received will allow the three mills to be run on full time for several months and it was stated tonight by officials of all three companies that the outlook in the silk industry seems especially promising.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—October coke production showed an increase of 13.6 per cent over September to 1,806,316 tons, as compared with 2,494,456 in October, 1931, the bureau of mines of the department of commerce reported today.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The sulphite plant of the Raquette River Paper company, closed a year, has been reopened at a ratio of about 60 per cent of capacity, it was announced today.

VARIED FACTORS HELP SEND BOND PRICES LOWER

Market Meets Setback During Week.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Confronted by a host of domestic and foreign problems, the bond market during the last week retreated to a moderately lower position.

The question of war loan payments loomed large on the horizon and various foreign obligations lost ground steadily. The slump of the British pound sterling to the lowest rate since 1920 added to international economic uncertainties. Germany's political situation, having to do with choosing a successor to the Von Papen chancellery, was generally overshadowed by the European debt question.

News Is Conflicting.

In the American sector trade and industrial developments were somewhat conflicting. Freight car loadings for the week ended Nov. 19, showed a cheering gain of 38,758 over those of the previous period, but reports on steel production disclosed a declining tendency in this important field. Trade reviews also expressed slightly diverse opinions of business conditions, while the electric power output was barely holding its own. Commodities declined.

The carriers, as a whole, failed to reflect the traffic recovery, although the best loans in this division displayed a steady tone throughout. The railroads have not lost sight of forthcoming maturities, interest charges and the puzzling matter of wage readjustments which is expected to come to a head shortly.

Do Fairly Well.

Among the utilities and industrials, the highest grade investment issues gave an exceptionally good account of themselves. A number of these advanced fractionally to high marks for the year, while others moved within an extremely narrow range. The quiet strength of the "gilt edges" was attributed partly to the present cheapness of money and the recent dearth of important new flotations.

The United States government department was also firm throughout, although not especially active. There was some conjecture as to the possibility of foreign debtors purchasing treasury notes for use in paying their December charges. Owing to the fact that treasury issues are negotiable at par in war debt payments, foreign exchequers are enabled to take advantage of a fair discount in this section if they desire to do so. At the same time, followers of the federals were somewhat cautious because of new treasury financing next month.

The weaker foreign bonds included those of Great Britain, Canada, Australia, Belgium and Poland.

MANY MEN GET JOBS THROUGH LOANS OF R. F. C.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Employment of several thousand men through operation of the self-liquidating loan section of the reconstruction finance act has been reported to the reconstruction corporation, although only $360,000 actually has been handed to borrowers.

Legal kinks holding up several bond issues gradually are being ironed out, it was reported at the office of Harvey Couch, director in charge of self-liquidating loans. Operations are expected to start soon on all of the 32 projects for which the corporation board has voted a total of $137,249,500.

The middle Rio Grande conservancy district, a project involving flood control, power development, and irrigation of a great area near Albuquerque, N. M., already is being pushed. The day after the corporation two months ago voted this district a loan of $5,784,000, one thousand men were put to work.

Autumn Gain Encouraging, Bank Asserts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—Viewed in the retrospect, the autumn revival of business was somewhat encouraging, although it failed to measure up to the expectations of the more optimistic, says the current Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust company. The election, the survey says, brought some release from political uncertainties that seem to have had a wholesome effect on business sentiment.

The publication discussed at length the war debts question, but refrains from any expression of opinion, merely presenting the circumstances of the case and the most familiar arguments for and against revision as matters of record.

Shows Little Change.

Business activity has shown comparatively little change since the election, the trust company says, that usually carries certain branches of the trade and industry to somewhat lower levels after the early autumn peak.

"The gap between current levels of activity and those of a year ago," it continues, "has not yet been closed, but it has been greatly narrowed since midsummer. More important, perhaps, is the fact that the recent gains marked the first definite upturn since the spring of 1931 and the sharpest advance since the depression began.

Most Pronounced Rally.

"Accompanied as it was by the most pronounced rally in commodity prices since 1920 and by a very distinct improvement in financial conditions, the business expansion provided a basis for moderate optimism that had been almost wholly lacking for more than a year.

"General opinion leans toward the view that the winter months, while they may show some further progress, are not likely to bring sharp changes in the rate of business activity. The lack of any significant increase in bank credit, the recent irregularity in security and commodity prices, the absence of any strong seasonal influence during the winter and the fact that the policies of the incoming administration cannot well become known in detail for several months, at least, are among the factors that tend to support this view. Added to these conditions are the acute political and financial unsettlement that still exists in some quarters abroad and the fact that certain international economic problems of the greatest urgency still remain to be solved.

Problems Still Ahead.

"For the immediate future, therefore, interest centers on the possibility of a strengthening of economic fundamentals through international action on armaments, war debts, trade barriers, monetary stabilization, and the other questions that have been created or aggravated by the world depression. On two of these questions, armaments and war debts, action recently taken may lead to developments of primary importance. The outlook regarding trade barriers and monetary stabilization is more obscure, although the subjects are sure to be brought up at the international economic conference tentatively scheduled for the early part of the next year.

"If the winter brings genuine progress toward the solution of these problems, together with a maintenance and consolidation of the ground gained in the last few months, the business community as a whole will be well satisfied; for the fulfillment of these conditions will indicate that the strongest possible foundation has been laid for a new economic structure to supersede the one that has crumbled so badly in the last few years. The spring season may be regarded as a logical starting point for the sound recovery that should follow."

PUNISHMENT OF N. Y. EXCHANGE MEMBER EASED

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange has remitted the remainder of the one year suspension imposed upon Daniel Manning McKeon for his alleged bear raiding tactics last April.

McKeon's suspension followed a close inquiry by the exchange, which early in 1932 promised stringent action against any member who sought to profit through short selling of a character tending to demoralize the market. At that time the market was under extraordinary heavy liquidation.

The exchange also granted another year's time from Dec. 30, 1932, to Walker P. Hall to effect a settlement with the creditors of the suspended firm of Roberts & Hall of Cincinnati, of which he is a member. Roberts & Hall were dropped by the exchange in December, 1929, for insolvency. Hall is eligible for reinstatement when a settlement is made with the firm's creditors.

Wall Street Beset by Many Problems.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—Foreign debts have thrown the stock market completely out of gear for the time being.

As a result, the new week finds prices bumping along on what the trade knows as a "triple bottom," a level compounded in this case of the low averages of Oct. 10, Nov. 3 and Nov. 25. The October minimum—popularly regarded in the retrospect as a "resistance" level—was recorded in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's index of fifty representative stocks at 51.63, that of Nov. 3 at 51.70, and that of last Friday at $53.74.

The stage is, by common consent, a critical one, for the nearby term outlook, at any rate.

Business activity confessedly is again slanting downward and no one doubts that the final quarter and year-end earnings reports are going to drive home the disheartening lesson that corporation earnings failed miserably to keep pace with the autumn improvement in stocks.

Lame Duck Congress.

Then, the "lame duck" congress is coming on apace, with its plague of disturbing activities under the head of debts, taxes, tariffs and the like, and no market in history has ever been able to breathe easily with the Washington "bogey man" at hand. Finally, there's the portentous precedent of the month itself—December—traditionally marked by declining prices. The rule has held unbroken for the Decembers of the last four years and beyond that cycle loom statistics showing that eight of the last fifteen presidential election years have gone out to a twelve month drum beat of reactionary markets.

On the brighter side of the picture some observers profess to see indications of a "soldout" condition in the market and to bank hopes on it for an early recovery of some proportion, if for no other reason on technical grounds alone.

Prospects on Debts.

Even the debt situation is not so hopeless, it is insisted, as some of the more doleful commentators would have the street believe. As some commission house comment has been at some pains to point out here in the last few days, neither President Hoover nor President Elect Roosevelt went so far as to say that the debtors' case should not be tried, even though it was made clear that the December payments must be met.

Early enactment of beer legislation, the probability of a move before the session has gone far for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the evident determination of all hands to do something toward balancing the budget or other hopeful signs in the offing counted upon by the constructive element to offset the more bearish factors of the situation and nerve the market to take some of the hurdles confronting it in the next few weeks.

Sees Prospects Brighter.

Once by the turning point of the year, the market would have hopes of a spring revival to buoy it up, and there are those who insist that the prospects for a comeback then are better than they have been since the big 1929 crash. Meanwhile, the market's "friends" will be content to see it hold its own for the next five weeks—unless the administration should pull some miraculous rabbit out of a unsuspected bag of tricks to start things really humming in the interim.

BONDS DRAWN IN HUNGARY FOR REDEMPTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—Holders of National Hungarian Industrial Mortgage Institute, Ltd., first mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent bonds, series A dollar bonds, due on Nov. 1, 1948, and of Hungarian Land Mortgage institute 7½ per cent sinking fund land mortgage bonds, series A and B dollar bonds, due on May 1, 1961, have been notified by the Guaranty Trust company, as paying agent, that it has been advised that certain bonds of these three issues have been drawn in Hungary for redemption on May 1, 1933, at par and interest.

The bank states that although it is not known because of the moratorium whether funds can be provided here for payment of these bonds, it is understood there is some possibility that redemption funds in pengos may be available on the redemption in Hungary. Any pengos available in Hungary, it is added, will be subject to such restrictions as may be declared by the Hungarian government. Lists of the numbers drawn are available to bondholders at the main office of the paying agent.

RECEIVER FOR SURF HOTEL HAS CASH ON HAND

Reports $42,122 Balance for Year.

BY AL CHASE.

Cash amounting to $42,122 was reported yesterday by the Chicago Title & Trust company, receiver for the Surf apartment hotel, in a statement issued by C. J. Olsen, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for the Greenebaum Sons Investment company defaulted bond issues. The receiver's figures for the period from September 17, 1931 to September 30, 1932, show receipts of $52,570 and disbursements, $10,448, with a cash balance of $42,122.

MURRAY WOLBACH. [Walinger Photo.]

The original 6½% bond issue was for $1,500,000, since paid down to $1,300,000. Bonds were called for deposit on September 24, 1931. Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted but a decree of foreclosure has not yet been entered. The entire premises are under lease to the Surf Hotel company for two years beginning September 1, 1931 on a net rental basis of $5,000 per month.

General Abel Davis, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago Title & Trust company, is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. The other members are: Murray Wolbach, M. E. Greenebaum, John P. Olsen, Howard Loeb, Eugene V. R. Thayer and B. M. Winston.

Dearborn Plaza.

The bondholders' protective committee for defaulted Holzer, Inc., bond issues, reports receipts for the period from May 6, 1931, to Oct. 31, 1932, of $119,396 and total disbursements for the same period of $105,333, for the Dearborn Plaza, at 1030 North Dearborn street. This leaves $14,063 cash, of which $13,699 is held by the trustee and $364 by the owner, who is operating the property under bond.

The Dearborn Plaza was financed through a $645,000 first mortgage bond issue, paying interest at the rate of 6½ per cent. Nothing has been paid down on it. The appraised value of the property at the time of the underwriting was $986,500, and the net income estimated at $106,200.

Paulina Manor Apartments.

The Paulina Manor apartments, at 4531-37 North Paulina street, are being operated by the owner, who is turning over the rentals monthly to the trustee. A statement of receipts and disbursements just made public, for the period from Aug. 1, 1932, to Oct. 31, 1932, show money received as $2,995 and expenditures $2,406. Cash on hand on Oct. 31, 1932, was $589.

This was a State Bank of Chicago bond issue of $175,000 originally, since paid down to $135,000. The interest rate was 6 per cent.

Aged Sisters Need Funds.

TO THE EDITOR: I am a spinster 72 years of age and live with an unmarried sister seven years older. We own a home and a small farm, which has been the only source of income, but yields nothing at present. I have been an invalid and require the services of an attendant. I have shares of matured stock in the ——— Building and Loan association, Illinois.

Several months ago the secretary of the association told me he would put my name on the withdrawal list. Since then I have heard nothing. I am desperately in need of money to pay for a recent hospital bill and to meet my current expenses. I am told that the building and loan associations are eligible for loans from the Federal Home Loan bank. Can you offer me any suggestions? Our certificate number is 391; number of shares, 6, matured stock.—K. W.

ANSWER: In reply to our letter of Nov. 19 written in your behalf the secretary of the building and loan association replies as follows: "As you doubtless know, requests for the withdrawal of money from a building and loan association in the state of Illinois must be paid in the order in which said requests are filed, regardless of the personal needs of the individuals owning the stock on which the request is made. This rule is enforced very strictly by the auditor's office and we do not dare deviate from their instructions.

"However, to offset the injustice sometimes caused by the strict enforcement of the Illinois law, we are allowed to loan money on a stock certificate, at such times as we may have money to loan, at 7 per cent interest said loan being limited to 75 per cent of the book value of the stock. It is our suggestion that Miss ——— borrow $450 on her stock to tide her through the winter.

"For your information, the calls for loans have been so numerous that we have been forced to limit our loans to $75 to any individual in any thirty days. This will limit Miss ———'s borrowing capacity, but at the same time will allow her to realize $75 per month on her stock for six months, which should see her through."

ATTENTION OF "K. G.": Will the writer of letter signed "K. G." kindly send us the name of the mortgage holder as well as his own name and address? We believe your case can be adjusted if this information is furnished.

LAKE FREIGHTERS CARRY LEAST ORE IN LAST 47 YEARS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Lake freighters bearing ore from the iron deposits of the Lake Superior district to the ports nearest the midwest's steel centers this season carried their lightest burden in 47 years.

The report of the Lake Superior Ore association, made today as the last ore cargo of the season was still on its way from Escanaba, Mich., to Cleveland, showed that gross tonnage for this year was 3,567,985.

The total was the lowest since 1885, when the movement amounted to 2,468,446 gross tons. It was in this period that the loading and unloading of bulk freighters by hand was abandoned.

Last year 23,467,786 gross tons were transported. The heaviest traffic was during the years from 1923 to 1930, when ore shipments fluctuated between 42,623,572 gross tons in 1924 and 65,204,600 gross tons in 1929, the year a record was established.

November shipments this year amounted to 250,594 gross tons, compared with 420,524 gross tons during the same period a year ago.

LARD OUTPUT LARGER; PRICES OFF SHARPLY

Exporters and domestic consumers and distributors of lard are buying more sparingly and, with an increased production, enlargement in supplies is predicted during the past month. Liquidation in nearby and distant futures and hedging sales by packers featured the week, with the close at net declines of 15c to 55c, the latter on cash and November which closed at $4.45. Other deliveries were off 12½@15c while bellies were unchanged to 2½c lower for futures. Prices for the week follow:

DAD JOINER FILES $15,000,000 SUIT FOR OIL LEASES

Henderson, Tex., Nov. 27.—[U. P.]—Suit for $15,000,000 or the cancellation of leases in the East Texas oil fields, worth million of dollars, has been filed by C. M. [Dad] Joiner against the H. L. Hunt Production company, H. L. Hunt, individually and as trustee, and against P. G. Lake.

In the action, which involves a considerable part of the East Texas field, Joiner alleges he signed away his valuable rights to oil field lands after developments at the "Deep Rock" well had been withheld from him as the result of his having been "kept in the rooms of a Dallas hotel while drilling operations were in progress in November, 1930."

Stock of Brazilian Coffee in U. S. Sharply Reduced

Stocks of Brazilian coffee now in the United States have been sharply reduced as compared with a year ago. They now total, says the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange, 270,019 bags against 931,523 at this time in 1931.

CANADA LOSES IN WHEAT TRADING, CHECK INDICATES

Grain Men Estimate Cost at $15,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 27.—The results of the Canadian government's efforts to stabilize wheat prices in the last 22 months have been causing much speculation among grain traders.

Veteran operators place the losses at more than $15,000,000 since John I. McFarland, head of the Central Selling agency of the Canadian wheat pool, took over the agency on behalf of the federal government in November, 1930.

At that time the Canadian wheat pools found themselves in possession of large quantities of wheat. Some of this wheat had cost the pools as high as $1 per bushel, and the balance was acquired at prices as low as 50 and 55 cents. The pools got into financial difficulties. The governments of the three prairie provinces of Canada came to their rescue but could not help. The problem was brought to the Canadian government with the result that McFarland was placed in charge and the Canadian treasury underwrote the banks' advances on this wheat.

Held 75,000,000 Bushels.

McFarland inherited about 75,000,000 bushels of wheat. He is believed to have taken on the job of disposing of it as a public service, accepting no salary.

McFarland is said to have had the vision, at the outset, of so handling the wheat as to reap a profit sufficiently large to meet all costs and yield profits which would refund to the provinces all costs sustained on their guarantees.

In February, 1931, Mr. McFarland is said to have converted the pool carry over at about 55 cents per bushel into "paper wheat" in the Winnipeg futures market. It is believed little if any of the wheat has been sold. Each year the west has requested the Canadian government to continue to hold this "paper" grain off the market to give the new crop right-of-way.

Now Costs 76 Cents a Bushel.

Averaging the price of this 75,000,000 bushels at the time Mr. McFarland took it over at 55 cents, it is clear that storage on futures and conversion charges have been piling up since February, 1931, at the rate of about 1 cent per bushel per month, adding 21 cents per bushel to the price. In other words wheat would have to sell at 76 cents in order that the government break even. But wheat is selling at about 50 cents, which would indicate a loss of 27 cents per bushel, or $15,750,000 at the current price level.

But this covers but one phase of the government's grain operations. In addition, McFarland is said to have run a "scalping" account, with treasury support. He has sought to steady, even stiffen, prices. He has bought on the down turns, sold on the up turns.

Made Profit in 1932.

Since the "scalping" account has been in use, wheat prices have soared as high as 77 cents, but every rise has been followed by a fall, and in recent weeks wheat touched an all time low of 45 cents. It is understood Mr. McFarland made substantial profits on his scalping operations in 1931. How he stands in 1932 is another matter.

A few weeks ago prices skidded badly when a rumor was circulated to the effect that the government was about to cease its stabilization operations. The rumor, it is learned, was untrue. McFarland is still operating in this way.

As to the extent of the government's holdings, no reliable estimate is available. It is understood it is well in excess of 110,000,000 bushels, perhaps as much as 150,000,000 bushels. This figure, would include the original carry over of 75,000,000 bushels.

ARGENTINA HIRES BRITISH BANKER TO GIVE ADVICE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 27.—Finance Minister Alberto Hueyo has announced he has contracted with Sir Otto Niemeyer, director of the Bank of England, to come to Buenos Aires to study the financial and economic situation and advise the government on measures to be taken, especially in regard to exchange, banking, and currency.

The engagement of foreign counsel follows the resignation of five members of the honorary advisory committee of Argentine financial and business leaders, whose suggestions were rejected by Señor Hueyo.

Sir Otto made a similar study in Brazil last year and recommended the defaulting of foreign loan payments as one of several measures which aroused considerable opposition, but eventually were adopted.

S. O. California President on 'Share the Work' Journey

Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of Standard Oil Company of California is in New York, but his presence there is said to be in connection with the "share the work" movement rather than for further negotiations toward merger of his company with Standard of New Jersey. Executives of both corporations agreed to a consolidation more than a year ago provided a basis for an exchange of shares could be reached.

9,190 Rail Locomotives in Need of Repair on Nov. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 27.—The ratio of locomotives in disrepair rose to a new high level on Nov. 1, according to the American Railway association. There were 9,190 locomotives in need of classified repairs on that date, or 17.8 per cent of the number in line, against 8,875, or 17.1 per cent, on Oct. 1. The roads had 9,008 serviceable locomotives in storage on Nov. 1, against 10,174 on Oct. 1.

STEEL INDUSTRY RETAINS GAINS; EXPECTS UPTURN

Outlook for First Quarter of 1933 Is Bright.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Reappraising its outlook for the final stretch of the year, the iron and steel industry is more confident of retaining the basic improvement of September and October and resuming the upturn in the first quarter of 1933, said Steel today.

Trustworthy indicators now point to a progressively easier market situation the remainder of the year, but the declaration is likely to be moderate and stay within seasonal bounds, the magazine stated in its weekly survey.

Auto Demand Holds Up.

"In some products, the declines in demand noted the last two weeks have been temporarily arrested," the magazine said. "Additional, though small, releases for automotive consumption reinforce this principal support of the market and assures substantial shipments to Detroit further into December than seemed probable.

"Railroad and building steel needs, in the aggregate, continue disappointing, and already the blight of restricted purchasing, because of the approach of the inventory season, is felt."

Confirming better sentiment over the outlook, however, the magazine finds "producers of finished steel are unusually early in announcing first quarter prices. Sheet prices have been reaffirmed with the exception of No. 24 hot rolled annealed, advanced $2. Hot and cold rolled strip and bolt, nut and rivet quotations have been extended and wire prices presumably will be short."

Holiday Aids Decline.

Decline in steel making operation last week "which under normal conditions would have been a point, was aggravated a half point by the Thanksgiving holiday. For that period production was 17½ per cent. If Pittsburgh mills recoup the 2 point loss sustained last week, as now scheduled, an offset may be supplied to seasonal easiness in other districts.

"With the final cargo loaded, the lake movement of iron ore this year approximates 3,575,000 tons, compared with 23,497,686 tons a year ago, the latter including a small all rail movement. Stocks at furnaces and Lake Erie docks Nov. 1, however, were 1,700,000 tons lower than a year ago."

Humble Oil Company Wins $330,393 U. S. Tax Refund

SOLUTION TO AN ALMOST PERFECT ALIBI

The servant's insistence that she saw Patrie rowing south on the river at the time Patrie claimed to be walking north, convinced Fordney that Patrie's alibi was faked. He reasoned it could only have been done with two pairs of shoes exactly the same.

Patrie had made the tracks before he claimed to have, with a new pair of shoes exactly the same as those his housekeeper observed him wearing for the first time on the night of the murder.

This latter pair he destroyed, turning over the pair which had actually made the tracks to the housekeeper for cleaning. She naturally assumed this was the pair she saw him wearing when leaving the house at 7 p. m. the night of the murder.

Patrie's mistake was buying both pairs of shoes at the same time from the same store.
